48 Are Reported Dead In German Plane Crash

Frankfurt, Germany, Oct. 14 (AP)—A Sabena (Belgian) Air Lines plane crashed and burned near Frankfurt today. The U. S. Civil Aviation Board said "all 48 persons aboard were killed."

German police at the scene said 45 bodies were found in the charred wreckage.

The plane had arrived at Rhein main airport from Salzburg, Austria, and was taking off for Brussels. An eyewitness said the two-engine Convair took off with difficulty. It banked in an apparent effort to return to the field, then crashed and burned.

Wisconsin District Picks Democrat for First in History

Small Town Legal Aide Chosen to Succeed Hull—Padrutt Is Loser

Eau Claire, Wis., Oct. 14 (AP)—Rural west central Wisconsin elected a Democrat to Congress Tuesday for the first time in its history.

And the Republican who lost said the results "showed clearly that farmer and laboring man do no like the present administration's policies."

Thus ended one of the most unusual elections in Wisconsin's unpredictable political history.

The man who won the special election for Ninth District representative to succeed the late Merlin F. Hull, a Republican and former Progressive, was Lester R. Johnson, 52, a small town district attorney from Black River Falls and also a former Progressive.

The loser was State Sen. Arthur L. Padrutt, 36, who has spent 11 years in the Wiscon Legislature and like Hull and Johnson also a former Progressive.

Promises to Vote Like Hull

Johnson keyed his campaign to a promise to vote the same way as Hull had voted. He also denounced the administration's farm policy.

Padrutt never discussed his background as a Progressive nor did he mention Hull while he stumped the district, but stressed that he was "four square" behind President Eisenhower and his administration.

It had been anticipated that the vote would be very light and the Republicans predicted not more than 30,000 votes would be cast. In contrast the election drew nearly 50,000 voters, which however, is less than a third of the estimated 150,000 eligible electors in the district.

Unofficial returns in 399 of 401 precincts in 11 counties that make up the district gave: Johnson 27,790; Padrutt 21,097.

The two missing precincts were from small rural communities which would have little bearing on the result.

Was Fifth Special

Tuesday's was the nation's fifth special congressional election since Eisenhower was elected president in 1952. Democrats filled seats vacated by Democrats in South Carolina, Kentucky, Illinois and Virginia. This was the first reversal by one party of the other in such an election. As a result of yesterday's election, the House of Representatives now has 218 Republicans 214 Democrats, one Independent and two vacancies.

Tito Calls Chief Aides To Meeting

Biggest Mass Protest Is Staged Against West by Thousands in Belgrade

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Oct. 14 (AP)—Irate Yugoslavs stepped up their anti-western demonstrations over Trieste as President Tito today awaited the outcome of U. S. Secretary of State Dulles' trip to London.

With thousands of shouting demonstrators storming Belgrade's streets, the Yugoslav chief assembled his top lieutenants for a conference last night shortly after it was announced that the "Big Three" foreign ministers would confer Friday in the British capital.

Although there was no word on what the cabinet discussed, it was thought Tito might be considering sending a special representative to press Yugoslavia's viewpoint on the ministers. Tito previously had called for a four-power conference of the United States, Britain, Italy and Yugoslavia to search for a solution of the explosive issue.

No Official Reaction

There also was no official reaction to Russia's surprise demand at the United Nations that the Security Council quickly name an international governor for the entire Trieste territory and make it independent. Informed sources in New York, however, described Yugoslavia's UN representatives as "indifferent but not too happy" over the proposal.

High Yugoslav officials here continued to warn of serious trouble to come if Britain and America carry out their plan to give the allied-occupied zone of Trieste to Italy.

Protest Is Staged

Tens of thousands, of angry citizens last night staged Belgrade's biggest mass protest so far against the western decision. Repeatedly they howled:

"Give us rifles."

"Beat up the Italian thieves."

"Down with Italy."

"We'll give up our lives, but not an inch of Trieste."

Earlier yesterday crowds had attacked the British reading room and manhandled an American student and a Yugoslav who entered the U. S. Information Service headquarters. The USIS director was beaten up Monday.

Tito has publicly proclaimed his country's determination to send its armed forces into Zone A—including the strategic port city of Trieste—if and when Italy takes over the area.

Ask for Solution

(The New York Times said today that despite the Yugoslav threats and violence, Tito's government is asking the United States and Britain for a Trieste solution that would enable Italy to take over Zone A.

(In a dispatch from its correspondent in Belgrade, the Times said Tito is demanding that this solution include a British-American guarantee against further Italian expansion along the Adriatic toward Yugoslavia.

(In Belgrade, however, Yugoslav Deputy Foreign Secretary Ales Bebler flatly denied the Times report. "It is not correct," he said, adding, "there are no new moves and there are no new proposals by Yugoslavia.")

In Trieste port, meanwhile, anti-Italian parties angrily protested an allied ban on public meetings and called a giant rally later today in defiance. The territory's 4,400-man police force was put on the alert for possible trouble but local officials said they did not expect to call on the 7,000 British and American occupation troops for assistance.

There is considerable sentiment within the city of Trieste to keep the 7,000 allied occupation troops there and to maintain it as an international port.

This was the idea when the 320-square-mile Trieste territory was taken from Italy after World War 2 and divided between allied and Yugoslav occupation forces.

That Is McCarthy Statement, but Army Has No Word

New York, Oct. 14 (AP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R.-Wis.) said today a "top scientist" for the Army Signal Corps had admitted taking 43 secret documents from Ft. Monmouth, N. J., to his home for "study."

McCarthy told newsmen the man described himself as a "close friend" of Julius Rosenberg, who was executed at Sing Sing Prison as an atomic bomb spy for Russia.

The senator quoted the witness as saying he attended meetings of the Young Communist League with Rosenberg and that Rosenberg solicited him "repeatedly" to join the Communist Party.

Documents Taken

New York, Oct. 14 (AP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R.-Wis.) said today a number of top secret army documents dealing with radar and other matters "turned up" in the Russian-occupied section of Germany and "were used by the Communists."

This followed a statement by Sen. Everett M. Dirkson (R.-Ill.) yesterday that 26 of 57 top secret documents missing from the Army Signal Corps radar laboratory at Fort Monmouth, N. J., were found in the Russian zone.

Had No Information

In Washington, the army first said it had no information on the finding of any such papers in Germany. Later, it amended the statement to say it had "no information to give out."

McCarthy is chairman of the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee conducting closed hearings in New York into the possibility of Communist subversion at Ft. Monmouth.

"We have completely convincing testimony that some of those documents on radar and other matters did turn up in East Berlin, but as to the number, I will not comment," McCarthy told newsmen prior to today's subcommittee session.

Radar is used as part of a defense network to detect the approach of enemy aircraft—in short, a defense mechanism against atom attack.

To Be Questioned

Two of five civilian experts were employed at Fort Monmouth were scheduled for questioning by the subcommittee today.

They are Hyam Gerber Yamins, a radar specialist who was assigned by the Army Signal Corps to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology as a liaison officer, and Harold Ducore, an electronics engineer.

A Chicago Tribune story quoted Dirksen as saying in a speech in Chicago Tuesday night that 26 of 57 secret documents had disappeared from the laboratory and had been found in the Russian zone.

Later in an interview today Dirksen said "there is indisputable evidence that 'X' number of secret documents" had disappeared

Wilson Says Time Too Early to Guess 1954 Arms Outlay

Secretary Spars Queries at News Conference; Says 'Progress' Is Made

Washington, Oct. 14 (AP) — The military's first rough guess about what will be needed in way of men, munitions and money for next year appeared today to have encountered a diffident response from the top level National Security Council.

Secretary of Defense Wilson and a score of his chief uniformed and civilian advisers went to the Security Council meeting yesterday with unanimous but preliminary recommendations of the joint chiefs of staff on force levels and probable commitments for the year beginning next July.

President Eisenhower presided at the meeting which was long.

Back at the Pentagon in the afternoon, Wilson held his weekly news conference. A few weeks ago he had hinted about the possibility of clipping a couple of billion dollars off military spending next fiscal year.

'Too Early,' He Says

But, fresh back from the Security Council meeting, he talked cautiously about it being "too early" to guess the size of next year's outlay.

He subscribed to a pronouncement earlier in the day by White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty that speculation on the military budget might be premature and possibly inaccurate. Wilson sparred with all questioners.

He conceded that the joint chiefs—the military commanders of the army, navy and air force and the chairman, Adm. Arthur W. Radford — arrived at force size estimates unhampered by considerations of economics. This wasn't unusual. The joint chiefs are supposed to look only upon bald military necessities.

'Very High' Outlook

A reporter, evidently having in mind the spectre of the Russian atomic menace and what can be done to prevent or fight it off, wanted to know how high continental defenses loomed in the "new look" which the joint chiefs have been giving the military situation.

"Very high; it's up in the top of the tree," Wilson answered cryptically.

That could mean that continental defense might have been a perplexing and costly item in the

Wicks' Test May Decide Future of State GOP for '54

Victory for Senate Leader Could Mean Dewey Would Not Run Another Time

Albany, Oct. 14 (AP)—The stage is set for an all-out test of strength between Gov. Dewey and acting Lt. Gov. Arthur H. Wicks in the Senate next month over Dewey's attempt to force Wicks out of his Senate leadership.

Dewey's own political future—as well as Wicks' and perhaps that of the Republican party in next year's gubernatorial election—appears at stake in the tug of war between the GOP leaders.

The governor seemed to imply confidence in his position yesterday when he called the Legislature into special session Nov. 17 so the Senate could pass on the Wicks case and both Houses could take up reapportionment of legislative district.

Dewey's move followed by less than 24 hours his request—and Wicks's refusal—that the Kingston senator immediately give up his post as Senate majority leader because of his visits to labor extortionist Joseph S. Fay in Sing Sing Prison.

Executive Order Is Issued by Eisenhower for All Government Employes

Washington, Oct. 14 (AP)—President Eisenhower today made it a firing offense for government employes to refuse to testify before congressional committees on grounds of possible self-incrimination.

The President issued an executive order adding this to the existing grounds for dismissal of a federal worker for security reasons.

The order permits action against the individual for:

"Refusal by the individual, upon the ground of constitutional privilege against self-incrimination to testify before a congressional committee regarding charges of his alleged disloyalty or other misconduct."

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said this was an effort to "close up all possible loopholes" in the government's security machinery.

He said Atty. Gen. Brownell would enlarge upon the Fifth Amendment question at a speech this afternoon at the National Press Club.

The timing of the order appeared to stem in part from the current Senate investigation of alleged security leaks from the Ft. Monmouth, N. J., Army Signal Corps laboratory.

Stevens at Hearing

Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens has been sitting in on the closed hearings in New York by Sen. McCarthy's (R.-Wis.) investigations committee. Stevens said yesterday that any civilian employe of the army who refused to answer questions on communism at the hearings would be "summarily suspended."

The President's order had the effect of giving full White House backing to Stevens' stand.

The Eisenhower administration set up last April a security program which the President said was designed to keep "the disloyal and dangerous" out of federal jobs. It replaced previous loyalty-security tests put in during the Truman administration.

Adds Eighth Reason

Today's order adds an eighth reason for taking action against a government employe. Seven were set out in April. They were:

1. Any behavior showing the individual is not reliable or trustworthy.

2. Commission of any act of sabotage, espionage, treason or sedition.

3. Establishing or continuing a sympathetic association with spies or saboteurs.

4. Advocacy of use of force or violence to overthrow the government.

5. Membership in, or affiliation

Fire Horns May Be In Use January 1, Murphy Reports

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy today indicated a possibility of a new local fire alarm system in service by Jan. 1.

This, the chief said, is a possibility, but he added there was no guarantee that the air horns, which are to replace a bell system more than 50 years old, will all be installed and ready by that time.

Preliminary work for installation of the air horns is now in progress. Two type horns will be installed. One will require an air tank with piping to the horn, and the other, more compact, will not require a tank.

Given Tests

One type horn will also sound in lower pitch than the other. The two types were given tests last week and Chief Murphy indicated that these proved satisfactory.

Some of the piping used with the tank type horn is now being installed. The chief indicated that in instances where two fire houses are comparatively close, one horn will have the high pitch and the other will be lower.

Chief Murphy said he is still hopeful of using some of the bells, which have served the city for more than half a century as memorials to the volunteer firemen.

Swedish Academy Meets

Stockholm, Sweden, Oct. 14 (AP)—The Swedish Academy meets tomorrow afternoon to decide on the 1953 winner of the Nobel prize for literature. Two Stockholm newspapers said the academy already had made up its mind to award the prize to Britain's Prime Minister Churchill. American novelist Ernest Hemingway was said to be the other contender for this year's award. The papers said the academy had advanced the meeting from the usual date late in November to give Churchill time to prepare for his trip to Stockholm to receive the prize. It amounts to 175,292 Swedish crowns ($33,840). The only comment the academy would make was that the meeting had been set ahead because of "special circumstances."

Cane Is Burned

Georgetown, British Guiana, Oct. 14 (AP)—Smoke from burning canefields hung over Georgetown today, pointing up a threat of economic distress to this troubled British colony. Fires blazed on at least two nearby sugar plantations after workers walked out in protest against the British ouster of government ministers from the colony's leftwing People's Progressive party. With strikes paralyzing or slowing most of the sugar industry—British Guiana's principal source of income, observers predicted the pinch would come soon. Businessmen already complained of a drastic drop in trade.

Washington, Oct. 14 (AP) — The position of the treasury Oct. 12: Cash balance, $5,898,814,918.03; budget receipts fiscal year July 1, $14,911,107,202.29; budget expenditures fiscal year, $20,322,496,857.72; budget deficit, $5,411,389,655.43; total debt, $272,918,847,244.98; gold assets, $22,128,846,535.26.

Truck Goes Off Highway South of Port Ewen; Local Priest Is Unhurt

Two persons were taken to the Benedictine Hospital early yesterday afternoon following a collision on Route 9W about three miles south of Port Ewen.

The accident, which occurred near the airport property, involved a 1952 sedan, operated by the Rev. Joseph A. Geis of 93 Wurts street, pastor of St. Peter's Catholic Church, and a 1952 tractor-trailer owned by the Van Rompay Trucking Company of Chester, operated by John Novak, 40, also of Chester, state police of the Highland station reported.

Off Road, Overturned

Troopers said the car and the tractor-trailer were both proceeding south when the sedan was forced to slow down for a car ahead. The tractor-trailer swung to the right in an attempt to avoid the car, went off the west shoulder of the highway and overturned.

Novak suffered a laceration of the left hand, troopers said. A passenger in the truck, Mrs. Mildred Clearwater of Stony Hollow, suffered shock. Both were reported this morning by hospital authorities to be in "good" condition.

Father Geis told The Freeman today that he was not hurt and that his car had only received a "scratched fender."

Ship Reaches France

Le Havre, France, Oct. 14 (AP)—The 1,355-ton Norwegian ship Eika, which sent out a frantic SOS Sunday that it was sinking due to "sabotage on board," arrived at Le Havre today safe and sound. Her skipper said the ship never had been in trouble. The captain told the Norwegian consul at Rouen, who was sent aboard to investigate, that the ship's radio operator transmitted the false message which had sent other vessels off the coast of Brittany steaming to the Eika's rescue. The consul said the operator now was locked in a cabin and needed medical treatment—presumably for a nervous breakdown. He will be taken off the ship at Rouen.

Dodgers Drop Boss Dressen

Brooklyn, Oct. 14 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers today dropped Charlie Dressen as manager.

Dressen led the Dodgers to National League championships in 1952 and 1953, but lost to the New York Yankees in the World Series both years.

The failure of Dressen and the Dodgers to come to terms for 1954 was a complete surprise to baseball observers, who expected Dressen to return at in increase in pay.

President Walter O'Malley in making the announcement said he and Dressen had been unable to come to terms after a lengthy conference yesterday.

Asked 3-Year Contract

He said that Dressen demanded a three-year contract and that it was not the policy of the Brooklyn club to sign a manager for more than one season. He said that was the only factor in Dressen's resignation.

Dressen said he had no immediate plans. Mrs. Dressen is in a Long Island hospital for observation and treatment, and he said they would leave for their home on the west coast as soon as she is released.

Federal Grand Jury Returns For Greenlease Case Review

Kansas City, Oct. 14 (AP)—A federal grand jury was called back into session today to take up the kidnap-slaying of Bobby Greenlease.

U. S. District Judge Richard M. Duncan issued the order calling the 23-member body back from a recess for the week of Oct. 25.

He acted at the request of Edward L. Scheufler, U. S. district attorney, who earlier had filed kidnap charges under the Lindbergh law against the two confessed kidnapers, Carl Austin Hall, 34, and Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, 41.

Grand jury indictments would have the effect of backing up the information already filed by the district attorney.

Scheufler said he would handle the prosecution personally.

As the call for the jury was issued FBI agents sought to pry new information from the kidnap-killers of the six-year-old son of a wealthy Kansas City motor car dealer.

They were reported seeking some clue that might lead to the $300,000 of ransom money still missing.

Approximately half of the record $600,000 ransom paid by multi-millionaire automobile dealer Robert C. Greenlease has been recovered.

Hall, who admitted killing 6-year-old Bobby and burying his body in a lime-filled grave, first said he thought he lost $300,000 while on a drinking spree in St. Louis. Later he said he believed Mrs. Heady lost the money.

If Mrs. Hedy has offiered any information on the $300,000, officers have not disclosed it.

Eisenhower Says America Desirous of Peace Alone

Hershey, Pa., Oct. 14 (AP)—President Eisenhower's birthday message to the world is this: America wants peace—nothing else.

He voiced that sentiment last night at the climax of a 10-hour excursion to this little Pennsylvania town, where he came to cut a mammoth birthday cake and celebrate with fellow Republicans.

Today the President is 63, and he is observing the day back in the White House in Washington with a business-as-usual schedule. The big celebration was last night, with the crowd jammed in the 7,000-seat Hershey Arena chanting: "We like Ike."

The President, accepting as a birthday gift the establishment of an international scholarship foundation, said the world's greatest need is understanding among nations, and he declared:

"What we need is understanding and this understanding will come from these young men and women as they go back and forth....and others....will carry back with them the skills and techniques of our country and ours will bring back the skills and techniques of another country.

"But that will take understanding, an understanding of America's heart: That she wants peace—nothing else."

For Eisenhower and his Mamie, their motor trip through the autumn-tinted Maryland and Pennsylvania countryside was only an introduction to a night of fun and frolic with some 20,000 Pennsylvania Republicans who enriched their party's coffers by a net of about $400,000.

The President told the arena crowd he didn't think anyone had ever had such a birthday. He

Small Town Legal Aide Chosen to Succeed Hull—Padrutt Is Loser

Eau Claire, Wis., Oct. 14 (AP)—Rural west central Wisconsin elected a Democrat to Congress Tuesday for the first time in its history.

And the Republican who lost said the results "showed clearly that farmer and laboring man do no like the present administration's policies."

Thus ended one of the most unusual elections in Wisconsin's unpredictable political history.

The man who won the special election for Ninth District representative to succeed the late Merlin F. Hull, a Republican and former Progressive, was Lester R. Johnson, 52, a small town district attorney from Black River Falls and also a former Progressive.

The loser was State Sen. Arthur L. Padrutt, 36, who has spent 11 years in the Wiscon Legislature and like Hull and Johnson also a former Progressive.

Promises to Vote Like Hull

Johnson keyed his campaign to a promise to vote the same way as Hull had voted. He also denounced the administration's farm policy.

Padrutt never discussed his background as a Progressive nor did he mention Hull while he stumped the district, but stressed that he was "four square" behind President Eisenhower and his administration.

It had been anticipated that the vote would be very light and the Republicans predicted not more than 30,000 votes would be cast. In contrast the election drew nearly 50,000 voters, which however, is less than a third of the estimated 150,000 eligible electors in the district.

Unofficial returns in 399 of 401 precincts in 11 counties that make up the district gave: Johnson 27,790; Padrutt 21,097.

The two missing precincts were from small rural communities which would have little bearing on the result.

Was Fifth Special

Tuesday's was the nation's fifth special congressional election since Eisenhower was elected president in 1952. Democrats filled seats vacated by Democrats in South Carolina, Kentucky, Illinois and Virginia. This was the first reversal by one party of the other in such an election. As a result of yesterday's election, the House of Representatives now has 218 Republicans 214 Democrats, one Independent and two vacancies.

Although some Democratic

Brooklyn, Oct. 14 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers today dropped Charlie Dressen as manager.

Dressen led the Dodgers to National League championships in 1952 and 1953, but lost to the New York Yankees in the World Series both years.

The failure of Dressen and the Dodgers to come to terms for 1954 was a complete surprise to baseball observers, who expected Dressen to return at in increase in pay.

President Walter O'Malley in making the announcement said he and Dressen had been unable to come to terms after a lengthy conference yesterday.

Asked 3-Year Contract

He said that Dressen demanded a three-year contract and that it was not the policy of the Brooklyn club to sign a manager for more than one season. He said that was the only factor in Dressen's resignation.

Dressen said he had no immediate plans. Mrs. Dressen is in a Long Island hospital for observation and treatment, and he said they would leave for their home on the west coast as soon as she is released.

Three-year-old Garry Gantt lets out a wail as Melvin Nance, left, tries to pull him free from a post hole at Kansas City where he became stuck while playing. Wilson Says Time Too Early to Guess 1954 Arms Outlay

Secretary Spars Queries at News Conference; Says 'Progress' Is Made

Washington, Oct. 14 (AP) — The military's first rough guess about what will be needed in way of men, munitions and money for next year appeared today to have encountered a diffident response from the top level National Security Council.

Secretary of Defense Wilson and a score of his chief uniformed and civilian advisers went to the Security Council meeting yesterday with unanimous but preliminary recommendations of the joint chiefs of staff on force levels and probable commitments for the year beginning next July.

President Eisenhower presided at the meeting which was long.

Back at the Pentagon in the afternoon, Wilson held his weekly news conference. A few weeks ago he had hinted about the possibility of clipping a couple of billion dollars off military spending next fiscal year.

'Too Early,' He Says

But, fresh back from the Security Council meeting, he talked cautiously about it being "too early" to guess the size of next year's outlay.

He subscribed to a pronouncement earlier in the day by White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty that speculation on the military budget might be premature and possibly inaccurate. Wilson sparred with all questioners.

He conceded that the joint chiefs—the military commanders of the army, navy and air force and the chairman, Adm. Arthur W. Radford — arrived at force size estimates unhampered by considerations of economics. This wasn't unusual. The joint chiefs are supposed to look only upon bald military necessities.

'Very High' Outlook

A reporter, evidently having in mind the spectre of the Russian atomic menace and what can be done to prevent or fight it off, wanted to know how high continental defenses loomed in the "new look" which the joint chiefs have been giving the military situation.

"Very high; it's up in the top of the tree," Wilson answered cryptically.

Victory for Senate Leader Could Mean Dewey Would Not Run Another Time

Albany, Oct. 14 (AP)—The stage is set for an all-out test of strength between Gov. Dewey and acting Lt. Gov. Arthur H. Wicks in the Senate next month over Dewey's attempt to force Wicks out of his Senate leadership.

Dewey's own political future—as well as Wicks' and perhaps that of the Republican party in next year's gubernatorial election—appears at stake in the tug of war between the GOP leaders.

The governor seemed to imply confidence in his position yesterday when he called the Legislature into special session Nov. 17 so the Senate could pass on the Wicks case and both Houses could take up reapportionment of legislative district.

Dewey's move followed by less than 24 hours his request—and Wicks's refusal—that the Kingston senator immediately give up his post as Senate majority leader because of his visits to labor extortionist Joseph S. Fay in Sing Sing Prison.

Felt He Had Friends

Eisenhower Says America Desirous of Peace Alone

Hershey, Pa., Oct. 14 (AP)—President Eisenhower's birthday message to the world is this: America wants peace—nothing else.

He voiced that sentiment last night at the climax of a 10-hour excursion to this little Pennsylvania town, where he came to cut a mammoth birthday cake and celebrate with fellow Republicans.

Today the President is 63, and he is observing the day back in the White House in Washington with a business-as-usual schedule. The big celebration was last night, with the crowd jammed in the 7,000-seat Hershey Arena chanting: "We like Ike."

The President, accepting as a birthday gift the establishment of an international scholarship foundation, said the world's greatest need is understanding among nations, and he declared:

"What we need is understanding and this understanding will come from these young men and women as they go back and forth....and others....will carry back with them the skills and techniques of our country and ours will bring back the skills and techniques of another country.

"But that will take understanding, an understanding of America's heart: That she wants peace—nothing else."

For Eisenhower and his Mamie, their motor trip through the autumn-tinted Maryland and Pennsylvania countryside was only an introduction to a night of fun and frolic with some 20,000 Pennsylvania Republicans who enriched their party's coffers by a net of about $400,000.

The President told the arena crowd he didn't think anyone had ever had such a birthday. He

That Is McCarthy Statement, but Army Has No Word

New York, Oct. 14 (AP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R.-Wis.) said today a "top scientist" for the Army Signal Corps had admitted taking 43 secret documents from Ft. Monmouth, N. J., to his home for "study."

McCarthy told newsmen the man described himself as a "close friend" of Julius Rosenberg, who was executed at Sing Sing Prison as an atomic bomb spy for Russia.

The senator quoted the witness as saying he attended meetings of the Young Communist League with Rosenberg and that Rosenberg solicited him "repeatedly" to join the Communist Party.

Documents Taken

New York, Oct. 14 (AP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R.-Wis.) said today a number of top secret army documents dealing with radar and other matters "turned up" in the Russian-occupied section of Germany and "were used by the Communists."

This followed a statement by Sen. Everett M. Dirkson (R.-Ill.) yesterday that 26 of 57 top secret documents missing from the Army Signal Corps radar laboratory at Fort Monmouth, N. J., were found in the Russian zone.

Had No Information

In Washington, the army first said it had no information on the finding of any such papers in Germany. Later, it amended the statement to say it had "no information to give out."

McCarthy is chairman of the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee conducting closed hearings in New York into the possibility of Communist subversion at Ft. Monmouth.

"We have completely convincing testimony that some of those documents on radar and other matters did turn up in East Berlin, but as to the number, I will not comment," McCarthy told newsmen prior to today's subcommittee session.

Radar is used as part of a defense network to detect the approach of enemy aircraft—in short, a defense mechanism against atom attack.

To Be Questioned

Two of five civilian experts were employed at Fort Monmouth were scheduled for questioning by the subcommittee today.

They are Hyam Gerber Yamins, a radar specialist who was assigned by the Army Signal Corps to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology as a liaison officer, and Harold Ducore, an electronics engineer.

A Chicago Tribune story quoted Dirksen as saying in a speech in Chicago Tuesday night that 26 of 57 secret documents had disappeared from the laboratory and had been found in the Russian zone.

Later in an interview today Dirksen said "there is indisputable evidence that 'X' number of secret documents" had disappeared

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Oct. 14 (AP)—Irate Yugoslavs stepped up their anti-western demonstrations over Trieste as President Tito today awaited the outcome of U. S. Secretary of State Dulles' trip to London.

With thousands of shouting demonstrators storming Belgrade's streets, the Yugoslav chief assembled his top lieutenants for a conference last night shortly after it was announced that the "Big Three" foreign ministers would confer Friday in the British capital.

Although there was no word on what the cabinet discussed, it was thought Tito might be considering sending a special representative to press Yugoslavia's viewpoint on the ministers. Tito previously had called for a four-power conference of the United States, Britain, Italy and Yugoslavia to search for a solution of the explosive issue.

No Official Reaction

There also was no official reaction to Russia's surprise demand at the United Nations that the Security Council quickly name an international governor for the entire Trieste territory and make it independent. Informed sources in New York, however, described Yugoslavia's UN representatives as "indifferent but not too happy" over the proposal.

High Yugoslav officials here continued to warn of serious trouble to come if Britain and America carry out their plan to give the allied-occupied zone of Trieste to Italy.

Protest Is Staged

Tens of thousands, of angry citizens last night staged Belgrade's biggest mass protest so far against the western decision. Repeatedly they howled:

"Give us rifles."

"Beat up the Italian thieves."

"Down with Italy."

"We'll give up our lives, but not an inch of Trieste."

Earlier yesterday crowds had attacked the British reading room and manhandled an American student and a Yugoslav who entered the U. S. Information Service headquarters. The USIS director was beaten up Monday.

Tito has publicly proclaimed his country's determination to send its armed forces into Zone A—including the strategic port city of Trieste—if and when Italy takes over the area.

Ask for Solution

(The New York Times said today that despite the Yugoslav threats and violence, Tito's government is asking the United States and Britain for a Trieste solution that would enable Italy to take over Zone A.

(In a dispatch from its correspondent in Belgrade, the Times said Tito is demanding that this solution include a British-American guarantee against further Italian expansion along the Adriatic toward Yugoslavia.

(In Belgrade, however, Yugoslav Deputy Foreign Secretary Ales Bebler flatly denied the Times report. "It is not correct," he said, adding, "there are no new moves and there are no new proposals by Yugoslavia.")

In Trieste port, meanwhile, anti-Italian parties angrily protested an allied ban on public meetings and called a giant rally later today in defiance. The territory's 4,400-man police force was put on the alert for possible trouble but local officials said they did not expect to call on the 7,000 British and American occupation troops for assistance.

There is considerable sentiment within the city of Trieste to keep the 7,000 allied occupation troops there and to maintain it as an international port.

This was the idea when the 320-square-mile Trieste territory was taken from Italy after World War 2 and divided between allied and Yugoslav occupation forces.

Returns to London

London, Oct. 14 (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II returned to London today after a holiday in Scotland. She faces a full appointment schedule before leaving on her Commonwealth tour Nov. 23. On Nov. 3 the Queen will give her speech from the throne at the state opening of Parliament. That speech, written by Prime Minister Churchill, will outline the Conservative government's aims for the session.

Social Security Law Provisions

George J. Johnson, manager of the Social Security Administration here, submits the following article on provisions of the Social Security Act:

Lack of information and misinformation are twin hazards that are met in every walk of life. Usually when one or the other are found, the individual concerned suffers some kind of a loss. In the administration of the old-age and survivors insurance program of the Social Security Act, these twin hazards can result in the actual loss of one or more months of retirement, or survivor benefit payments. Extended delay in making an inquiry can mean the complete loss of the lump-sum death payment.

Knowledge of your rights and responsibilities under the law can pay real dividends in the form of prompt and complete payment of any claim for benefits. The law establishes the right of every retired insured individual, certain members of his family, or survivors of a deceased covered worker to receive social security insurance benefits if they meet certain requirements. These benefits must be requested by the claimant and under no circumstances will they be paid automatically. To facilitate the claims, the Social Security Administration has field offices situated in all population centers. Our representatives also visit other communities on schedule that are available at post offices.

Most employers keep their workers up to date on retirement plans and social security payments. Once their retirement date is set, or in case of physical inability to resume work after age 65, an inquiry or visit to the nearest social security office is advisable. While the amended law provides for a six months period of grace to file a formal claim, a small percentage of people through lack of information, delay beyond that period. The longer the deday, the more extensive the loss in monthly payments. The same is true where a claim for a lump-sum benefit is not made within the statutory period. In the case of the lump-sum death payment, the claim must be filed within two years following the date of death.

There is a major reason why these claims for monthly benefits should be filed as soon as possible following retirement or death. Social security payments are intended to replace in part the wages or self-employment income lost through the termination of employment, self-employment, or death, and help bridge this major economic gap. It must also be appreciated that it takes time to process and start payment on original claims. The sooner the application is made, the sooner payments can be made! The answer, obviously, is to file your claim as soon as possible, or be sure to inquire before you retire.

Next week we will discuss a case in which total payments may amount to as much as $45,000 and the claimant was not aware of her entitlement to such benefits.

The office is located in the Central Post Office Bldg., Kingston, N. Y. Our telephone number is Kingston 532.

Social Security Law Provisions

George J. Johnson, manager of the Social Security Administration here, submits the following article on provisions of the Social Security Act:

Lack of information and misinformation are twin hazards that are met in every walk of life. Usually when one or the other are found, the individual concerned suffers some kind of a loss. In the administration of the old-age and survivors insurance program of the Social Security Act, these twin hazards can result in the actual loss of one or more months of retirement, or survivor benefit payments. Extended delay in making an inquiry can mean the complete loss of the lump-sum death payment.

Knowledge of your rights and responsibilities under the law can pay real dividends in the form of prompt and complete payment of any claim for benefits. The law establishes the right of every retired insured individual, certain members of his family, or survivors of a deceased covered worker to receive social security insurance benefits if they meet certain requirements. These benefits must be requested by the claimant and under no circumstances will they be paid automatically. To facilitate the claims, the Social Security Administration has field offices situated in all population centers. Our representatives also visit other communities on schedule that are available at post offices.

Most employers keep their workers up to date on retirement plans and social security payments. Once their retirement date is set, or in case of physical inability to resume work after age 65, an inquiry or visit to the nearest social security office is advisable. While the amended law provides for a six months period of grace to file a formal claim, a small percentage of people through lack of information, delay beyond that period. The longer the deday, the more extensive the loss in monthly payments. The same is true where a claim for a lump-sum benefit is not made within the statutory period. In the case of the lump-sum death payment, the claim must be filed within two years following the date of death.

There is a major reason why these claims for monthly benefits should be filed as soon as possible following retirement or death. Social security payments are intended to replace in part the wages or self-employment income lost through the termination of employment, self-employment, or death, and help bridge this major economic gap. It must also be appreciated that it takes time to process and start payment on original claims. The sooner the application is made, the sooner payments can be made. The answer, obviously, is to file your claim as soon as possible, or be sure to inquire before you retire.

Next week we will discuss a case in which total payments may amount to as much as $45,000 and the claimant was not aware of her entitlement to such benefits.

The office is located in the Central Post Office Bldg., Kingston, N. Y. Our telephone number is Kingston 532.

NONAGGRESSION PACT

Secretary of State Dulles indicates the United States is giving serious thought to some kind of non-aggression pact between the free world and Communist Russia. Thus Prime Minister Churchill's tentative proposal of May 11 on this score seems to be gathering new momentum.

Obviously this country is not studying the idea because it suddenly has become preoccupied with Russia's possible fears for its own safety.

We would insist upon certain things in exchange for the guarantee we might give that Russia would be secure from Western attack.

The Soviet Union would be asked to withdraw troops from Germany, Austria and North Korea, held now by the Red Chinese. Naturally we and our allies would do the same.

Russia also would be asked to accept a unified Germany and Korea, and to agree to an Austrian peace treaty. And all three countries would have to be assured freedom according to our definition, not the Russian.

In the mutual removal of troops, there is a danger for the West, since American forces inevitably would have to retire farther from the contested areas than would Russian and satellite armies. We would have to work out some system for swift retaliation in event of a Communist move in violation of the pact.

But there might be something to gain, too, in getting Russian arms out of satellite territory intervening between Austria and the Soviet Union. The Red Army is the chief prop to shaky native Communist governments in the satellites. Its departure might so loosen Red hold on these lands that Russia would have to expend considerably more energy than now in maintaining control. Some might even cast off the yoke.

If the nonaggression offer is made and turned down, we and the West may still be better off than now. Russia will have openly spurned honestly given assurances of national safety. The world will then understand that Russia's aim is not peace, but conquest.

Moreover, our European allies in particular would see the futility of trying to negotiate sincerely with the Russians. Already they are becoming fed up with Soviet stalling on a four-power meeting. Should they refuse to talk about genuine guarantees of their security, their "good intentions" would seem pretty thin. The last sensible barrier to the European Defense Community thus might fall away.

And, since the nonaggression scheme originated with Sir Winston and was first picked up by other Europeans like Chancellor Adenauer and Belgium's Paul Henri Spaak, the British and French could not accuse us of trying to dominate the free world with too rigid policies. This is a European lead.

Key men to the State Department believe the free world would benefit from this proposal whether Russia accepts it or not. Certainly it seems more likely to clear the international air than any plan that has been formulated in at least the last year.

PREPAREDNESS ON VIEW

The United States Air Force Strategic Air Command is preparing to demonstrate its power and mobility with a show of strength which may increase our prestige and reassure our allies. For years we have been building air bases around the world, the latest being those in Spain acquired in the controversial pact with Franco's government.

Until now, however, no attempt has been made to demonstrate how accessible various parts of the world are to American planes. The tests to be conducted by the Strategic Air Command will make that point clear.

Communists as well as our allies will be watching the results. It will let them know how effectively we can strike back in the event of aggression. The knowledge that we have the planes to do the job and the men to fly those planes may have a deterrent effect on Russian plans for aggression. It is sad but true that the surest way we can keep from fighting a war is to convince our enemies that we can win such a war if it ever starts.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

PEACE BY NEGOTIATION

Since Malenkov has become the master of Russia, he has been pressing for a Big Four Conference. The idea is that Malenkov, Eisenhower, Churchill and Laniel will sit down to a talk to review all the problems that face their countries and the world and that something will come of it.

It will be recalled that the first proposal for such a conference came from Sir Winston Churchill and the place set was Bermuda. Churchill became ill, France's government fell, and the Bermuda Conference did not take place. The American government was never anxious that it should take place and proposed instead that the foreign ministers of the four countries talk things over. This has not happened.

Three reasons move our government to go slowly into this type of negotiation:

1. We have nothing to gain because the Russians have no concessions to make, no matter how the situation is analyzed. On the other hand, the United States has several concessions to make which can only benefit and strengthen Soviet Russia. Therefore, such a negotiation can give the impression of American appeasement of Soviet Russia;

2. Teheran, Yalta and Potsdam have become landmarks in American diplomacy and continue to plague the Eisenhower Administration as they did the Truman Administration. So much that was wrong was done at these conferences that practically everybody associated with them has suffered politically because of them. The American theory therefore is that conference on the level of heads of states are disadvantageous; it is preferable to negotiate through foreign ministers or in the United Nations;

3. The issues before the world are well known, have been fully canvassed, and the attitude of each country is clear. The principal objective must be peace. To be sure of peace, the use of non-conventional weapons, the hydrogen and atom bombs, chemical warfare, biologic warfare and guided missiles must be abandoned. Otherwise, the armament race will continue and must result in war. But this issue, the Russians are apparently not prepared to resolve in a manner that can strengthen confidence. A non-aggression pact is inadequate; between 1925 and the present, Soviet Russia has made many non-aggression pacts which were broken at will. Therefore, the negotiation would be futile unless some guarantees were provided which could prove binding.

On the other hand, the United States is embarrassed by pressure for such a meeting on the part of Great Britain, France and the neutral nations led by India. The embarrassment mounts as the leadership of the Democratic Party, Harry Truman and Adlai Stevenson, presses for such negotiations. It would become an issue in the 1954 Congressional campaign and the question could well be asked: "What will it hurt to meet Malenkov? If the meeting is a failure, it was a good try; if peace comes from it, it would be a godsend."

It is a difficult decision to make. If Dulles, Eden, Bidault, and Molotov could meet in advance, canvass the discussion, gain some preliminary insight into the prospects for peace, it would be an advantage. Apart from the diplomacy involved, these men know each other, have conferred before, and have established some knowledge of each other's methods. Neither Churchill, Eisenhower nor Laniel has met Malenkov, certainly not since he has acceded to power. Malenkov has already demonstrated, at least by the purge of Beria, that he is strong in his position. Churchill is ill, cannot remain long in power, and obviously seeks to end his career by a dramatic diplomatic achievement. Laniel is new in diplomacy, has had no experience in dealing with such issues, and can never know when a slight shift in French politics will overturn his government. This uncertainty affects many international questions.

Eisenhower remains at the height of his popularity, but the attitudes of Truman and Stevenson have made it clear that the political honeymoon period is over. For Eisenhower, it would be politically preferable to wait until after the 1954 Congressional elections to see precisely where he stands and how much support he actually has before he makes a new departure in policy. Furthermore, he needs to be sure of his support in Congress.

The probability is, however, that the pressure for a conference is becoming too strong to resist. To hold it or not to hold it is a difficult decision to make because of the political risks, internal and external.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

ENRICHING LIFE SPAN OF ELDERLY

There is no question but that old age pensions (social security) mean much to the elderly and to their families. In former days, despite the fact that a man or woman worked faithfully for many years and raised or helped raise the family, there came a time when the family found it difficult to support them and, while not forgetting their former worth and help, had to struggle to make ends meet. While this was hard on the family, it was harder still on the aging individual.

We can readily see that with the old age pension or social security, the elderly individual today feels less of a dependent on his family and is that much happier for this reason. However, despite his or her contribution to the family expenses, there is more than the financial or security side to growing old.

In "Geriatrics," the journal devoted to research and clinical study of the diseases of aging, Dr. Orin R. Yost, medical director of the Edgewood Sanitarium Foundation, Orangeburg, South Carolina, states that many elderly people (senescents) are forced to retire from their work before they should. It has often been proved that many are still fully capable of executing skills and, if employed, can render additional years of valuable services. Taking 65 as the average age of retirement, while there are many who really should retire before this age, others are just as productive as younger people, they do better work because they are more careful and do not have as many injuries. "Old people need to continue to work, for an occupation means prestige, sustenance, an opportunity for social contacts, as well as an assurance against loneliness and idleness. Regular employment is preferable to the small money benefit paid under Social Security."

Many individuals greatly fear the approach of old age and, even after old age arrives, appear unable to believe it and adjust themselves to it.

I write frequently on this theme because the old age group is larger than any other group and the percentage is increasing as the years pass.

Dr. Yost suggests the establishment by the state, designed to meet the needs of the aging group, regardless of their types of infirmity, of a large number of units where both the married and the unmarried are housed, preferably in a rural district close to a general or psychiatric hospital. In this institution there would be programs of occupational, recreational and medical treatment, hobby quarters, a workshop, beauty shop, vegetable and flower gardens. The thought is to go beyond Social Security, beneficial in so many ways, and enrich the lengthened life span of the elderly man and woman.

It's the Walk Back That Takes Away All the Fun

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington, (NEA) — Major gripes of the Republic of Panama against the United States and vice versa have now been put on the record. This comes as a result of several weeks of discussion between representatives of the two countries in Washington. No end to these is yet in sight.

Chief U. S. negotiators in this deal are Assistant Secretary of State John M. Cabot and Ambassador John J. Muccio. This is the same Ambassador Muccio who competently handled American affairs in Korea. Experienced in dealing with the most ticklish diplomatic situations, Ambassador Muccio served previously in Panama, so he is completely familiar with this situation.

Contrary to general opinion, a complete overhaul of the 50-year-old treaty between the two countries is not in prospect. The treaty, revised in 1936, gave the U. S. exclusive control of five miles of land on both sides of the canal, forever. In return for this the U. S. pays Panama an annuity now amounting to $430,000.

What does seem to be in the cards is a new interpretation of a number of provisions in the treaty, to meet changed conditions in Panama and the U. S. Canal Zone. These will be to give Panamanians what they were promised in an agreement negotiated by William Howard Taft back in 1904—equality of opportunity in the Canal Zone.

The United States recognizes that a lot of things in Panama aren't as they should be. The U. S. General Accounting Office has had a team in Panama for two years, investigating what goes on.

Panamanians Have Talked About More Control

The question of increasing Panama's control of the canal itself has been kicked around as a local issue in Panamanian politics, but not seriously. Egypt's recent demand for control over the Suez canal naturally was picked up as an issue by Panamanian nationalists.

Panama's demand for a greater share in the canal tolls is in something of the same category. It is a talking point. But if Panama could get more indirect aid in the form of Point Four assistance, more trade with canal tourists for her merchants, and a chance to provision ships going through the canal, she would have what she wants.

At the bottom of the difficulty is the economic condition of the country. With a population of 800,000, a per capita income of $140 is $10 below the Latin-American average. More Panamanians want a chance to earn a better living.

Nearly everybody works for the canal or is in service for those who do work for the canal. Panama went through a boom when the third set of locks was started. But employment of Panamanians by the U. S. armed forces, the Canal Zone government and the Panama Canal Co. has been cut by perhaps 10,000.

The U. S. employes of the Panama Canal Co. and the Canal Zone government are in many cases second or third generation employes.

They are largely organized in American Federation of Labor craft unions that will not admit Panamanians. This is an old grievance. The native workers are largely organized by CIO Communists who infiltrated these unions have been cleaned out.

Merchants Claim Unfair Competition from U. S.

The U. S. "Buy American" act and the National Defense act discriminate against Panamanian supplies, although during the war, food for the U. S. garrison was largely supplied by Panama. U. S. Point Four aid has helped build up local agriculture so that Panama now has rice, coffee, sugar and beef to export.

The free trade area in the Canal Zone, where Panama can't collect normal customs duties, is a gripe to local merchants who have to pay such taxes on imports. U. S. post exchanges and ship stores which sell to everyone are another source of competition considered unfair by Panama merchants.

On the other side, Panama's refusal to renew U. S. air base rights after the war is no longer the issue it was once. Use of some of these bases is no longer considered necessary.

Panama's record on the Red China trade of ships under Panamanian flag registry is considered good in spite of some charges to the contrary. Some of these ships don't touch the canal frequently, and are hard to control. But Panama has cancelled registration of ships in trade with Iron Curtain countries, wherever violations occur.

What Panama gets out of these negotiations with the United States is being watched closely by all other Latin-American countries.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Oct. 14—The people of the state of Ohio just a few months ago demonstrated again that they wanted a Republican to represent them in the United States Senate—but, by the act of a Democratic governor, they now are denied that privilege.

In November 1952, the Ohio electorate, by a margin of more than 315,000, elected a Republican senator. Two years before they elected a Republican senator by more than 430,000 majority. Yet the governor of Ohio, Frank Lausche, who is a Democrat, now exercises his privilege to choose a Democrat, Mayor Burke of Cleveland. This is, of course, a recognized right of the governor in office—to fill vacancies—but on this occasion the Republicans in the Legislature of Ohio have only themselves to blame for failing to pass a law requiring that the vacancy be filled at the November election this year.

Senator Bricker of Ohio, Republican, who was re-elected last November, urged his fellow Republicans in the State Legislature—which happened to be in session last summer when Senator Taft died—to pass such legislation. There were enough votes to pass the law but not to override a governor's veto. Governor Lausche, however, informally told the legislators that, while he did not favor such a bill, he would not veto it if the Legislature desired to pass it.

The reasons why the Republican leadership in the Ohio Legislature opposed the special-election idea are not clear, though it is suggested that perhaps they feared Governor Lausche, a strong campaigner, might make the race himself and win. It is believed that Mayor Burke will run for the governorship in 1954 and Governor Lausche will try then for the Senate. If the governor wins the seat, it may put him in line as a serious contender for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1956.

The Republicans in the State Legislature were certainly shortsighted. For, even if the Democrats had won this autumn's election, the party would be no worse off in the United States Senate than it is today with a Democrat, appointed by Governor Lausche, taking office next January.

A whole session of Congress—and an important one—will have occurred before the voters of the state of Ohio are enabled in November 1954 to choose a United States senator. The people of Ohio will, therefore, not have in the January 1954 session the man who represents the majority of the voters.

Legislation stipulating how vacancies shall be filled varies in different states, but more and more the trend is toward special elections within a few weeks. This happens in many instances with respect to members of the House of Representatives, and it is more in line with the spirit of the Constitution to enable the voters at the earliest possible moment to elect a senator of their own choice than to permit a representative of the minority party in the state to cast their vote in Congress.

The long delay by Governor Lausche in making the appointment to fill the vacancy created when Senator Taft died on July 31 has not been explained. It could be that the Ohio governor waited as long as possible so as to prevent the pressure of public opinion from being effective in demanding an extra session of the Legislature so that a law could be passed providing for a special election this autumn. Certainly if the announcement of the appointment of a Democrat had been made in August, public opinion in Ohio would have had an opportunity to express itself promptly.

Governor Lausche has never given his reasons for deferring action except to say that the Congress wasn't going to meet until January anyway. Recently legal moves have been made in court to try to accelerate action by the governor. The episode will remain as a black mark on Governor Lausche's record unless explained to the satisfaction of the people of the state of Ohio whose majority will has been thwarted by the delay.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Too often in our appraisal of public men who have just died we do ourselves disservice and the deceased no valid honor by misrepresenting his personality and habits, thus depriving ourselves of the portrait and the departed of his humanity. I refer just now to some cosmetic obituaries and ill-considered stories about the late Fred M. Vinson, chief justice of the United States, whose estate was reported to be only $1,300. From this fact the deduction was drawn that Mr. Vinson had come to the end of a public career of more than 30 years without provision for his loved ones and, in unspoken words, that he had given his all for no more than a hand-to-mouth living.

Aside from some other considerations, Mr. Vinson, a Kentucky wool-hat and an earthy fellow, had been a horse-player all his life and was a poker-player who would bet them higher than a tom-cat's back when he held the cards or figured that he could make the ribbon-clerks think he held them, though he hadn't even paired.

The late Evander Phocian Howard, a fabulous person who literally practised blackmail by flattery with a little weekly trade-journal of the turf and the underworld, laid it down flatly many years ago that "all hoss players must die broke." Damon Runyon gave this dictum the widest circulation and it stands to his credit in the score, but it is not a pearl of wisdom or expression worth fighting over. However, it is almost wholly true that all horse-players, such as Fred Vinson, must die broke because, in the words of the late Ed Bradley, the professional gambler and owner of a great stable and a beautiful blue grass farm at Lexington, "You can beat a race but not the races."

Phocian Howard bore little resemblance to any other man who ever lived. He had much in common with Mr. Pickwick, but Pickwick never lived. His slang was melodious and poetic in its imagery and when I say he blackmailed by flattery I refer to a droll habit of lathering some wealthy fellow's girl or wife with pretty compliments in his little New York Press for a whole season, perhaps, and then putting the bee on the gentleman within earshot of the lady.

One of his stock phrases in this process was "this little lady is sweeter than a peach in June" and, for a fact, often, she was. One sweet lady with a fortune derived from forebears in New York Central bought about $40,000 of a "bond issue" on the New York Press after Phocian had given her the treatment. When, during the panic, her dividends failed her and she went to Phocian, he exclaimed: "Little lady, you put those bonds away and forget about them! They are as good today as the day you bought them!" He used to say when he had lost a bet "it's only money, anyway," and another motto by which he really lived was: "Money gone, something gone; friends gone, much gone; guts gone—all gone!" He referred to his New York Press as the family Journal and fireside companion and Runyon, Bill Corum and I drank his words for several happy years when we were very young.

Evander P. Howard would have treated Fred Vinson with understanding and love. He would have told us that here was a Kentuckian of the true faith who lived by the way as he travelled through life and, like Phocian, had had a full deal when his checks went back into the rack.

Nor is it unseemly that a man of such humanity should have become chief justice. He seemed to recapture for the court, in a manner of speaking, the chewtobacco character of an earlier Kentuckian, John Harlan, who was said to ride the front end of the horse-car arguing the merits of cases before the court with the driver. Vinson was dignified but without the primness which by many of us, and, as often me as any other, is mistaken for dignity. An austere man can hardly be undignified, but Vinson was dignified and genial, too, although he seems to have been a cracker-barrel lawyer. He was a free-loader who went to the gabbling alcoholic galas and ate many times his weight in pink caviar, anchovies and pates. He drank bocze and he would hail a reporter on the street as he rolled along in his car and holler, "Hey, come on, get in!"

A New York doctor who played ball with him at Center College said Vinson might have gone up to the majors had he not gone into law in Louisa, Ky. His biography in Who's Who says, with a note of juvenile pride that, he won both the "junior" and "senior" law prizes, but the chief justice of the United States had drawn two wills for himself both of which were defective for reasons that any law-clerk would have spotted. He was a government jobholder who finally hit the jack-pot.

It does not follow from the fact that he left a petty estate that Mr. Vinson had kept himself broke playing the horses and poker for table stakes. If he did, he had a full deal, but it is possible that he already had distributed his money among his dependents. Any any informed editorialist should know also that a man who had been on the federal payroll almost continuously for 30 years and in the highest

To Set Up Warning Signs at Crossing

Rosendale, Oct. 13 — The Woman's Club of Rosendale has been notified by the state traffic commission that within a short time school crossing warning signs will be painted near the entrance to the Rosendale Public School. It is believed this will be more effective than the present small signs.

The United Cerebral Palsy Association forwarded a citation to the local club for its donation of $100.36. A suggestion was made that the club initiate action to correct the unsightly and unhealthy condition of the creek, especially when low.

The local club will be hostess at the November county meeting and luncheon, details of which will be announced later. The state convention was held last weekend at the Hotel Ten Eyck in Albany. Mrs. Joseph Hill, Mrs. E. Huben and Miss Florence Buckley attended from the Rosendale club.

A country dance, featuring both round and square dancing, will be sponsored by the club on October 24 at St. Peter's School Hall.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. A. Ryman with Mrs. A. O. Leary, Mrs. S. Reposky and Mrs. E. Rossler as co-hostesses.

Brownie Unit Formed

Rosendale, Oct. 13—A Brownie unit of the Girl Scouts is being organized in Rosendale by Mrs. Ann Boos for girls between the ages of seven and one half and ten years old. The group will meet Thursday evenings at the school house. For further information contact Mrs. Boos at Kingston 521-M-2.

Withdraws Candidacy

Rosendale, Oct. 13—In a letter dated October 7 to the Board of Election, Kingston, Vincent Steeley has withdrawn his name from the forthcoming elections. He was nominated at the Democratic caucus for town supervisor. Steeley stated that his action was taken due to the demands of his regular employment conflicting with the duties of office of town supervisor in the event he was elected.

NONAGGRESSION PACT

Secretary of State Dulles indicates the United States is giving serious thought to some kind of non-aggression pact between the free world and Communist Russia. Thus Prime Minister Churchill's tentative proposal of May 11 on this score seems to be gathering new momentum.

Obviously this country is not studying the idea because it suddenly has become preoccupied with Russia's possible fears for its own safety.

We would insist upon certain things in exchange for the guarantee we might give that Russia would be secure from Western attack.

The Soviet Union would be asked to withdraw troops from Germany, Austria and North Korea, held now by the Red Chinese. Naturally we and our allies would do the same.

Russia also would be asked to accept a unified Germany and Korea, and to agree to an Austrian peace treaty. And all three countries would have to be assured freedom according to our definition, not the Russian.

In the mutual removal of troops, there is a danger for the West, since American forces inevitably would have to retire farther from the contested areas than would Russian and satellite armies. We would have to work out some system for swift retaliation in event of a Communist move in violation of the pact.

But there might be something to gain, too, in getting Russian arms out of satellite territory intervening between Austria and the Soviet Union. The Red Army is the chief prop to shaky native Communist governments in the satellites. Its departure might so loosen Red hold on these lands that Russia would have to expend considerably more energy than now in maintaining control. Some might even cast off the yoke.

If the nonaggression offer is made and turned down, we and the West may still be better off than now. Russia will have openly spurned honestly given assurances of national safety. The world will then understand that Russia's aim is not peace, but conquest.

Moreover, our European allies in particular would see the futility of trying to negotiate sincerely with the Russians. Already they are becoming fed up with Soviet stalling on a four-power meeting. Should they refuse to talk about genuine guarantees of their security, their "good intentions" would seem pretty thin. The last sensible barrier to the European Defense Community thus might fall away.

And, since the nonaggression scheme originated with Sir Winston and was first picked up by other Europeans like Chancellor Adenauer and Belgium's Paul Henri Spaak, the British and French could not accuse us of trying to dominate the free world with too rigid policies. This is a European lead.

Key men to the State Department believe the free world would benefit from this proposal whether Russia accepts it or not. Certainly it seems more likely to clear the international air than any plan that has been formulated in at least the last year.

PREPAREDNESS ON VIEW

The United States Air Force Strategic Air Command is preparing to demonstrate its power and mobility with a show of strength which may increase our prestige and reassure our allies. For years we have been building air bases around the world, the latest being those in Spain acquired in the controversial pact with Franco's government.

Until now, however, no attempt has been made to demonstrate how accessible various parts of the world are to American planes. The tests to be conducted by the Strategic Air Command will make that point clear.

Communists as well as our allies will be watching the results. It will let them know how effectively we can strike back in the event of aggression. The knowledge that we have the planes to do the job and the men to fly those planes may have a deterrent effect on Russian plans for aggression. It is sad but true that the surest way we can keep from fighting a war is to convince our enemies that we can win such a war if it ever starts.

'These Days'

PEACE BY NEGOTIATION

Since Malenkov has become the master of Russia, he has been pressing for a Big Four Conference. The idea is that Malenkov, Eisenhower, Churchill and Laniel will sit down to a talk to review all the problems that face their countries and the world and that something will come of it.

It will be recalled that the first proposal for such a conference came from Sir Winston Churchill and the place set was Bermuda. Churchill became ill, France's government fell, and the Bermuda Conference did not take place. The American government was never anxious that it should take place and proposed instead that the foreign ministers of the four countries talk things over. This has not happened.

Three reasons move our government to go slowly into this type of negotiation:

1. We have nothing to gain because the Russians have no concessions to make, no matter how the situation is analyzed. On the other hand, the United States has several concessions to make which can only benefit and strengthen Soviet Russia. Therefore, such a negotiation can give the impression of American appeasement of Soviet Russia;

2. Teheran, Yalta and Potsdam have become landmarks in American diplomacy and continue to plague the Eisenhower Administration as they did the Truman Administration. So much that was wrong was done at these conferences that practically everybody associated with them has suffered politically because of them. The American theory therefore is that conference on the level of heads of states are disadvantageous; it is preferable to negotiate through foreign ministers or in the United Nations;

3. The issues before the world are well known, have been fully canvassed, and the attitude of each country is clear. The principal objective must be peace. To be sure of peace, the use of non-conventional weapons, the hydrogen and atom bombs, chemical warfare, biologic warfare and guided missiles must be abandoned. Otherwise, the armament race will continue and must result in war. But this issue, the Russians are apparently not prepared to resolve in a manner that can strengthen confidence. A non-aggression pact is inadequate; between 1925 and the present, Soviet Russia has made many non-aggression pacts which were broken at will. Therefore, the negotiation would be futile unless some guarantees were provided which could prove binding.

On the other hand, the United States is embarrassed by pressure for such a meeting on the part of Great Britain, France and the neutral nations led by India. The embarrassment mounts as the leadership of the Democratic Party, Harry Truman and Adlai Stevenson, presses for such negotiations. It would become an issue in the 1954 Congressional campaign and the question could well be asked: "What will it hurt to meet Malenkov? If the meeting is a failure, it was a good try; if peace comes from it, it would be a godsend."

It is a difficult decision to make. If Dulles, Eden, Bidault, and Molotov could meet in advance, canvass the discussion, gain some preliminary insight into the prospects for peace, it would be an advantage. Apart from the diplomacy involved, these men know each other, have conferred before, and have established some knowledge of each other's methods. Neither Churchill, Eisenhower nor Laniel has met Malenkov, certainly not since he has acceded to power. Malenkov has already demonstrated, at least by the purge of Beria, that he is strong in his position. Churchill is ill, cannot remain long in power, and obviously seeks to end his career by a dramatic diplomatic achievement. Laniel is new in diplomacy, has had no experience in dealing with such issues, and can never know when a slight shift in French politics will overturn his government. This uncertainty affects many international questions.

Eisenhower remains at the height of his popularity, but the attitudes of Truman and Stevenson have made it clear that the political honeymoon period is over. For Eisenhower, it would be politically preferable to wait until after the 1954 Congressional elections to see precisely where he stands and how much support he actually has before he makes a new departure in policy. Furthermore, he needs to be sure of his support in Congress.

The probability is, however, that the pressure for a conference is becoming too strong to resist. To hold it or not to hold it is a difficult decision to make because of the political risks, internal and external.

That Body of Yours

ENRICHING LIFE SPAN OF ELDERLY

There is no question but that old age pensions (social security) mean much to the elderly and to their families. In former days, despite the fact that a man or woman worked faithfully for many years and raised or helped raise the family, there came a time when the family found it difficult to support them and, while not forgetting their former worth and help, had to struggle to make ends meet. While this was hard on the family, it was harder still on the aging individual.

We can readily see that with the old age pension or social security, the elderly individual today feels less of a dependent on his family and is that much happier for this reason. However, despite his or her contribution to the family expenses, there is more than the financial or security side to growing old.

In "Geriatrics," the journal devoted to research and clinical study of the diseases of aging, Dr. Orin R. Yost, medical director of the Edgewood Sanitarium Foundation, Orangeburg, South Carolina, states that many elderly people (senescents) are forced to retire from their work before they should. It has often been proved that many are still fully capable of executing skills and, if employed, can render additional years of valuable services. Taking 65 as the average age of retirement, while there are many who really should retire before this age, others are just as productive as younger people, they do better work because they are more careful and do not have as many injuries. "Old people need to continue to work, for an occupation means prestige, sustenance, an opportunity for social contacts, as well as an assurance against loneliness and idleness. Regular employment is preferable to the small money benefit paid under Social Security."

Many individuals greatly fear the approach of old age and, even after old age arrives, appear unable to believe it and adjust themselves to it.

I write frequently on this theme because the old age group is larger than any other group and the percentage is increasing as the years pass.

Dr. Yost suggests the establishment by the state, designed to meet the needs of the aging group, regardless of their types of infirmity, of a large number of units where both the married and the unmarried are housed, preferably in a rural district close to a general or psychiatric hospital. In this institution there would be programs of occupational, recreational and medical treatment, hobby quarters, a workshop, beauty shop, vegetable and flower gardens. The thought is to go beyond Social Security, beneficial in so many ways, and enrich the lengthened life span of the elderly man and woman.

It's the Walk Back That Takes Away All the Fun

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington, (NEA) — Major gripes of the Republic of Panama against the United States and vice versa have now been put on the record. This comes as a result of several weeks of discussion between representatives of the two countries in Washington. No end to these is yet in sight.

Chief U. S. negotiators in this deal are Assistant Secretary of State John M. Cabot and Ambassador John J. Muccio. This is the same Ambassador Muccio who competently handled American affairs in Korea. Experienced in dealing with the most ticklish diplomatic situations, Ambassador Muccio served previously in Panama, so he is completely familiar with this situation.

Contrary to general opinion, a complete overhaul of the 50-year-old treaty between the two countries is not in prospect. The treaty, revised in 1936, gave the U. S. exclusive control of five miles of land on both sides of the canal, forever. In return for this the U. S. pays Panama an annuity now amounting to $430,000.

What does seem to be in the cards is a new interpretation of a number of provisions in the treaty, to meet changed conditions in Panama and the U. S. Canal Zone. These will be to give Panamanians what they were promised in an agreement negotiated by William Howard Taft back in 1904—equality of opportunity in the Canal Zone.

The United States recognizes that a lot of things in Panama aren't as they should be. The U. S. General Accounting Office has had a team in Panama for two years, investigating what goes on.

Panamanians Have Talked About More Control

The question of increasing Panama's control of the canal itself has been kicked around as a local issue in Panamanian politics, but not seriously. Egypt's recent demand for control over the Suez canal naturally was picked up as an issue by Panamanian nationalists.

Panama's demand for a greater share in the canal tolls is in something of the same category. It is a talking point. But if Panama could get more indirect aid in the form of Point Four assistance, more trade with canal tourists for her merchants, and a chance to provision ships going through the canal, she would have what she wants.

At the bottom of the difficulty is the economic condition of the country. With a population of 800,000, a per capita income of $140 is $10 below the Latin-American average. More Panamanians want a chance to earn a better living.

Nearly everybody works for the canal or is in service for those who do work for the canal. Panama went through a boom when the third set of locks was started. But employment of Panamanians by the U. S. armed forces, the Canal Zone government and the Panama Canal Co. has been cut by perhaps 10,000.

The U. S. employes of the Panama Canal Co. and the Canal Zone government are in many cases second or third generation employes.

They are largely organized in American Federation of Labor craft unions that will not admit Panamanians. This is an old grievance. The native workers are largely organized by CIO Communists who infiltrated these unions have been cleaned out.

Merchants Claim Unfair Competition from U. S.

The U. S. "Buy American" act and the National Defense act discriminate against Panamanian supplies, although during the war, food for the U. S. garrison was largely supplied by Panama. U. S. Point Four aid has helped build up local agriculture so that Panama now has rice, coffee, sugar and beef to export.

The free trade area in the Canal Zone, where Panama can't collect normal customs duties, is a gripe to local merchants who have to pay such taxes on imports. U. S. post exchanges and ship stores which sell to everyone are another source of competition considered unfair by Panama merchants.

On the other side, Panama's refusal to renew U. S. air base rights after the war is no longer the issue it was once. Use of some of these bases is no longer considered necessary.

Panama's record on the Red China trade of ships under Panamanian flag registry is considered good in spite of some charges to the contrary. Some of these ships don't touch the canal frequently, and are hard to control. But Panama has cancelled registration of ships in trade with Iron Curtain countries, wherever violations occur.

What Panama gets out of these negotiations with the United States is being watched closely by all other Latin-American countries.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Oct. 14—The people of the state of Ohio just a few months ago demonstrated again that they wanted a Republican to represent them in the United States Senate—but, by the act of a Democratic governor, they now are denied that privilege.

In November 1952, the Ohio electorate, by a margin of more than 315,000, elected a Republican senator. Two years before they elected a Republican senator by more than 430,000 majority. Yet the governor of Ohio, Frank Lausche, who is a Democrat, now exercises his privilege to choose a Democrat, Mayor Burke of Cleveland. This is, of course, a recognized right of the governor in office—to fill vacancies—but on this occasion the Republicans in the Legislature of Ohio have only themselves to blame for failing to pass a law requiring that the vacancy be filled at the November election this year.

Senator Bricker of Ohio, Republican, who was re-elected last November, urged his fellow Republicans in the State Legislature—which happened to be in session last summer when Senator Taft died—to pass such legislation. There were enough votes to pass the law but not to override a governor's veto. Governor Lausche, however, informally told the legislators that, while he did not favor such a bill, he would not veto it if the Legislature desired to pass it.

The reasons why the Republican leadership in the Ohio Legislature opposed the special-election idea are not clear, though it is suggested that perhaps they feared Governor Lausche, a strong campaigner, might make the race himself and win. It is believed that Mayor Burke will run for the governorship in 1954 and Governor Lausche will try then for the Senate. If the governor wins the seat, it may put him in line as a serious contender for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1956.

The Republicans in the State Legislature were certainly short-sighted. For, even if the Democrats had won this autumn's election, the party would be no worse off in the United States Senate than it is today with a Democrat, appointed by Governor Lausche, taking office next January.

A whole session of Congress—and an important one—will have occurred before the voters of the state of Ohio are enabled in November 1954 to choose a United States senator. The people of Ohio will, therefore, not have in the January 1954 session the man who represents the majority of the voters.

Legislation stipulating how vacancies shall be filled varies in different states, but more and more the trend is toward special elections within a few weeks. This happens in many instances with respect to members of the House of Representatives, and it is more in line with the spirit of the Constitution to enable the voters at the earliest possible moment to elect a senator of their own choice than to permit a representative of the minority party in the state to cast their vote in Congress.

The long delay by Governor Lausche in making the appointment to fill the vacancy created when Senator Taft died on July 31 has not been explained. It could be that the Ohio governor waited as long as possible so as to prevent the pressure of public opinion from being effective in demanding an extra session of the Legislature so that a law could be passed providing for a special election this autumn. Certainly if the announcement of the appointment of a Democrat had been made in August, public opinion in Ohio would have had an opportunity to express itself promptly.

Governor Lausche has never given his reasons for deferring action except to say that the Congress wasn't going to meet until January anyway. Recently legal moves have been made in court to try to accelerate action by the governor. The episode will remain as a black mark on Governor Lausche's record unless explained to the satisfaction of the people of the state of Ohio whose majority will has been thwarted by the delay.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Too often in our appraisal of public men who have just died we do ourselves disservice and the deceased no valid honor by misrepresenting his personality and habits, thus depriving ourselves of the portrait and the departed of his humanity. I refer just now to some cosmetic obituaries and ill-considered stories about the late Fred M. Vinson, chief justice of the United States, whose estate was reported to be only $1,300. From this fact the deduction was drawn that Mr. Vinson had come to the end of a public career of more than 30 years without provision for his loved ones and, in unspoken words, that he had given his all for no more than a hand-to-mouth living.

Aside from some other considerations, Mr. Vinson, a Kentucky wool-hat and an earthy fellow, had been a horse-player all his life and was a poker-player who would bet them higher than a tom-cat's back when he held the cards or figured that he could make the ribbon-clerks think he held them, though he hadn't even paired.

The late Evander Phocian Howard, a fabulous person who literally practised blackmail by flattery with a little weekly trade-journal of the turf and the underworld, laid it down flatly many years ago that "all hoss players must die broke." Damon Runyon gave this dictum the widest circulation and it stands to his credit in the score, but it is not a pearl of wisdom or expression worth fighting over. However, it is almost wholly true that all horse-players, such as Fred Vinson, must die broke because, in the words of the late Ed Bradley, the professional gambler and owner of a great stable and a beautiful blue grass farm at Lexington, "You can beat a race but not the races."

Phocian Howard bore little resemblance to any other man who ever lived. He had much in common with Mr. Pickwick, but Pickwick never lived. His slang was melodious and poetic in its imagery and when I say he blackmailed by flattery I refer to a droll habit of lathering some wealthy fellow's girl or wife with pretty compliments in his little New York Press for a whole season, perhaps, and then putting the bee on the gentleman within earshot of the lady.

One of his stock phrases in this process was "this little lady is sweeter than a peach in June" and, for a fact, often, she was. One sweet lady with a fortune derived from forebears in New York Central bought about $40,000 of a "bond issue" on the New York Press after Phocian had given her the treatment. When, during the panic, her dividends failed her and she went to Phocian, he exclaimed: "Little lady, you put those bonds away and forget about them! They are as good today as the day you bought them!" He used to say when he had lost a bet "it's only money, anyway," and another motto by which he really lived was: "Money gone, something gone; friends gone, much gone; guts gone—all gone!" He referred to his New York Press as the family Journal and fireside companion and Runyon, Bill Corum and I drank his words for several happy years when we were very young.

Evander P. Howard would have treated Fred Vinson with understanding and love. He would have told us that here was a Kentuckian of the true faith who lived by the way as he travelled through life and, like Phocian, had had a full deal when his checks went back into the rack.

Nor is it unseemly that a man of such humanity should have become chief justice. He seemed to recapture for the court, in a manner of speaking, the chew-tobacco character of an earlier Kentuckian, John Harlan, who was said to ride the front end of the horse-car arguing the merits of cases before the court with the driver. Vinson was dignified but without the primness which by many of us, and, as often me as any other, is mistaken for dignity. An austere man can hardly be undignified, but Vinson was dignified and genial, too, although he seems to have been a cracker-barrel lawyer. He was a free-loader who went to the gabbling alcoholic galas and ate many times his weight in pink caviar, anchovies and pates. He drank bocze and he would hail a reporter on the street as he rolled along in his car and holler, "Hey, come on, get in!"

A New York doctor who played ball with him at Center College said Vinson might have gone up to the majors had he not gone into law in Louisa, Ky. His biography in Who's Who says, with a note of juvenile pride that, he won both the "junior" and "senior" law prizes, but the chief justice of the United States had drawn two wills for himself both of which were defective for reasons that any law-clerk would have spotted. He was a government jobholder who finally hit the jack-pot.

It does not follow from the fact that he left a petty estate that Mr. Vinson had kept himself broke playing the horses and poker for table stakes. If he did, he had a full deal, but it is possible that he already had distributed his money among his dependents. Any any informed editorialist should know also that a man who had been on the federal payroll almost continuously for 30 years and in the highest

To Set Up Warning Signs at Crossing

Rosendale, Oct. 13 — The Woman's Club of Rosendale has been notified by the state traffic commission that within a short time school crossing warning signs will be painted near the entrance to the Rosendale Public School. It is believed this will be more effective than the present small signs.

The United Cerebral Palsy Association forwarded a citation to the local club for its donation of $100.36. A suggestion was made that the club initiate action to correct the unsightly and unhealthy condition of the creek, especially when low.

The local club will be hostess at the November county meeting and luncheon, details of which will be announced later. The state convention was held last weekend at the Hotel Ten Eyck in Albany. Mrs. Joseph Hill, Mrs. E. Huben and Miss Florence Buckley attended from the Rosendale club.

A country dance, featuring both round and square dancing, will be sponsored by the club on October 24 at St. Peter's School Hall.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. A. Ryman with Mrs. A. O. Leary, Mrs. S. Reposky and Mrs. E. Rossler as co-hostesses.

Brownie Unit Formed

Rosendale, Oct. 13—A Brownie unit of the Girl Scouts is being organized in Rosendale by Mrs. Ann Boos for girls between the ages of seven and one half and ten years old. The group will meet Thursday evenings at the school house. For further information contact Mrs. Boos at Kingston 521-M-2.

Withdraws Candidacy

Rosendale, Oct. 13—In a letter dated October 7 to the Board of Election, Kingston, Vincent Steeley has withdrawn his name from the forthcoming elections. He was nominated at the Democratic caucus for town supervisor. Steeley stated that his action was taken due to the demands of his regular employment conflicting with the duties of office of town supervisor in the event he was elected.

To Speak Friday At Youth Rally

JAMES B. HARR

James B. Harr, instructor at the Missionary Training Institute, Nyack, will be the speaker during the youth rally and service Friday at 7:45 p. m. at the Alliance Gospel Church, corner of Pine and Franklin streets.

An added feature of the service will be the appearance of the well-known Nyack Ambassador male quartet, the Rev. Virgil R. Brisco, local pastor, said today.

A graduate of the Missionary Training Institute, Harr enlisted in the navy and for three and a half years served both ashore with the Fourth Marine Division and later afloat with the U. S. Amphibious Forces. In December, 1944, he received a personal citation for professional skill and bravery in action from Admiral R. A. Spruance, then commander of the Fifth Feet.

At the present time, in addition to his teaching at the institute, Harr is enrolled as a student at New York University where he is working for his Ph.D degree in English literature.

The public is invited to Friday's service.

Little Change in Weather

(By The Associated Press)

There was little change in the nation's weather today, indicating another day just as pleasant as yesterday in most sections of the country. Skies were clear in nearly all areas except in the Texas and Oklahoma Panhandle which reported cloudy weather. Temperatures reached 81 at Miles City and Glasgow, Mont., yesterday. Top mark was 94 at Yuma, Ariz., while one of the lowest was 45 at Caribou, Maine.

Ban on Ice Boxes

Ballston Spa, Oct. 14 (AP)—This village has joined the list of communities that have moved to protect children from the hazards of entrapment in abandoned ice boxes. The village board approved an ordinance last night making it unlawful to abandon an unlocked ice box where it would be accessible to youngsters.

Fireman Dies

New York, Oct. 14 (AP)—A fireman died last night as a fire in an empty Brooklyn factory building went to five alarms. The fireman, James Moran, of Brooklyn, was pronounced dead at Cumberland Hospital. A doctor said he apparently died of inhaling fumes. The factory is at 158 Sands street. Moran, 35, was one of the first of some 200 firemen dispatched to the scene from Brooklyn and Manhattan. Chief Fire Marshal Martin Scott blamed either vagrants or children for touching off the fire in the six-story brick building. The burning building was vacated about a month ago so it could be razed to make way for a new Brooklyn-Queens expressway.

Wisconsin Is Flagship

Yokosuka, Japan, Oct. 14 (AP)—The battleship Wisconsin today replaced her sister ship, the New Jersey, as flagship of the U. S. 7th Fleet in the Far East. It will be the second tour in these waters for the Wisconsin, which pounded the North Korean coast with her big guns in 1951 and the early part of 1952. The New Jersey is winding up her second combat tour.

Soldier Pleads For Yule Gifts For Korea Kiddies

"No one knows the condition of the poor little children in Korea unless you see it with your own eyes," a service man in Korea has written in an appeal to Mrs. Mary Boughton of 107 Gage street.

The soldier, who asked Mrs. Boughton not to use his name, is a friend of Airman 2/c Kenneth Boughton, Mrs. Boughton's son. Kenneth has been in Korea for the past four months.

The anonymous soldier pointed out to Mrs. Boughton that his unit was planning to hold a Christmas party for a "couple of Korean orphanages."

Lists Items

He asked Mrs. Boughton if she could call attention to the plight of children and ask for donations of needy items to be shipped to Korea. What the children need worst, he wrote, are clothes, shoes, blankets, linen, sewing materials, cloth, thread, needles, school equipment such as pencils and tables, toothbrushes, towels, etc.

These packages should be mailed before November 15 if they are to arrive in time for the party, he wrote.

They may be mailed to the following address: Wing Chaplain, 58 Fighter Bomber Wing, APO 901 Postmaster, San Francisco, Calif.

Will Get $163,000

Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 14 (AP)—Miss Eleanor Jane Welch, a Consumers Power Co. secretary for the last 13 years, will receive around $163,000 under the will of her late boss. Miss Welch said she knew John A. Cleveland, who died Sept. 1, was "remembering me in his will," but had no idea of the amount. An inventory of Cleveland's estate filed in Kent county probate court placed the value of it at $174,372. He left $10,000 to the Society of the Transfiguration at Glendale, Ohio; $2,500 to his housekeeper and the remainder to Miss Welch.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 14 (AP)—Miss Eleanor Jane Welch, a Consumers Power Co. secretary for the last 15 years, will receive around $163,000 under the will of her late boss. Miss Welch said she knew John A. Cleveland, who died Sept. 1, was "remembering me in his will," but had no idea of the amount. An inventory of Cleveland's estate filed in Kent county probate court placed the value of it at $174,372. He left $10,000 to the Society of the Transfiguration at Glendale, Ohio; $2,500 to his housekeeper and the remainder to Miss Welch.

Thruway Worker Electrocuted North of Rosendale at Noon

Walter Goggin, 44, of 159 Liberty street, Newburgh, an employe of the Corbetta Construction Co., of New York, one of the contractors on the state thruway, was electrocuted when he came in contact with a crane which apparently had touched a high tension line just north of Rosendale near noon today.

Goggin was pronounced dead on arrival at Kingston Hospital and Coroner Francis J. McCardle said death was due to electrocution.

Details of the mishap were not verified at Freeman press time but available information indicated that Goggin was walking past the crane at the time part of it came in contact with the high voltage electric line.

Workmen in the area rushed to the scene and Albert Melville, of Kingston, who is also employed on the thruway project, applied artificial respiration pending arrival of the ambulance to bring Goggin to the hospital. Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp., also sent a crew of men to the scene.

Coroner McCardle said that Goggin was burned about the legs and head and that his underclothing was burned, and another report indicated that the force of the charge blew the shoes from his feet.

Central Hudson was unable to state which high tension line was involved but indicated that voltage on lines in the area range from 2,400 to 66,000.

Sixth Polio Case Reported in Area

The sixth resident case of polio in Ulster county this year was reported today by Dr. Dudley H. Hargrave, county health commissioner.

The victim, a 22-year-old woman, a resident of the county, was reported by Dr. Hargrave to be a mild case.

He said the woman, who is being treated at the New York State Reconstruction Home, West Haverstraw, had no paralysis but was suffering from "muscular weakness." The case was diagnosed late, he said.

Dr. Hargrave said five nonresident cases of polio had been reported in Ulster county during the summer.

He's Called Loyal, But Faces Ouster

Mt. Clemen's, Mich., Oct. 14 (AP)—An Air Force Reserve officer whose personal loyalty is unquestioned faces ouster today as a "doubtful security risk."

He is Lt. Milo J. Radulovich, 26-year-old father of two and a meteorology student at University of Michigan.

A 10th Air Force board of three colonels recommended yesterday that "he be discharged from the Air Force Reserve and that all commissions held by him be terminated." In announcing the decision, however, 10th AF Headquarters made a point of repeating that "his loyalty was not questioned."

Activities of his father and a sister were questioned. The father, John Radulovich, 65, a Hudson Motor employe, was accused of having been a subscriber of a "radical" newspaper, and the sister, Mrs. Margaret Fishman, of Detroit, with having engaged in "Communist picket line activity."

The Air Force claimed young Radulovich had maintained a "close and continuing" association with his father and sister. Two fellow workers of the father testified they knew him as a loyal American. So did the son.

"The decision came because I told the board I didn't think it was in my province to tell my sister what her politics should be," Radulovich told reporters at Ann Arbor. "This is the same kind of decision you would have expected from the Nazi army."

Two AWOL Are Held For Grand Larceny

Gordon Henry Crandall, Jr., 17 of Lake Luzerne, and James R. Krutz, 20, of West Glenville, both of Hdqs. and Hdqs. Company, Ft. Dix, N. J., and allegedly AWOL from the service, were arrested here today on first degree grand larceny charges, after the car in which they were riding apparently ran out of gas.

The two are charged with the theft of the automobile which bears California license. Officers Meyer Levy and Anthony Turck came upon the two and arrested them on Broadway near McEntee street.

Authorities at Ft. Dix were notified and the two were taken to the county jail to await the arrival of military officers. The car was taken to the police garage pending further investigation.

Twins to Go Home

New Orleans, Oct. 14 (AP)—The Mouton Siamese twins—now normal, happy baby girls after their historic separation—will leave the hospital for their home in Lafayette today. Catherine Anne and Carolyn Anne, daughters of Mayor and Mrs. Ashton Mouton of Lafayette, are leaving here much sooner than physicians expected. "But they have improved so rapidly, so much better than expected," explained Dr. L. L. Weissmiller, director of Ochsner Foundation Hospital. "They are completely out of danger now."

Riots Flare in Trieste

Trieste, Oct. 14 (AP)—Rioting flared in Trieste tonight as Slovenes and pro-Communist Yugoslavs demonstrated in defiance of an allied ban on public meetings. It was the first violence here since the British and Americans announced six days ago their decision to turn over administration of Zone A, including the city of Trieste, to the Italians. An estimated 2,000 persons swung fists and umbrellas but more than 300 territorial police succeeded in breaking up the core of the demonstration in less than an hour.

Won't Play After Season

Chicago, Oct. 14 (AP) — The president of Notre Dame said today there was "no possibility" the Fighting Irish will lift their ban on post-season football games. Commenting on reports the Irish athletic department would recommend acceptance of a possible bid to the Sugar Bowl Game, the Rev. T. M. Hesburg, school president, said: "There is really nothing to it. We feel pretty strongly against post-season games. There is no possibility that we will participate in such games."

Woman Hurt in Crash At Saugerties Tuesday

A Staten Island woman was treated at Kingston Hospital late last night for bruises and shock suffered in a two-car collision on Route 9W in the Town of Saugerties, according to a report in the Ulster county sheriff's office.

Thomas Hooker, 25, of 2532 Forest avenue, Staten Island, traveling south, was in collision with a car operated by Bernard Brachfeld, 30, of 211 South William street, Newburgh, traveling north, according to the report.

Frances Hooker, of the Staten Island address, a passenger in the Hooker vehicle, was treated at Kingston Hospital but was not admitted.

The sheriff's office reported that the Brachfeld car was passing a truck when it apparently was in contact with the truck and "shot" across the road into the path of the Hooker car, striking it in the middle and causing the Hooker vehicle to go into a fence and hit a small tree. The left side of the Hooker car was reported damaged.

The sheriff's office reported that the driver of the truck, which appeared, according to a witness, to be laden with mushroom crates, stopped, looked over his vehicle and drove off. The truck driver was not identified.

Salary Situation Ignored, Is Charge

Jesse B. McFarland, retiring president of the New York State Civil Service Employes Association, charged Tuesday that Gov. Dewey's administration is giving "complete inattention to the necessity for salary increases to state employes."

McFarland, retiring after three years as the association's president, spoke at the opening of its 43rd annual convention in Albany yesterday, the Associated Press said.

Delegates from Kingston and county units are Lt. James P. Martin of the local police, president of the Ulster County Chapter; Martin Kelly of the county group and the following employes of the Kingston public works department, who are members of the local unit, John Van Steenburgh, Alfred Thomas and Robert Baylor.

The convention was scheduled for two days, and an estimated 500 delegates were attending.

McFarland listed as two flaws in the present salary situation:

1. "Complete inattention by the administration to the necessity for salary increases to state employes."

2. "Threatened breakdown of the conference method of negotiation."

Police Seek Woman

Local police yesterday were asked to assist in locating a woman whose name is either Pauline Lahain or Pauline Murnane, who is believed to be in the Kingston area and probably is employed in Poughkeepsie. The request was from Pittsfield, Mass., the woman's former home, and it was reported that her father, Peter Pulaski, had died. Local police had obtained no information on her up until 2 p. m. today.

Senator to Take Cruise as Director Of Local Banks

New York, Oct. 14 (AP) — The Savings Bank Association of the State of New York will hold its annual convention aboard the liner Nieuw Amsterdam on a cruise to Havana beginning Saturday.

Paul W. Albright, the association's legislative representative, said today that around 800 bankers from 100 member banks are expected to go along and that "a few legislators — the number is very small" have been invited.

Albright said the solons include acting Lt. Gov. Arthur H. Wicks, who is a director of the State of New York National Bank of Kingston and of the Savings and Loan Association of Kingston, and Sen. William F. Condon, Yonkers Republican, chairman of the Senate's Insurance Committee.

As majority leader, Wicks is a member of the insurance and banking committees.

Albright said the association makes a practice of inviting legislators on committees dealing with matters of interest to savings banks to its conventions.

He said invitations went out just as they would have were the convention being held on land.

He said planning for this year's convention, the association's fifth on board a ship, began two years ago. Shipboard conventions cost "not a whole lot more" than those at resorts, the usual sites, Albright said, and the association has found them to be much more successful.

The Nieuw Amsterdam, chartered by the bankers, will sail from Hoboken, N. J., and will return the following Friday.

Fined $5 for Failure To Give Right of Way

A charge of reckless driving against Joseph Ranur, 62, of 213 Grand street, Hoboken, N. J., was reduced to one dealing with failure to give the right of way to a police vehicle, when he appeared today before City Judge Raymond J. Mino.

Ranur was arrested Oct. 3 by Officers Louis Sapp, Jr., and Edward Edwards, who were on their way to investigate an accident at Smith avenue and Garden street.

The defendant paid a fine of $5 on the lesser charge after the district attorney's office, represented by Attorney Bernard A. Feeney, Jr., consented to a plea on the other charge, because it was felt the information did not substantiate reckless driving. Thomas Saccoman appeared for Ranur.

Trouble in North Korea

Tokyo (AP)—The food situation in North Korea is so bad that in some cases the Communists have waived all taxes for some hungry peasants and told them they do not have to repay seed loans. This was disclosed in a recent Peiping broadcast, which quoted a dispatch from Pyongyang, the North Korean capital. "The crops reaped by some peasants even fell short of their own needs," the broadcast said.

Peeves Are Aired

East Hartford, Conn. (AP)—East Hartford had a "Pet Peeve Week" to give its citizens a chance to get their gripes off their chests. Public Works Director George J. Penney reports that chief complaints were: Loose manhole covers, low tree limbs, too much speeding on some streets, too much automobile horn tooting on others.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Oct. 14 (AP)—Steels stole the show today in the stock market with a brisk rally that carried the entire market higher.

Republic Steel sparked the move ahead with its brilliant earnings report for the third quarter. Republic worked up a gain of between 1 and 2 points with other steels adding major fractions to around a point.

The rest of the market, which stated out with lower tendencies, fell in behind the steels for comfortable gains going to around a point at the best.

Doing well were railroads, motors, oils, copper, some rubbers, and a long list of miscellaneous issues. Utilities held steady, and other major divisions of the market were mixed.

Higher stocks included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Chrysler, Goodrich, Douglas Aircraft, Consolidated Natural Gas, Kennecott Copper, Union Carbide, Westinghouse Electric, New York Central, and Standard Oil (N. J.).

Traffic Stalled by Crash

Newark, N. J., Oct. 14 (AP)—Traffic on U. S. Route 1 was delayed for about four hours early today as a truck collided with two automobile carriers and overturned. No one was injured.

It is estimated that about 1.8 billion pounds of detergents are manufactured in the United States in a year.

Parsonage Badly Damaged by Fire In Olive Bridge

The Methodist parsonage in Olive Bridge was damaged rather severely by a fire which broke out about 8:30 p. m. yesterday and burned through the roof and side of the house before it could be brought under control.

The parsonage is occupied by the Rev. George Cox and his wife and two children.

Chief Albert Fox of the Olive Fire Department said that Mrs. Cox discovered the fire when she saw flames coming down through the ceiling. Although Fox declined to fix a definite cause for the fire he said it was "apparently of electrical origin."

Equipment and personnel from all four companies in the Olive Fire Department responded and two lines of hose were laid about 700 feet to a water hole on the farm of Alonzo Davis. According to Fox, the hole was "only dug about three months ago."

Save Furniture

Fox said a considerable quantity of water was thrown on the fire but that most of the furniture had been removed by friends of the family and fire company personnel and did not suffer too much water damage.

Fire equipment and personnel remained at the scene for about three hours. Water was swept out of the house and the floor covered with sawdust and shavings.

Chief Fox praised the work of the companies and the rapidity with which they responded to the call. West Hurley and Woodstock Fire Companies assumed standby status under the mutual aid system.

Four Companies There

Present at the fire last night were the following companies: Olive Company No. 1, Alfred Rose, assistant chief; Shokan Company No. 2, Lester Lawrence, asistant chief, and the Krumville-Samsonville Company, a recently organized unit which has not yet elected officers. Howard Trowbridge is assistant chief of the Olive Fire Department.

Building New Station

It was pointed out that construction of a fourth engine house in the Krumville-Samsonville area had been recently begun and should be in operation some time this spring.

Orders have also been placed for two new fire trucks, each of which will be equipped with a 750-gallon, three-stage, high-pressure pump and a thousand-gallon booster tank. Each will also have a thousand feet of 2½-inch hose. In addition, several thousand dollars worth of auxiliary fire fighting equipment have also been ordered.

The population of the Saar is so dense that the people could live only 50 to 60 days a year on their own farm output.

Thruway Worker Electrocuted North of Rosendale at Noon

Walter Goggin, 44, of 159 Liberty street, Newburgh, an employe of the Corbetta Construction Co., of New York, one of the contractors on the state thruway, was electrocuted when he came in contact with a crane which apparently had touched a high tension line just north of Rosendale near noon today.

Goggin was pronounced dead on arrival at Kingston Hospital and Coroner Francis J. McCardle said death was due to electrocution.

Details of the mishap were not verified at Freeman press time but available information indicated that Goggin was walking past the crane at the time part of it came in contact with the high voltage electric line.

Workmen in the area rushed to the scene and Albert Melville, of Kingston, who is also employed on the thruway project, applied artificial respiration pending arrival of the ambulance to bring Goggin to the hospital. Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp., also sent a crew of men to the scene.

Coroner McCardle said that Goggin was burned about the legs and head and that his underclothing was burned, and another report indicated that the force of the charge blew the shoes from his feet.

Central Hudson was unable to state which high tension line was involved but indicated that voltage on lines in the area range from 2,400 to 66,000.

Sixth Polio Case Reported in Area

The sixth resident case of polio in Ulster county this year was reported today by Dr. Dudley H. Hargrave, county health commissioner.

The victim, a 22-year-old woman, a resident of the county, was reported by Dr. Hargrave to be a mild case.

He said the woman, who is being treated at the New York State Reconstruction Home, West Haverstraw, had no paralysis but was suffering from "muscular weakness." The case was diagnosed late, he said.

Dr. Hargrave said five nonresident cases of polio had been reported in Ulster county during the summer.

He's Called Loyal, But Faces Ouster

Mt. Clemens, Mich., Oct. 14 (AP)—An Air Force Reserve officer whose personal loyalty is unquestioned faces ouster today as a "doubtful security risk."

He is Lt. Milo J. Radulovich, 26-year-old father of two and a meteorology student at University of Michigan.

A 10th Air Force board of three colonels recommended yesterday that "he be discharged from the Air Force Reserve and that all commissions held by him be terminated." In announcing the decision, however, 10th AF Headquarters made a point of repeating that "his loyalty was not questioned."

Activities of his father and a sister were questioned. The father, John Radulovich, 65, a Hudson Motor employe, was accused of having been a subscriber of a "radical" newspaper, and the sister, Mrs. Margaret Fishman, of Detroit, with having engaged in "Communist picket line activity."

The Air Force claimed young Radulovich had maintained a "close and continuing" association with his father and sister. Two fellow workers of the father testified they knew him as a loyal American. So did the son.

"The decision came because I told the board I didn't think it was in my province to tell my sister what her politics should be," Radulovich told reporters at Ann Arbor. "This is the same kind of decision you would have expected from the Nazi army."

Two AWOL Are Held For Grand Larceny

Gordon Henry Crandall, Jr., 17 of Lake Luzerne, and James R. Krutz, 20, of West Glenville, both of Hdqs. and Hdqs. Company, Ft. Dix, N. J., and allegedly AWOL from the service, were arrested here today on first degree grand larceny charges, after the car in which they were riding apparently ran out of gas.

The two are charged with the theft of the automobile which bears California license. Officers Meyer Levy and Anthony Turck came upon the two and arrested them on Broadway near McEntee street.

Authorities at Ft. Dix were notified and the two were taken to the county jail to await the arrival of military officers. The car was taken to the police garage pending further investigation.

Twins to Go Home

New Orleans, Oct. 14 (AP)—The Mouton Siamese twins—now normal, happy baby girls after their historic separation—will leave the hospital for their home in Lafayette today. Catherine Anne and Carolyn Anne, daughters of Mayor and Mrs. Ashton Mouton of Lafayette, are leaving here much sooner than physicians expected. "But they have improved so rapidly, so much better than expected," explained Dr. L. L. Weissmiller, director of Ochsner Foundation Hospital. "They are completely out of danger now."

Riots Flare in Trieste

Trieste, Oct. 14 (AP)—Rioting flared in Trieste tonight as Slovenes and pro-Communist Yugoslavs demonstrated in defiance of an allied ban on public meetings. It was the first violence here since the British and Americans announced six days ago their decision to turn over administration of Zone A, including the city of Trieste, to the Italians. An estimated 2,000 persons swung fists and umbrellas but more than 300 territorial police succeeded in breaking up the core of the demonstration in less than an hour.

Won't Play After Season

Chicago, Oct. 14 (AP) — The president of Notre Dame said today there was "no possibility" the Fighting Irish will lift their ban on post-season football games. Commenting on reports the Irish athletic department would recommend acceptance of a possible bid to the Sugar Bowl Game, the Rev. T. M. Hesburg, school president, said: "There is really nothing to it. We feel pretty strongly against post-season games. There is no possibility that we will participate in such games."

Woman Hurt in Crash At Saugerties Tuesday

A Staten Island woman was treated at Kingston Hospital late last night for bruises and shock suffered in a two-car collision on Route 9W in the Town of Saugerties, according to a report in the Ulster county sheriff's office.

Thomas Hooker, 25, of 2532 Forest avenue, Staten Island, traveling south, was in collision with a car operated by Bernard Brachfeld, 30, of 211 South William street, Newburgh, traveling north, according to the report.

Frances Hooker, of the Staten Island address, a passenger in the Hooker vehicle, was treated at Kingston Hospital but was not admitted.

The sheriff's office reported that the Brachfeld car was passing a truck when it apparently was in contact with the truck and "shot" across the road into the path of the Hooker car, striking it in the middle and causing the Hooker vehicle to go into a fence and hit a small tree. The left side of the Hooker car was reported damaged.

The sheriff's office reported that the driver of the truck, which appeared, according to a witness, to be laden with mushroom crates, stopped, looked over his vehicle and drove off. The truck driver was not identified.

Salary Situation Ignored, Is Charge

Jesse B. McFarland, retiring president of the New York State Civil Service Employes Association, charged Tuesday that Gov. Dewey's administration is giving "complete inattention to the necessity for salary increases to state employes."

McFarland, retiring after three years as the association's president, spoke at the opening of its 43rd annual convention in Albany yesterday, the Associated Press said.

Delegates from Kingston and county units are Lt. James P. Martin of the local police, president of the Ulster County Chapter; Martin Kelly of the county group and the following employes of the Kingston public works department, who are members of the local unit, John Van Steenburgh, Alfred Thomas and Robert Baylor.

The convention was scheduled for two days, and an estimated 500 delegates were attending.

McFarland listed as two flaws in the present salary situation:

1. "Complete inattention by the administration to the necessity for salary increases to state employes."

2. "Threatened breakdown of the conference method of negotiation."

Police Seek Woman

Local police yesterday were asked to assist in locating a woman whose name is either Pauline Lahain or Pauline Murnane, who is believed to be in the Kingston area and probably is employed in Poughkeepsie. The request was from Pittsfield, Mass., the woman's former home, and it was reported that her father, Peter Pulaski, had died. Local police had obtained no information on her up until 2 p. m. today.

Senator to Take Cruise as Director Of Local Banks

New York, Oct. 14 (AP) — The Savings Bank Association of the State of New York will hold its annual convention aboard the liner Nieuw Amsterdam on a cruise to Havana beginning Saturday.

Paul W. Albright, the association's legislative representative, said today that around 800 bankers from 100 member banks are expected to go along and that "a few legislators — the number is very small" have been invited.

Albright said the solons include acting Lt. Gov. Arthur H. Wicks, who is a director of the State of New York National Bank of Kingston and of the Savings and Loan Association of Kingston, and Sen. William F. Condon, Yonkers Republican, chairman of the Senate's Insurance Committee.

As majority leader, Wicks is a member of the insurance and banking committees.

Albright said the association makes a practice of inviting legislators on committees dealing with matters of interest to savings banks to its conventions.

He said invitations went out just as they would have were the convention being held on land.

He said planning for this year's convention, the association's fifth on board a ship, began two years ago. Shipboard conventions cost "not a whole lot more" than those at resorts, the usual sites, Albright said, and the association has found them to be much more successful.

The Nieuw Amsterdam, chartered by the bankers, will sail from Hoboken, N. J., and will return the following Friday.

Fined $5 for Failure To Give Right of Way

A charge of reckless driving against Joseph Ranur, 62, of 213 Grand street, Hoboken, N. J., was reduced to one dealing with failure to give the right of way to a police vehicle, when he appeared today before City Judge Raymond J. Mino.

Ranur was arrested Oct. 3 by Officers Louis Sapp, Jr., and Edward Edwards, who were on their way to investigate an accident at Smith avenue and Garden street.

The defendant paid a fine of $5 on the lesser charge after the district attorney's office, represented by Attorney Bernard A. Feeney, Jr., consented to a plea on the other charge, because it was felt the information did not substantiate reckless driving. Thomas Saccoman appeared for Ranur.

Trouble in North Korea

Tokyo (AP)—The food situation in North Korea is so bad that in some cases the Communists have waived all taxes for some hungry peasants and told them they do not have to repay seed loans. This was disclosed in a recent Peiping broadcast, which quoted a dispatch from Pyongyang, the North Korean capital. "The crops reaped by some peasants even fell short of their own needs," the broadcast said.

Peeves Are Aired

East Hartford, Conn. (AP)—East Hartford had a "Pet Peeve Week" to give its citizens a chance to get their gripes off their chests. Public Works Director George J. Penney reports that chief complaints were: Loose manhole covers, low tree limbs, too much speeding on some streets, too much automobile horn tooting on others.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Oct. 14 (AP)—Steels stole the show today in the stock market with a brisk rally that carried the entire market higher.

Republic Steel sparked the move ahead with its brilliant earnings report for the third quarter. Republic worked up a gain of between 1 and 2 points with other steels adding major fractions to around a point.

The rest of the market, which stated out with lower tendencies, fell in behind the steels for comfortable gains going to around a point at the best.

Doing well were railroads, motors, oils, copper, some rubbers, and a long list of miscellaneous issues. Utilities held steady, and other major divisions of the market were mixed.

Traffic Stalled by Crash

Newark, N. J., Oct. 14 (AP)—Traffic on U. S. Route 1 was delayed for about four hours early today as a truck collided with two automobile carriers and overturned. No one was injured.

It is estimated that about 1.8 billion pounds of detergents are manufactured in the United States in a year.

Parsonage Badly Damaged by Fire In Olive Bridge

The Methodist parsonage in Olive Bridge was damaged rather severely by a fire which broke out about 8:30 p. m. yesterday and burned through the roof and side of the house before it could be brought under control.

The parsonage is occupied by the Rev. George Cox and his wife and two children.

Chief Albert Fox of the Olive Fire Department said that Mrs. Cox discovered the fire when she saw flames coming down through the ceiling. Although Fox declined to fix a definite cause for the fire he said it was "apparently of electrical origin."

Equipment and personnel from all four companies in the Olive Fire Department responded and two lines of hose were laid about 700 feet to a water hole on the farm of Alonzo Davis. According to Fox, the hole was "only dug about three months ago."

Save Furniture

Fox said a considerable quantity of water was thrown on the fire but that most of the furniture had been removed by friends of the family and fire company personnel and did not suffer too much water damage.

Fire equipment and personnel remained at the scene for about three hours. Water was swept out of the house and the floor covered with sawdust and shavings.

Chief Fox praised the work of the companies and the rapidity with which they responded to the call. West Hurley and Woodstock Fire Companies assumed standby status under the mutual aid system.

Four Companies There

Present at the fire last night were the following companies: Olive Company No. 1, Alfred Rose, assistant chief; Shokan Company No. 2, Lester Lawrence, asistant chief, and the Krumville-Samsonville Company, a recently organized unit which has not yet elected officers. Howard Trowbridge is assistant chief of the Olive Fire Department.

Building New Station

It was pointed out that construction of a fourth engine house in the Krumville-Samsonville area had been recently begun and should be in operation some time this spring.

Orders have also been placed for two new fire trucks, each of which will be equipped with a 750-gallon, three-stage, high-pressure pump and a thousand-gallon booster tank. Each will also have a thousand feet of 2½-inch hose. In addition, several thousand dollars worth of auxiliary fire fighting equipment have also been ordered.

The population of the Saar is so dense that the people could live only 50 to 60 days a year on their own farm output.

A finesse is a finesse is a finesse, as Gertrude Stein might have written if she had ever taken up contract bridge. Nevertheless, all finesses aren't equal. It may be important to try your finesse in the correct order, as South discovered in today's hand.

West opened the five of hearts, and declarer quite properly put up dummy's queen of hearts to win the trick. South heaved a discreet sigh of relief and counted his tricks; two hearts, a spade, a diamond, and four clubs. One additional trick was needed for the contract.

South saw that there were lots of finessing possibilities, but he couldn't tell one from another without a formal introduction. Hence he got to his hand with a club and tried his luck at finessing the queen of diamonds.

It didn't work. East won with the king of diamonds and returned a heart. South held up the ace of hearts until the third round, but this did him no good. He had to try a spade finesse in the attempt to make his ninth trick, and West took the queen of spades and the rest of the hearts to set the contract.

South made his mistake when he put all of his eggs into the one basket of the diamond finesse. The correct line of play allows South to break more eggs—and to make his contract.

After winning the first trick in dummy with the queen of hearts, declarer should lead the jack of spades and let it ride for a finesse. This loses to West's queen, and West leads the king of hearts. South holds off the second round of hearts, but wins the third.

Now South tries the diamond finesse. This also loses, but South isn't beaten yet. He can still get to dummy with a club and try a second spade finesse. When that finesse succeeds, he makes his contract.

There are three finesses altogether, two in spades and one in diamonds. South makes his contract if any one of the three succeeds, provided he begins by forcing out the spade entry to West's long heart suit. But if South tries the diamond finesse first, he can no longer rely on just one successful spade finesse.

Treatments Effective

Buffalo, Okla. (AP)—Nineteen-year-old Victor Terbush, stricken with polio, got to go home from the hospital a lot sooner because of the ingenuity of his father. Terbush has had to take physical therapy baths each day and doctors advised he remain in the hospital so that the treatment could be continued. However, his father, F. H. Terbush, knew how much his son wanted to come home and inquired about getting bathing equipment such as used by the hospital. He was told it would cost $400 so the father set about building similar apparatus. With the outlay of 15 cents for materials, and the use of the family vacuum cleaner and bathtub, he succeeded in making a bath which is as effective as the regular equipment.

Management Club To Hear Peebles

Robert M. Peebles, vice-president and general manager of the Kingston Broadcasting Corporation WKNY-TV Corporation will be the guest speaker at the next dinner meeting of the Kingston Industrial Management Club, Thursday, at 6 p. m., in the YMCA, according to a joint statement released today by William W. Ewing and Wayne Wright, the organization's president and program chairman respectively.

Subject of Peebles' address will be The Growth of Radio and The Future of Television in Kingston.

Gratuated from Harvard College in 1940, Peebles came to Kingston from Keene, N. H. in 1950. While at Keene he served as program director and assistant manager of Station WKNE.

Peebles began his radio career with the National Broadcasting Company in New York. Since then he has held staff announcing positions with various stations.

Frank Strobel, membership chairman of the Kingston Industrial Club, today said that membership in the organization is open to everyone working at the supervissory level in local industry. Anyone interested in joining may call him at Kingston 1064-J.

Television Dealers Discuss Channel 66

The Television Dealers' Association, meeting recently at the VFW Home here, discussed Kingston's new UHF Channel 66, and as a result of that meeting, Elliott Clark, association president, announced that in cooperation with WKNY-TV, operator of the UHF station, the TDA will keep the public informed through frequent announcements on the progress of construction and other salient information.

A resolution was passed at the meeting to invite the general public to ask all possible questions of TDA dealers, concerning the progress of Channel 66.

Robert L. Sabin, manager of TV Operations for WKNY, was the guest speaker, and discussed plans for the operation of Channel 66 in Kingston and Poughkeepsie. In reference to color TV, Sabin said that available information indicated that only 100,000 color sets would be ready for the entire nation in 1954.

Change in Industry Saves Jobs For 3,200 as Cotton Moves Out

Nashua, a New Hampshire town of 34,000, felt the chill of approaching depression in 1949 and the townspeople knew what to do about it. They dug in and fought it off in a struggle that underlines the economic problem New England wrestles with here today. AP newsfeatures writer Charles Mercer, who went to Nashua and talked with the people who live there, tells the story of their fight and its meaning.)

BY CHARLES MERCER
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Nashua, N. H., Oct. 14 (AP)—Fifty years ago New England produced four times as much textiles as the south. Today the south produces four times as much as New England.

In times past that meant headache and heartache for New England. But today, Yankee strength and ingenuity have met the loss with new industry in many a mill town.

Nashua, a community of 34,000 felt the chill of coming depression when Textron announced in 1949 it was going to start closing its textile operation here. Unemployment loomed for 3,200 persons, about one-third of the industrially employed in town.

Mayor Took Action

The mayor and now governor of New Hampshire, Hugh Gregg, called together a group of the town's business men and bankers and said in effect: "We've got to do something about it."

They did. Forming the Nashua Foundation, they purchased about two-thirds of Textron's Nashua property for $500,000 and a mortgage. Then they went into business, leasing and selling the vacant property to a variety of manufacturers, especially in the electronics field. By 1951 there was a labor shortage, which later was filled.

In 1952, Textron closed the remainder of its Nashua operation after ample warning. The Foundation, skilled now in beating the bushes for new industry, has taken it in stride. Today a number of companies are committed to operations here which within a few years will mean several thousand more industrial employes than Nashua ever had in its history.

Initiative Saves Day

Nashua came perilously close to bogging down in one of the mill town swamps of unemployment that exist here and there in an otherwise generally fertile New England economy. Local initiative saved the day. The same kind of initiative is bringing diversified industry to other textile areas which were hit by the loss of mills. Today the picture is brighter as business, labor and local governments cooperate in new ventures.

As estimated by the CIO Textile Workers Union of America, unemployment dropped from January, 1952 to last July as follows in these Massachusetts textile areas: Lowell, from 9.1 per cent of the labor force to 5.3; Lawrence, 20.7 to 17.8 per cent; New Bedford, 7.6 to 5.1 per cent; Fall River, 11.8 to 5 per cent; North Adams, 6.1 to 4.9 per cent.

Why New England textile mills were seduced — the Yankees' favorite verb describing the move —to the south is an old story. Cheaper labor, tax encouragements and proximity to raw materials are the most frequently cited causes.

Southern Problem Seen

Textile men say southern textiles soon will face the problems New England faces today. This is their argument:

1. The cost of labor eventually must rise in the south. The northern branch of the industry has rejected its old role as wage-setter, leaving that responsibility to the south.

2. As southern communities grow, industry will face an increasing tax burden.

3. Proximity to raw cotton is not important. The important thing is that transportation factors to the New York market from both the south and New England tend to cancel each other.

They do not say that textiles will rush back to New England. But they do warn of problems to come in the south.

Nashua, N. H., Oct. 14 (AP)—Fifty years ago New England produced four times as much textiles as the south. Today the south produces four times as much as New England.

In times past that meant headache and heartache for New England. But today, Yankee strength and ingenuity have met the loss with new industry in many a mill town.

Nashua, a community of 34,000 felt the chill of coming depression when Textron announced in 1949 it was going to start closing its textile operation here. Unemployment loomed for 3,200 persons, about one-third of the industrially employed in town.

Mayor Took Action

The mayor and now governor of New Hampshire, Hugh Gregg, called together a group of the town's business men and bankers and said in effect: "We've got to do something about it."

They did. Forming the Nashua Foundation, they purchased about two-thirds of Textron's Nashua property for $500,000 and a mortgage. Then they went into business, leasing and selling the vacant property to a variety of manufacturers, especially in the electronics field. By 1951 there was a labor shortage, which later was filled.

In 1952, Textron closed the remainder of its Nashua operation after ample warning. The Foundation, skilled now in beating the bushes for new industry, has taken it in stride. Today a number of companies are committed to operations here which within a few years will mean several thousand more industrial employes than Nashua ever had in its history.

Initiative Saves Day

Nashua came perilously close to bogging down in one of the mill town swamps of unemployment that exist here and there in an otherwise generally fertile New England economy. Local initiative saved the day. The same kind of initiative is bringing diversified industry to other textile areas which were hit by the loss of mills. Today the picture is brighter as business, labor and local governments cooperate in new ventures.

As estimated by the CIO Textile Workers Union of America, unemployment dropped from January, 1952 to last July as follows in these Massachusetts textile areas: Lowell, from 9.1 per cent of the labor force to 5.3; Lawrence, 20.7 to 17.8 per cent; New Bedford, 7.6 to 5.1 per cent; Fall River, 11.8 to 5 per cent; North Adams, 6.1 to 4.9 per cent.

Why New England textile mills were seduced — the Yankees' favorite verb describing the move —to the south is an old story. Cheaper labor, tax encouragements and proximity to raw materials are the most frequently cited causes.

Southern Problem Seen

Textile men say southern textiles soon will face the problems New England faces today. This is their argument:

1. The cost of labor eventually must rise in the south. The northern branch of the industry has rejected its old role as wage-setter, leaving that responsibility to the south.

2. As southern communities grow, industry will face an increasing tax burden.

3. Proximity to raw cotton is not important. The important thing is that transportation factors to the New York market from both the south and New England tend to cancel each other.

They do not say that textiles will rush back to New England. But they do warn of problems to come in the south.

Airman Declares His Gal Is Angry

PETER DE STEFANO

Tokyo, Oct. 14 (AP)—Peter De Stefano, son of an East Boston, Mass., barber, said today his Japanese fiancee, whom he claims is of royal blood, reprimanded him for announcing their Nov. 14 marriage plans.

U. S. Far East Air Force headquarters said De Stefano, a 27-year-old airman first class, told an interviewing officer at Nagoya that Michiko Tsukasa "reprimanded me because she said the announcement of our marriage is the royal family's prerogative."

De Stefano said his 24-year-old fiancee's late father was a marquis and her mother a cousin of Emperor Hirohito. He said Princess Chichibu, widow of a brother of the emperor, was arranging a shrine wedding.

Unable to Find Name

The imperial household said it knew nothing of any such ceremony. With cold dignity, a spokesman at Emperor Hirohito's palace said he was unable to find the name of Tsukasa on the list of members of the royal family.

He added that no further statements are contemplated.

The wedding plans were announced in Boston yesterday by the airman's father, Ralph De Stefano. He and Peter's mother were to leave today for Japan.

Young De Stefano, at Nagoya, confirmed his father's report and gave further details.

He said he came to Japan in December, 1951, and met Miss Tsukasa in 1952, when he was teaching English in a YMCA and romance "just came naturally."

The airman is a graduate of Boston University and took a year's postgraduate work in France.

Steel Pudding Pans

Round stainless steel pudding pans come in 2, 2½ and 3 quart sizes. They're handy not only for puddings, but for other baked desserts, macaroni and cheese and scalloped potatoes. And they're handsome enough to bring right to the table.

Open New Recruiting Office

Sergeant First Class Clarence Carney, left, and Master Sergeant Russell A. Kimball hold aloft the recruiting banner during the opening of the Kingston army and air force recruiting station on the third floor in the City Hall this week. The reopening of the local station, after being closed for more than six months, was cited by Sgt. Carney that it was causing hardship for Ulster applicants desiring to enlist. During the time the station was closed, enlistees were forced to go to the Poughkeepsie recruiting station. Information may be obtained at the local office with regards to aircraft observers, pilot training, women's air force, U. S. army regulars, army helicopter training, airborne or paratroopers, Women's Army Corps and direct school contracts in specialized schooling for specific work. The local station will be open Monday through Friday from 8 a. m. until 5 p. m. and on Saturday from 8 until 12 o'clock noon. (Freeman Photo)

Guerrillas in China

Taipeh, Formosa (AP) — Chinese Nationalist reports say guerrillas "numbered in the thousands" now are active in the far west reaches of Red China, where few guerrillas have been reported before. The Interior Ministry's Ta Tao News agency says underground contacts report the guerrillas have staged a number of raids in Szechwan province and in Yunnan, in the far southwest.

Must Write 1,000 Times

Washington, Oct. 14 (AP)—Five teen age youths have to write out this sentence 1,000 times: "I regret exceedingly my deplorable conduct at my fraternity's recent initiation." Magistrate John M. Miller, ordering the copying yesterday, further seared the high school boys' souls with these words: "You have behaved like grammar school children." The five were among 43 arrested by police of suburban Montgomery county, Md., last month at a rowdy initiation in which 10 naked youths had been coated with molasses, flour, corn flakes, vinegar and ketchup. Only those 18 or older were charged. Miller delayed sentencing until Friday and said he would look over the written evidence of repentance before deciding on leniency.

Dewey, Wilson Talk

New York, Oct. 14 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson last night received the New York Board of Trade "Business Speaks" gold medals for "notable service in the preservation of our American heritage." The medals were presented to the two at the 80th anniversary dinner of the board. Dewey, in an address, spoke on the state's role in the New York city financial crisis. He said his Republican state administration "had to disregard the wrecking program of the local politicians and put sound government into effect in New York city."

Tavern Talks

Umpire without a chest protector

Ever notice in a tavern how they always turn to the man behind the bar as an authority?

He's called on to settle arguments about facts, dates, batting averages, politics, international or domestic relations—almost anything we like to make a topic of discussion over a friendly glass of beer.

That's because the man who pours your glass of beer is a human kind of fellow—impartial, good-humored—and because he hears a lot of viewpoints from the many people he meets, he's pretty well-informed on many things.

He's also qualified, we think, to pass judgment on preferences in beer. And his judgment has been such a factor in the preference for Ballantine, we'd just like to say thanks!

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Harry L. Edson showed me a copy of the Old Dutch Chatter in which there is an item on a musical written around the little chain ferry known to all of us as the Skillyput. The title of the musical is The Skillyput or Rondout River Showboat. The book and lyrics were written by Charles Rinschler and the music of six original songs with appropriate names of local scenes were composed by Donald Romme, director of music of the First Dutch Church. Mrs. Arthur Oudemool is directing the cast of some 32 and Romme is in charge of the vocal effects. As no doubt many old timers remember, the little chain ferry made its last trip October of 1922. It was then sold to former Alderman John A. Fischer. The Riverside or chain ferry as we knew it had a life span of 52 years, that is the last ferryboat which stopped running a few months after opening of bridge, but there was a ferry service at that point from the Revolutionary days, and in 1855 the Skilly-pot became the first steam ferry. According to photos I have of various periods from 1855, it seems it was remodeled from time to time.

No doubt many of the tunes written for the Old Dutch Skillyput musical will be carried by local folks for various social functions for years to come, I hope so anyway, for we really have none about our historical local background. No matter how far one looks back at that ferry service one finds interesting modes of travel. For instance back before the Riverside there was a large scow big enough to carry a team of horses and a wagon. It was then owned and operated by John P. Sleight. A horn was hung on any available post on Rondout side of the creek, and when passage was desired to Sleightsburg the horn was blown and one of Sleight's farmhands would scull over and get the Rondout passenger. In time to come, Elijah Elmore Marsh of Esopus was hired for this job. Upon the death of John P. Sleight, the scow was run by his two sons, Abraham and Isaac Sleight. About 100 years ago, Dec. 24, 1854, articles were drawn up for the first steam ferry boat between those two points and the new ferry was called John P. Sleight, a somewhat smaller craft than our well-known Riverside her successor.

During my time the Skillypot was owned by the Hasbrouck family. According to records, on the death of Isaac Sleight, his son-in-law, Herbert Starkey, it was taken over by Albert Norris of Ulster Park, who ran it until 1906, when it was sold to Dr. Joseph Hasbrouck of Port Ewen. The Hasbrouck family, in turn, sold it in the 1920's to John A. Fischer of Rondout. The famouse engine built in 1854, like all interesting historical items of this locality, was disposed of to an out-of-town buyer, no other, than to the Henry Ford Museum at Dearborn, Mich., where, it is said, it is still on display. If we had a Marine Museum, the Skillypot could have been displayed intact. Although the Rondout Creek Bridge opened Nov. 29, 1921 the ferry ran until Oct. 14, 1922.

Joseph Jenks, one of the workers at Saugus ironworks in Massachusetts is believed to have made the dies for the Pine Tree Shillings.

Guild Plans to Hold Winter Exhibitions

Woodstock, Oct. 13 — During past winters Woodstock artists have had no opportunity to exhibit their paintings. Many visitors to the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen have asked to see paintings and have expressed disappointment when they have found that all the art galleries were closed after Labor Day. The Guild, therefore, feels that it will be rendering a service to the community by carrying on current showings of paintings, watercolors, drawings and prints.

During the holiday season the Guild will feature moderately priced items that will have a ready sale. There will no charge to the artist for exhibiting, but the Guild will operate on a 25 per cent commission basis to cover its expenses. A committee of four Guild members has been appointed to view and select work for exhibition. Exhibitors must insure their own work. Interested persons are requested to communicate with Mrs. Bert Wangler at the Guild and arrangements will be made with the committee to view their work.

Cottonseed Aid Cancer

Hampton, S. C. (AP)—Hampton county cottonseed is being collected to fight cancer. The county cancer fund campaign committee devised this plan at the opening of the cotton picking season: Each cotton grower is asked to give a handful of seed from his ginned cotton. Gins, where the seed is separated from the lint, are cooperating and boxes are provided theer for the seed contributions. At the end of the season, the seed will be sold and the proceeds will go to the fund.

Before World War 2, Korean industry, located mostly in the north now held by the Communists, was more important than that of either Mexico or Turkey, says the National Geographic Society.

Fischer to Exhibit Marine Paintings In Theatre Lobby

Woodstock, Oct. 13 — Exhibitions of paintings by prominent Woodstock artists will again be featured during the coming season in the lobby of Kingston's uptown Wall street theatre, with the opening of Curtain at 8:40 Wednesday evening when the film The Importance of Being Earnest will be shown. The exhibitions will again be assembled by Norbert Heermann of Zena.

The opening collection will be composed of a one-man show of paintings by the well-known artist and illustrator, Anton Otto Fischer, of Woodstock. Fischer is one of this country's most famous marine painters.

Surprisingly, this will be Fischer's first one-man show ever assembled in this, the artist's home region. Shown for the first time together, it is possible to assess the artist's amazing power and the impact of his dramatic expression. Here will be shown records of life on a sailing ship in the old days, under the most primitive conditions, rounding Cape Horn twice in a nightmare of foul weather, when a sailor's reward for daily risking his life on a yard-arm was meager pay, wretched food and a thorough skinning when he came ashore.

Scenes Are Authentic

The scenes depicted are authentic and several were used as illustrations in a biography of Fischer brought out by Scribners three years ago. It is an intensely moving story from the artist's desperate early life to eventual fame. By the time Fischer was four years old, both his father and mother had died and for the next few years he was shunted from orphan asyium to theological seminary.

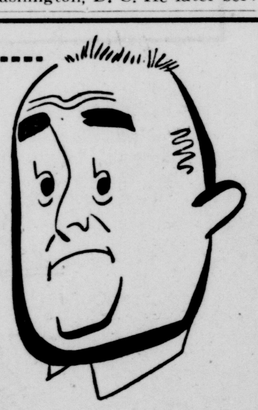

Eventually he escaped and went to sea as a deck boy with the next eight years packed with adventure. At the age of 16 Fischer served as an able-bodied seaman aboard a British windjammer on a long voyage that took him twice around Cape Horn some 45 years ago. The Gwydry Castle was a lime-juicer, and in those days the British ships were notoriously hungry ships. The Gwydry Castle lived up to that reputation—scanty, horrible food, a captain unconcerned about the welfare of his crew, a sullen group of men in the focs'le who fought among themselves and came close to mutiny. There were two tragic deaths on that voyage, and there was a two-month's struggle with gales off Cape Horn. But Mr. Fischer's narrative is by no means unrelievedly grim; he liked and respected some of his shipmates and in small ways they found relief from the tedium and the hard, dangerous work.

Enters Art School

During this period his childhood interest in painting was reawakened with the result that he entered art school in Paris in 1906. After three years' study, he came to the United States and almost immediately gained a reputation as an artist, specializing in sea subjects. During World War 1 he served in the U. S. Coast Guard, and the paintings he recorded were shown in the Corcoran Gallery in Washington, D. C. He later served in World War 2, in the U. S. Coast Guard as artist aboard the S.S. Campbell when the vessel was involved in the famous convoy action which he recorded in pictures for Life Magazine.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Harry L. Edson showed me a copy of the Old Dutch Chatter in which there is an item on a musical written around the little chain ferry known to all of us as the Skillyput. The title of the musical is The Skillyput or Rondout River Showboat. The book and lyrics were written by Charles Rinschler and the music of six original songs with appropriate names of local scenes were composed by Donald Romme, director of music of the First Dutch Church. Mrs. Arthur Oudemool is directing the cast of some 32 and Romme is in charge of the vocal effects. As no doubt many old timers remember, the little chain ferry made its last trip October of 1922. It was then sold to former Alderman John A. Fischer. The Riverside or chain ferry as we knew it had a life span of 52 years, that is the last ferryboat which stopped running a few months after opening of bridge, but there was a ferry service at that point from the Revolutionary days, and in 1855 the Skilly-pot became the first steam ferry. According to photos I have of various periods from 1855, it seems it was remodeled from time to time.

No doubt many of the tunes written for the Old Dutch Skillyput musical will be carried by local folks for various social functions for years to come, I hope so anyway, for we really have none about our historical local background. No matter how far one looks back at that ferry service one finds interesting modes of travel. For instance back before the Riverside there was a large scow big enough to carry a team of horses and a wagon. It was then owned and operated by John P. Sleight. A horn was hung on any available post on Rondout side of the creek, and when passage was desired to Sleightsburg the horn was blown and one of Sleight's farmhands would scull over and get the Rondout passenger. In time to come, Elijah Elmore Marsh of Esopus was hired for this job. Upon the death of John P. Sleight, the scow was run by his two sons, Abraham and Isaac Sleight. About 100 years ago, Dec. 24, 1854, articles were drawn up for the first steam ferry boat between those two points and the new ferry was called John P. Sleight, a somewhat smaller craft than our well-known Riverside her successor.

During my time the Skillypot was owned by the Hasbrouck family. According to records, on the death of Isaac Sleight, his son-in-law, Herbert Starkey, it was taken over by Albert Norris of Ulster Park, who ran it until 1906, when it was sold to Dr. Joseph Hasbrouck of Port Ewen. The Hasbrouck family, in turn, sold it in the 1920's to John A. Fischer of Rondout. The famouse engine built in 1854, like all interesting historical items of this locality, was disposed of to an out-of-town buyer, no other, than to the Henry Ford Museum at Dearborn, Mich., where, it is said, it is still on display. If we had a Marine Museum, the Skillypot could have been displayed intact. Although the Rondout Creek Bridge opened Nov. 29, 1921 the ferry ran until Oct. 14, 1922.

Guild Plans to Hold Winter Exhibitions

Woodstock, Oct. 13 — During past winters Woodstock artists have had no opportunity to exhibit their paintings. Many visitors to the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen have asked to see paintings and have expressed disappointment when they have found that all the art galleries were closed after Labor Day. The Guild, therefore, feels that it will be rendering a service to the community by carrying on current showings of paintings, watercolors, drawings and prints.

During the holiday season the Guild will feature moderately priced items that will have a ready sale. There will no charge to the artist for exhibiting, but the Guild will operate on a 25 per cent commission basis to cover its expenses. A committee of four Guild members has been appointed to view and select work for exhibition. Exhibitors must insure their own work. Interested persons are requested to communicate with Mrs. Bert Wangler at the Guild and arrangements will be made with the committee to view their work.

Daughters to Meet

Woodstock, Oct. 13—The Kings Daughters of Shady will meet Wednesday evening at the home of Phyllis Howland in Lake Hill at 8 p. m.

Village Notes

Woodstock, Oct. 13—Miss Sally Low of Marblehead, Mass., was the weekend guest of Mrs. Ethel Adams. Miss Low is the head of the art department of her great-grandfather's firm of Daniel Low, Salem, Mass.

Dr. and Mrs. Louis J. Camuti and their son, Louis, Jr., and Mr. Camuti's mother, Mrs. J. Landi, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Bauman on Saturday.

Cottonseed Aid Cancer

Hampton, S. C. (AP)—Hampton county cottonseed is being collected to fight cancer. The county cancer fund campaign committee devised this plan at the opening of the cotton picking season: Each cotton grower is asked to give a handful of seed from his ginned cotton. Gins, where the seed is separated from the lint, are cooperating and boxes are provided theer for the seed contributions. At the end of the season, the seed will be sold and the proceeds will go to the fund.

Korean Industry

Before World War 2, Korean industry, located mostly in the north now held by the Communists, was more important than that of either Mexico or Turkey, says the National Geographic Society.

Ancient Card Works

Toledo, Ohio (AP)—Mrs. Marie W. Murray, a school teacher, wanted to borrow a library book, so she handed in a library card which had been lying between the pages of one of her own books. The librarians, after a huddle, decided to issue a new card to replace it. It had been issued to Mrs. Murray in 1912.

Strawberry Shortcake on the Waters

Here, for a change, is a sweet story about Hollywood. . . .

On the afternoon of December 24 almost 30 years ago, a young man walked into the ornate lobby of the Hollywood Hotel and sat himself down where he could watch the holiday-happy crowd. His name was David O. Selznick, and it had no particular magic at the time. True, he was the son of Louis Selznick, the motion picture pioneer, but his father, the year before, had been flimflammed out of his holdings and was no longer a power in Hollywood.

Around 6-ish, as the Christmas lighting on Hollywood Boulevard went on, Norman Kerry strolled into the lobby. As aging movie-goers will remember, Kerry was the Clark Gable of the '20's.

"Hello, David," said the actor. "Waiting for someone?"

"Well—not exactly," said the lad.

"How's your father?"

"I guess he's all right," said David. "He's in New York on business."

"Where your spending Christmas Eve?"

"In my room, I think," said the young man. "I mean, I'm kind of tired."

"I'm having a little party at my house," said Kerry. "If you feel like it, drop in at 8."

Well, David did and, as I heard the story, it was quit a shindig what with a turkey dinner, a fancy Christmas tree, carols at midnight beside a floodlighted pool, and the comings and goings of the Pickfords, the Valentinos and the Fairbankses. At 2 a. m., as scrambled eggs were being served in the kitchen, the actor handed David a small box containing a gold tie clip. "I found this under the Christmas tree with your name on it," he said.

"Thanks a lot, Mr. Kerry," said David when the party broke up. "Thanks a lot, and a Merry Christmas. . . ."

If this were a movie, chances are the camera would come to a closeup of a calendar, and we'd see the months and years blown away in a Technicolor montage. Then, after establishing that the next scene was a night in April 25 years later, the camera would move into the lobby of a small theatre in suburban Los Angeles. The occasion—a sneak prevue of a super-duper produced by—but of course—David O. Selznick, the wonder man whose string of credits included "Gone With the Wind."

Like real sneak prevues in Hollywood, however, almost everybody who counted was on tap, and when the picture was over, the usual bunch of hosanna singers clustered around David in the lobby and told him he had done it again.

On the sidewalk in front of the theatre, the producer happened to notice a tall, distinguished old boy. He elbowed his way out to him.

"Norman Kerry, so help me!" said David. "How's the world treating you?"

"Fine, just fine," said the actor.

David, wise in the ways of Hollywood, knew he was fibbing. "Wait a minute, Norman," he said, and elbowed his way back into the lobby. There, using his knee as a desk, he wrote a check. Spotting the Great Selznick, several kids with autograph books closed in on him.

"Glad to oblige," said David, "but if you want an important autograph, that's Norman Kerry out on the sidewalk."

"Who dat?" asked one of the kids.

"One of the biggest stars we ever had in pictures," said Selznick. "Tell you what. Each of you get his autograph and mail it to me and I'll see that you get a signed picture of my wife, Jennifer Jones."

"What do you know," said Kerry, when David joined him a few minutes later. "Some kids just asked for my autograph. First time in years."

"I've got to run along," said Selznick. "Call me at the studio and we'll have dinner." He stuck out his hand—the one with the check.

"What's this?" said Kerry.

"Nothing much," said David. "Buy yourself a candied apple wit it."

Kerry looked at the check. It was for $1,000. "I can't take it, David," he said. "Honest, I'm doing fine."

"I know," said Selznick, "but take it anyhow. It'll make me feel good."

The old actor said nothing for a slow count of four. Then he grinned.

"Thanks a lot, David," he said. "Thanks, and a Merry Christmas."

Strawberry Shortcake on the Waters

Here, for a change, is a sweet story about Hollywood. . . .

On the afternoon of December 24 almost 30 years ago, a young man walked into the ornate lobby of the Hollywood Hotel and sat himself down where he could watch the holiday-happy crowd. His name was David O. Selznick, and it had no particular magic at the time. True, he was the son of Louis Selznick, the motion picture pioneer, but his father, the year before, had been flimflammed out of his holdings and was no longer a power in Hollywood.

Around 6-ish, as the Christmas lighting on Hollywood Boulevard went on, Norman Kerry strolled into the lobby. As aging moviegoers will remember, Kerry was the Clark Gable of the '20's.

"Hello, David," said the actor. "Waiting for someone?"

"Well—not exactly," said the lad.

"How's your father?"

"I guess he's all right," said David. "He's in New York on business."

"Where your spending Christmas Eve?"

"In my room, I think," said the young man. "I mean, I'm kind of tired."

"I'm having a little party at my house," said Kerry. "If you feel like it, drop in at 8."

Well, David did and, as I heard the story, it was quit a shindig what with a turkey dinner, a fancy Christmas tree, carols at midnight beside a floodlighted pool, and the comings and goings of the Pickfords, the Valentinos and the Fairbankses. At 2 a. m., as scrambled eggs were being served in the kitchen, the actor handed David a small box containing a gold tie clip. "I found this under the Christmas tree with your name on it," he said.

"Thanks a lot, Mr. Kerry," said David when the party broke up. "Thanks a lot, and a Merry Christmas. . . ."

If this were a movie, chances are the camera would come to a closeup of a calendar, and we'd see the months and years blown away in a Technicolor montage. Then, after establishing that the next scene was a night in April 25 years later, the camera would move into the lobby of a small theatre in suburban Los Angeles. The occasion—a sneak prevue of a super-duper produced by—but of course—David O. Selznick, the wonder man whose string of credits included "Gone With the Wind."

Like real sneak prevues in Hollywood, however, almost everybody who counted was on tap, and when the picture was over, the usual bunch of hosanna singers clustered around David in the lobby and told him he had done it again.

On the sidewalk in front of the theatre, the producer happened to notice a tall, distinguished old boy. He elbowed his way out to him.

"Norman Kerry, so help me!" said David. "How's the world treating you?"

"Fine, just fine," said the actor.

David, wise in the ways of Hollywood, knew he was fibbing. "Wait a minute, Norman," he said, and elbowed his way back into the lobby. There, using his knee as a desk, he wrote a check. Spotting the Great Selznick, several kids with autograph books closed in on him.

"Glad to oblige," said David, "but if you want an important autograph, that's Norman Kerry out on the sidewalk."

"Who dat?" asked one of the kids.

"One of the biggest stars we ever had in pictures," said Selznick. "Tell you what. Each of you get his autograph and mail it to me and I'll see that you get a signed picture of my wife, Jennifer Jones."

"What do you know," said Kerry, when David joined him a few minutes later. "Some kids just asked for my autograph. First time in years."

"I've got to run along," said Selznick. "Call me at the studio and we'll have dinner." He stuck out his hand—the one with the check.

"What's this?" said Kerry.

"Nothing much," said David. "Buy yourself a candied apple wit it."

Kerry looked at the check. It was for $1,000. "I can't take it, David," he said. "Honest, I'm doing fine."

"I know," said Selznick, "but take it anyhow. It'll make me feel good."

The old actor said nothing for a slow count of four. Then he grinned.

"Thanks a lot, David," he said. "Thanks, and a Merry Christmas."

Chicago, Oct. 14 (AP)—A divorce settlement, with more than 5½ million dollars involved, reportedly has been agreed upon between Barbara (Bobo) Rockefeller and her estranged husband, Winthrop Rockefeller. Rockefeller, through Attorney Edwin Dunaway at Little Rock, Ark., declined to comment on the reported settlement. In New York, Mrs. Rockefeller said only that "nothing has been signed."

Teen Agers at YWCA Divide into Groups To Work on Project

The recreation room at the YWCA is having its face lifted. Teen-agers, dressed in dungarees and wielding paint brushes, started re-decorating their favorite Y-Teen game room today.

The girls are members of the two Junior High groups at the YWCA, the "Sub-Teens" and the "Live Y'ers." It was during their first club meetings of the fall season that the question of redecorating was brought up for discussion. The response was so great that work groups had to be formed in order to assure each girl of some participation in this project.

A combination of wallpapering and colorful paints will be used and all furniture will be repainted. One group will work entirely on curtains and pillow covers, another on pictures and new frames, and still another on actual painting and papering.

This project is made possible through the funds raised by the Y-Teen clubs during their Taffy Sale last year, a successful event which the Y-Teens hope to duplicate this year.

Teen Agers Do Own Redecorating at YWCA

Teen Agers at YWCA Divide into Groups To Work on Project

The recreation room at the YWCA is having its face lifted. Teen-agers, dressed in dungarees and wielding paint brushes, started re-decorating their favorite Y-Teen game room today.

The girls are members of the two Junior High groups at the YWCA, the "Sub-Teens" and the "Live Y'ers." It was during their first club meetings of the fall season that the question of redecorating was brought up for discussion. The response was so great that work groups had to be formed in order to assure each girl of some participation in this project.

A combination of wallpapering and colorful paints will be used and all furniture will be repainted. One group will work entirely on curtains and pillow covers, another on pictures and new frames, and still another on actual painting and papering.

This project is made possible through the funds raised by the Y-Teen clubs during their Taffy Sale last year, a successful event which the Y-Teens hope to duplicate this year.

Stoller, national councilman for the second regions of Townsend Clubs in New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and Rhode Island, will report on the recent New York State Conference of Townsend Clubs held in Johnson City, to which he and Mrs. Stroller were delegates, representing the local Townsend Club.

Speaker at Sorosis Tells of Colorful Living on Riviera

Sorosis met Monday at the home of Mrs. Wood on Highland avenue. The paper of the afternoon was given by Mrs. Fred Ertel who spoke on Monaco and the Riviera, the playgrounds of southern France where life is colorful and free, well known in song and story, and the scenery is familiar from many works of art.

Mrs. Ertel said that the Riviera could be covered in a single day riding over an old Roman road. It offers many luxuries and much that costs nothing at all. Cannes, with its carnival gaiety, is often called the Palm Beach of the Riviera. Here a person may stop for dinner at a place 250 years old, supposed to have the finest food in the world.

Behind the cities are the hills, reaching toward the Alps, but always looking down to the Mediterranean. Flowers grow wild in abundance and the Battle of the Flowers is one of the great celebrations stemming from Greek days over 2000 years ago.

Mrs. Ertel spoke of the perfume there, saying that the French women know how to wear perfume better than any other women in the world.

"Monte Carlo which occupies much of the principality of Monaco, is well known for the gaming casinos," added Mrs. Ertel. "Here there are no taxes and a person may gamble to his heart's content," she continued. The casinos open at ten a. m. and close at 2 a. m. the next day. It is said that no one has ever broken the bank at Monte Carlo and should one become without funds, a ticket home will be supplied.

Whenever money is needed, new stamps are printed to be sold to stamp collectors. There are two factories, one for chocolates and one for jewelry.

Even if a person does not gamble, the amusements are many and varied. "Monte Carlo is not so much a place as an experience, and always it is the tourist who pays," concluded Mrs. Ertel.

Nile Club Honored By Visit of Queen

The Ulster County Nile Club was honored at its meeting Wednesday, Oct. 7, by the visit of Her Majesty the Queen, Dorothy M. Dutcher, of Albany. She was accompanied by three of her line officers, Princesses Mary Ackerman, Elizabeth Bedell, and Hildegard Ayres.

The meeting was held at the home of Princess Lillian Craig of Hurley avenue extension. Several projects for the year were discussed during the business session.

Refreshments were served by Princess Ethel Jones with Princess Marvel Archibald assisting.

Dear Penny,

You have asked me to tell you more about the wonderful new product I used to remove superfluous facial hair. It's simply terrific and all it takes is 30 seconds and so easy to use. You just squeeze a little of the material from the tube directly over the hair which is to be removed. The preparation itself is a thick jelly like material made from vegetable substance and is pure enough to eat. After it is applied to the face, a piece of cellophane is pressed over it, patted down and gently removed. It's really amazing to see how every hair is gone and the skin doesn't show a single trace of hair or fuzz.

Penny, this new safe way to remove facial hair is called, "Haraway Gelee." You can buy it at the United Cut Rate Pharmacy in Kingston and it only costs $1.10 and no tax. Try it and write me soon. I'm sure you'll love this marvelous product.

Guest Speaker and AAUW Officers at Dinner Meeting

Raymond Rignall Is Speaker at Meeting Of University Women

"The Point Four Program in Bolivia is not a giveaway program," asserted Raymond Rignall guest speaker at the dinner meeting of the Kingston Branch of the American Association of University Women held at Leherb's last evening.

Mr. Rignall then explained that the Bolivian government contributes even more than the U. S. does to keep the Point Four in operation, to carry out projects in health, agriculture, public welfare, housing and education. Mr. Rignall's talk to the group was of his experiences during the years of work with the rural schools in Bolivia, as technical director of rural education with the Educational Division of the Institute of Inter-American Affairs.

He supported his comprehensive views of life in Bolivia with colored slides which he had photographed personally. The arrangement of the pictures gave the audience a progressive report on the work of educating the Indians to adopt modern techniques. Their reaction to windows in adobe buildings was immediate, finishing them in a house before the rural schoolhouse completed the work on their structure.

Actual photographs of teachers at work in the classrooms, the football team ready for action in brightly striped uniforms, a gaily painted cafeteria in the school, the kitchen, a professor preparing wool and the students weaving it into a rug, were examples of the accuracy of the report on the country.

Fiestas and getting lost on an almost trackless salt lake were also a part of the pattern of life in Bolivia for Mr. Rignall and his family. They will return to Bolivia next week to continue the work they have begun.

The business meeting of the AAUW was opened by Miss Isabel Malone, past president of the organization. She introduced Mrs. Frank Preston, the new president, to the members. Mrs. Preston greeted the group with a brief speech in which she placed the aim of AAUW at an increased membership for next year, a fund for fellowship projects, and programs throughout the year aimed at the theme, What AAUW Means.

Programs were given each member present with the name of officers, meeting dates and topics for the year. The other officers of the organization are Mrs. John McCullough, first vice president; Mrs. James Cawston, second vice president; Miss Bertha Ives, recording secretary; Miss Dorothy Tancredi, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Melvin Mones, treasurer.

Chairmen of Committees

The chairmen of the various committees are, Mrs. John McCullough, program; Mrs. James Cawston, membership; Mrs. George Dingee, education; Mrs. Paul Mezer, fellowships; Miss Mary Kelly, social studies; Mrs. John Clair, status of women; Mrs. Burton Schwab, international relations; Mrs. Phyllis Smith, legislation; Miss Bertha Ives, arts; Miss Marianne Davis, publicity; Miss Mildred Kirshenblum and Miss Margaret Mullen, hospitality; Miss Ione Kinkade, historian.

Mrs. John McCullough, program chairman introduced Mrs. George Dingee, chairman of the education committee sponsoring the program, who presented the speaker, Raymond Rignall.

Mrs. Gordon Boice was chairman of the dinner planning committee, with the Misses Margaret Mullen, Mildred Kirshenblum, and Martha Barnett and Mrs. Marvin Craft as members.

Meetings Scheduled

The international relations study group will meet Tuesday, Oct. 27 at the home of Mrs. Burton Schwab, and the fourth Tuesday of the month thereafter. The book review committee, headed by Miss Bertha Ives, will meet at the home of Mrs. George Dingee, 108 Wilson avenue, Thursday, but will meet the third Tuesday of the month thereafter.

The next regular meeting of the Kingston Branch AAUW will be held Tuesday, Nov. 10, at the home of Miss Ione Kinkade and Mrs. Sherman, 42 Taylor street. At this time the fellowship group will present the program, a talk by Mrs. Frank Preston, president, on the topic, An International Challenge, concerning information on fellowships as gathered by Mrs. Preston in her travels throughout Europe.

NEW MOISTURE CREAM WITH HORMONES DRAWS MOISTURE FROM THE AIR
to help Over-30 Skin look younger!

UNIQUE SATURA BY DOROTHY GRAY

From the famous laboratories of Dorothy Gray comes a unique moisture cream with hormones . . . that supplies aging, drying skin with beauty-bringing moisture. New SATURA, by Dorothy Gray, performs these 3 vital functions to help bring fresh, moist radiance to over-30 skin:

1. SATURA attracts and holds airborne moisture on your skin, to help protect against drying that can lead to lines and wrinkles.

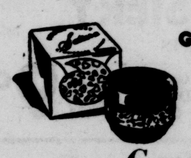

Thus SATURA helps make up for the moisture that is lost by the skin so quickly in our climates . . . winter and summer.

2. SATURA helps maintain the skin's inner moisture. Its natural estrogenic hormones—10,000 I. U's per ounce—help renew this vital internal moisture, thus "plumping up" your skin to help make wrinkles appear less conspicuous.

3. SATURA helps keep skin smooth, supple, 24 hours a day... without grease! It contains softening ingredients and emollient oils — plus Elfanol, an exclusive Dorothy Gray skin softener that's milder than lanolin and gentler to sensitive skins.

Any over-30 complexion, be it dry, oily or normal, is bound to look younger with the 3 essentials SATURA provides: renewal of external and internal moisture, plus the smoothing action of rich emollients.

"Monte Carlo which occupies much of the principality of Monaco, is well known for the gaming casinos," added Mrs. Ertel. "Here there are no taxes and a person may gamble to his heart's content," she continued. The casinos open at ten a. m. and close at 2 a. m. the next day. It is said that no one has ever broken the bank at Monte Carlo and should one become without funds, a ticket home will be supplied.

Whenever money is needed, new stamps are printed to be sold to stamp collectors. There are two factories, one for chocolates and one for jewelry.

Even if a person does not gamble, the amusements are many and varied. "Monte Carlo is not so much a place as an experience, and always it is the tourist who pays," concluded Mrs. Ertel.

Nile Club Honored By Visit of Queen

The Ulster County Nile Club was honored at its meeting Wednesday, Oct. 7, by the visit of Her Majesty the Queen, Dorothy M. Dutcher, of Albany. She was accompanied by three of her line officers, Princesses Mary Ackerman, Elizabeth Bedell, and Hildegard Ayres.

The meeting was held at the home of Princess Lillian Craig of Hurley avenue extension. Several projects for the year were discussed during the business session.

Refreshments were served by Princess Ethel Jones with Princess Marvel Archibald assisting.

Dear Penny,

You have asked me to tell you more about the wonderful new product I used to remove superfluous facial hair. It's simply terrific and all it takes is 30 seconds and so easy to use. You just squeeze a little of the material from the tube directly over the hair which is to be removed. The preparation itself is a thick jelly like material made from vegetable substance and is pure enough to eat. After it is applied to the face, a piece of cellophane is pressed over it, patted down and gently removed. It's really amazing to see how every hair is gone and the skin doesn't show a single trace of hair or fuzz.

Penny, this new safe way to remove facial hair is called, "Haraway Gelee." You can buy it at the United Cut Rate Pharmacy in Kingston and it only costs $1.10 and no tax. Try it and write me soon. I'm sure you'll love this marvelous product.

Guest Speaker and AAUW Officers at Dinner Meeting

Raymond Rignall Is Speaker at Meeting Of University Women

"The Point Four Program in Bolivia is not a giveaway program," asserted Raymond Rignall guest speaker at the dinner meeting of the Kingston Branch of the American Association of University Women held at Leherb's last evening.

Mr. Rignall then explained that the Bolivian government contributes even more than the U. S. does to keep the Point Four in operation, to carry out projects in health, agriculture, public welfare, housing and education. Mr. Rignall's talk to the group was of his experiences during the years of work with the rural schools in Bolivia, as technical director of rural education with the Educational Division of the Institute of Inter-American Affairs.

He supported his comprehensive views of life in Bolivia with colored slides which he had photographed personally. The arrangement of the pictures gave the audience a progressive report on the work of educating the Indians to adopt modern techniques. Their reaction to windows in adobe buildings was immediate, finishing them in a house before the rural schoolhouse completed the work on their structure.

Actual photographs of teachers at work in the classrooms, the football team ready for action in brightly striped uniforms, a gaily painted cafeteria in the school, the kitchen, a professor preparing wool and the students weaving it into a rug, were examples of the accuracy of the report on the country.

Fiestas and getting lost on an almost trackless salt lake were also a part of the pattern of life in Bolivia for Mr. Rignall and his family. They will return to Bolivia next week to continue the work they have begun.

The business meeting of the AAUW was opened by Miss Isabel Malone, past president of the organization. She introduced Mrs. Frank Preston, the new president, to the members. Mrs. Preston greeted the group with a brief speech in which she placed the aim of AAUW at an increased membership for next year, a fund for fellowship projects, and programs throughout the year aimed at the theme, What AAUW Means.

Programs were given each member present with the name of officers, meeting dates and topics for the year. The other officers of the organization are Mrs. John McCullough, first vice president; Mrs. James Cawston, second vice president; Miss Bertha Ives, recording secretary; Miss Dorothy Tancredi, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Melvin Mones, treasurer.

Chairmen of Committees

The chairmen of the various committees are, Mrs. John McCullough, program; Mrs. James Cawston, membership; Mrs. George Dingee, education; Mrs. Paul Mezer, fellowships; Miss Mary Kelly, social studies; Mrs. John Clair, status of women; Mrs. Burton Schwab, international relations; Mrs. Phyllis Smith, legislation; Miss Bertha Ives, arts; Miss Marianne Davis, publicity; Miss Mildred Kirshenblum and Miss Margaret Mullen, hospitality; Miss Ione Kinkade, historian.

Mrs. John McCullough, program chairman introduced Mrs. George Dingee, chairman of the education committee sponsoring the program, who presented the speaker, Raymond Rignall.

Mrs. Gordon Boice was chairman of the dinner planning committee, with the Misses Margaret Mullen, Mildred Kirshenblum, and Martha Barnett and Mrs. Marvin Craft as members.

Meetings Scheduled

The international relations study group will meet Tuesday, Oct. 27 at the home of Mrs. Burton Schwab, and the fourth Tuesday of the month thereafter. The book review committee, headed by Miss Bertha Ives, will meet at the home of Mrs. George Dingee, 108 Wilson avenue, Thursday, but will meet the third Tuesday of the month thereafter.

The next regular meeting of the Kingston Branch AAUW will be held Tuesday, Nov. 10, at the home of Miss Ione Kinkade and Mrs. Sherman, 42 Taylor street. At this time the fellowship group will present the program, a talk by Mrs. Frank Preston, president, on the topic, An International Challenge, concerning information on fellowships as gathered by Mrs. Preston in her travels throughout Europe.

NEW MOISTURE CREAM WITH HORMONES DRAWS MOISTURE FROM THE AIR

UNIQUE SATURA BY DOROTHY GRAY

From the famous laboratories of Dorothy Gray comes a unique moisture cream with hormones . . . that supplies aging, drying skin with beauty-bringing moisture. New SATURA, by Dorothy Gray, performs these 3 vital functions to help bring fresh, moist radiance to over-30 skin:

1. SATURA attracts and holds airborne moisture on your skin, to help protect against drying that can lead to lines and wrinkles.

Thus SATURA helps make up for the moisture that is lost by the skin so quickly in our climates . . . winter and summer.

2. SATURA helps maintain the skin's inner moisture. Its natural estrogenic hormones—10,000 I. U's per ounce—help renew this vital internal moisture, thus "plumping up" your skin to help make wrinkles appear less conspicuous.

3. SATURA helps keep skin smooth, supple, 24 hours a day... without grease! It contains softening ingredients and emollient oils — plus Elfanol, an exclusive Dorothy Gray skin softener that's milder than lanolin and gentler to sensitive skins.

Any over-30 complexion, be it dry, oily or normal, is bound to look younger with the 3 essentials SATURA provides: renewal of external and internal moisture, plus the smoothing action of rich emollients.

Kingston Hospital Auxiliary Reports Projects for Year

The annual report of the Kingston Hospital Auxiliary has been submitted by Mrs. Elbert F. MacFadden, secretary.

The Kingston Hospital Auxiliary has held eight regular meetings during the year ending September 1953, with the president, Mrs. Peter D. Corsones, presiding. There are 198 members, including the following 14 new members:

Mrs. John Brinnier, Mrs. John Cordts, Mrs. Nathan Friedman, Mrs. James Hanstein, Mrs. L. C. Miller, Mrs. Melvin Mones, Mrs. Sidney Pauker, Mrs. Victor Randel, Mrs. Robert Umpleby, Mrs. Glenn VanGaasbeek, Mrs. C. Warshaw, Mrs. Daniel Weisberg, Mrs. John Wilkie, Mrs. Sidney Wolff.

Officers Are Elected

Officers elected to serve for the year were: Mrs. Peter D. Corsones, president; Mrs. Parker K. Brinnier first vice-president; Mrs. Joseph Jacobson, second vice-president; Mrs. Arthur W. Hazenbush, treasurer; Mrs. Fred Carr, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Elbert F. MacFadden, recording secretary.

The various committees have done a fine job during the year, according to reports. The good cheer committee kept busy taking candy, cigarettes, fruit, gum and other articles to the patients in the wards. Mrs. George Rifenbary was chairman. Roses for Thanksgiving trays for all patients were donated by A. B. Shufeldt.

The program committee, with Mrs. Frederic W. Holcomb, Sr., as chairman, presented many interesting and entertaining programs. A talk and display of pottery and ceramics was given by Mrs. Louise Brokenshaw of Shady. Walter Tremper showed colored slides covering all the phases of Kingston's Tercentenary celebration, scenes of Williamsburg, Va., and autumn scenes of the Catskills. A talk was given by Hubert Hoderath, director of adult education at Kingston High School, on the work that is needed and what is being done in the field of educational programs for the aging in Kingston. At the final spring meeting the student nurses choir presented a most enjoyable musical program for the Auxiliary.

The Hospitality Committee was under the leadership of Mrs. Austin Boyd, Jr., and the hostesses for each meeting provided refreshments that were greatly appreciated by all the Auxiliary members.

Problems Overcome

The X-ray volunteer committee, with Mrs. Robert S. Russell as chairman and Mrs. Ted R. Smalldon in charge of telephoning, continued its work that was started last year, and all the members cooperating on this project have enjoyed contributing their services. Many of the minor problems that were encountered at the start of this program were remedied. A new wheelchair, provided by the board of trustees for the use of Auxiliary volunteers in taking patients to the X-ray department, was a most welcome addition and has facilitated their work greatly. This program has proved to be a most successful one, and is a concrete example of the help the Auxiliary can give to the hospital.

The Christmas gifts committee, with Mrs. Chester B. Van Gaasbeek as chairman, and the Christmas decorating committee headed by Mrs. James Norton, worked together to give the hospital a festive air and spirit of friendliness to all patients there at that time. Two boxwood wreaths were donated by Miss Grace Schreiber in memory of Mrs. Ott L. Schreiber. With gifts, colorful flowers and decorations, and a beautiful Christmas tree, they did their utmost to create a holiday atmosphere, and children and adult patients greatly appreciated their efforts.

Other Committees

Other committees functioning during the year were: Publicity, Mrs. Robert Cline, chairman.

Sewing, Mrs. Boyd Williams, chairman.

Membership, Mrs. Jack Gill and Mrs. George Schneider, chairmen.

Resolutions, Mrs. John Hathmaker and Mrs. N. LeVan Haver, chairmen.

Nurses activities, Mrs. Lester E. Sanford, chairman.

Cancer, Mrs. Conrad Heiselman, chairman.

Purchasing and decorating, Mrs. Joseph Jacobson, chairman.

The nominating committee, appointed in May, had Mrs. Joseph Jacobson as chairman, with Mrs. George Schneider, Mrs. Ted Smalldon, and Mrs. Elbert Mac Fadden serving as members.

The Auxiliary's annual dance was held at the Governor Clinton Hotel on February 2. Co-chairmen for the affair were Mrs. Timothy P. House and Mrs. Fred Carr. The dance was very well attended and was a success both socially and financially.

During National Hospital Week, May 12 to May 18, the Auxiliary took an active part in bringing to the attention of the public the work done by the Kingston Hospital. A display of a typical hospital room was arranged in the window of the Union-Fern store, under the leadership of Mrs. Timothy House. Mrs. George Bushnell was in charge of several radio programs featuring talks by Jacob Tremper, a member of the board of trustees, Mrs. Peter D. Corsones, Miss Esther Schisa and Miss Almena Porter, and songs by the student nurses choir. Both of these projects helped to give a clearer understanding of the needs and workings of the hospital.

Study Snack Bar Plans

During the year a committee was formed to study future plans for a Snack Bar. Mrs. Frederic Holcomb Sr. was chairman, with Mrs. John Wilkie and Mrs. Elbert MacFadden assisting. Plans were discussed with William Sheldon, superintendent of the hospital, and Frank Matthews, president of the board of trustees. These will become more definite at a later date, when plans for the addition to the hospital are complete.

On September 22 a dinner was given by the auxiliary in honor of the graduating class of the Kingston Hospital School of Nursing. Mrs. George Rifenbary and Mrs. George Bushnell were in charge of arrangements. The dinner was held at Broglio's, and each graduate was presented with a small gold pencil.

The Auxiliary is grateful to each member for her cooperation and enthusiasm during the year, and to Miss Almena Porter, William Sheldon, and Frank Matthews for their help.

The Auxiliary is looking forward to another eventful year in which it can add many new members and find more opportunities to serve the community through service to the Kingston Hospital.

How Moral Perception Licks One's Fear of Self-Assertion

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

The other day I presented the situation of a mother whose fear of self-assertion had resulted in the encouragement of a teen-age daughter's carelessness.

This fear is the source of most unhappy conflict between us and children. And the first step toward its conquest, I believe, is a moral perception.

Before we dare to firmly challenge the injustice of a dominating or careless child, we must believe in the righteousness of our action. Otherwise, it will be defensive, uncertain and incomplete.

The moral perception that gives us our strength is the realization that our fear is a destroyer of love.

Our fear of demanding just consideration from Betty has conspired with injustice. It is using our child to separate her from the love she needs from us.

So when she defies our demand that she tidy the bathroom, we rally every last bit of indignation we can muster at the evil of injustice that is manipulating her. We expose its operations to her.

And we put aside all sense of personal relationship to Betty to attack the impersonal evil which has been directing her actions.

If our indignation is directed at the injustice, not at Betty, she will know this at once by the sincerity and dignity of our words.

Nor will we give one moment's consideration to the consequences of our demand for justice.

In World War 2, when Britain stood alone against tyranny, its late King had printed on his Christmas card the following words:

"And I said to the man who stood at the gate of the year: Give me a light that I may tread safely into the Unknown! And he replied: Go out into the darkness and put thine hand into the hand of God. That shall be to thee better than light and safer than a known way."

It is in this spirit of quiet and secure faith in the good consequences of our resistance to tyranny, whether it be Hitler's or Betty's, that we overcome our fear of self-assertion.

Let's get acquainted with this idea slowly, for it is the most powerful one. If we take it easy, its light will increase until we see that we must stand for love by adventuring into the darkness, not just for ourselves, but for Betty, too. We begin to see that only by resistance to the injustice that is using Betty can we each her how to resist it when it uses us. We begin to understand how love for our child is unfolded out of love for ourselves.

It is then that we are ready to assert ourselves with the power of love's authority.

Friends Build Home

Wichita, Kan. (AP) — Fellow workers of Max Sissom at Boeing Airplane Company admire the grit of the Wichitan, who gets about by wheelchair, having been crippled since he was 4. When a windstorm bowled over the Sissoms' frame home, he telephoned he'd be late to work, looking for a place to live. He got time off—and a husky crew of 50 volunteer workers who are building the Simmoms a new home.

Oversized Trunk

Mechanicsburg, Pa. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. A. V. MacQuarrie have arrived in Mechanicsburg with their three children and a 670-cubic-foot box of home belongings. The family, which came to the United States recently from the Isle of Man near England, said they had managed to squeeze a living room suite, three bedroom suites and "some odds and ends" into the huge box. It took three men 30 hours each to pack, MacQuarrie explained.

A week's dishwashing is a bigger job than the weekly laundry. (It's around a thousand cooking and eating utensils for a family of four.) Like your weekly laundry, dishwashing deserves a special something that will make it less of a chore—and yet not harm your hands.

NEW this can in your kitchen is the next best thing to a dishwashing machine

Packed in a can as it should be— with a dripless spout

Won't break like a bottle. Won't get soggy or take up room like a box. And the dripless spout keeps the liquid from dripping down the side of the can.

Our laboratories found that one canful of this new Lux Liquid Detergent will wash more dishes than several boxes of the most popular laundry powder. It cleans so well and costs so little because it's designed for dishwashing... not for getting out the entirely different kind of grease and dirt in soiled overalls.

—And it's almost as mild on your hands as Lux Toilet Soap.

YEARS AGO, we asked our laboratories to develop a product especially for dishwashing. Something that would be as superior for dishes as Lux Flakes care is for stockings.

Now, it's no small order to come up with something as good as a product that lets you double the wear of your nylons. But we think you'll agree Lux Liquid Detergent is that good for dishes.

It gets dishes clean like nothing else does by literally soaking them clean. It cuts away the grease. Gets between the clinging grease and the dish. Dissolves the grease.

For fast, efficient dishwashing—with or without wiping—no powder can touch it.

What's more, it dissolves instantly (it's predissolved). It has a nice smell and it will make suds even in ice water.

As for mildness, we can truthfully say it's almost as mild as Lux Toilet Soap—and that's going some. Lux Liquid Detergent is mild.

Now, how about cost? Lux Liquid Detergent is thriftier for dishwashing than the most popular laundry powder.

A few drops wash a whole dishpan-full of dishes. A couple of trials will show you how little you have to use.

In other words, it's pleasant and thrifty to use, it does the job well without a lot of fuss, and it's easy on your hands. For these virtues it's unequaled by any other product.

This new Lux Liquid Detergent naturally has a Lever Brothers guarantee. You can have your money back if you don't think it's the greatest little helper with the dishes that ever came along—but we honestly believe you'll love it. LEVER BROTHERS

Remember—it's LUX LIQUID for dishes, LUX FLAKES for nylons. You can double the life of your nylons with LUX FLAKES care instead of harsh washday treatment in washday suds. If you want to, you can prove to yourself how gentle LUX FLAKES care saves stockings. Get two new pairs. Wash one pair with any washday product. Wash the other pair the LUX way—in pure, gentle LUX FLAKES. Do this for several weeks—and you'll see the difference LUX FLAKES care makes.

Study Snack Bar Plans

During the year a committee was formed to study future plans for a Snack Bar. Mrs. Frederic Holcomb Sr. was chairman, with Mrs. John Wilkie and Mrs. Elbert MacFadden assisting. Plans were discussed with William Sheldon, superintendent of the hospital, and Frank Matthews, president of the board of trustees. These will become more definite at a later date, when plans for the addition to the hospital are complete.

On September 22 a dinner was given by the auxiliary in honor of the graduating class of the Kingston Hospital School of Nursing. Mrs. George Rifenbary and Mrs. George Bushnell were in charge of arrangements. The dinner was held at Broglio's, and each graduate was presented with a small gold pencil.

The Auxiliary is grateful to each member for her cooperation and enthusiasm during the year, and to Miss Almena Porter, William Sheldon, and Frank Matthews for their help.

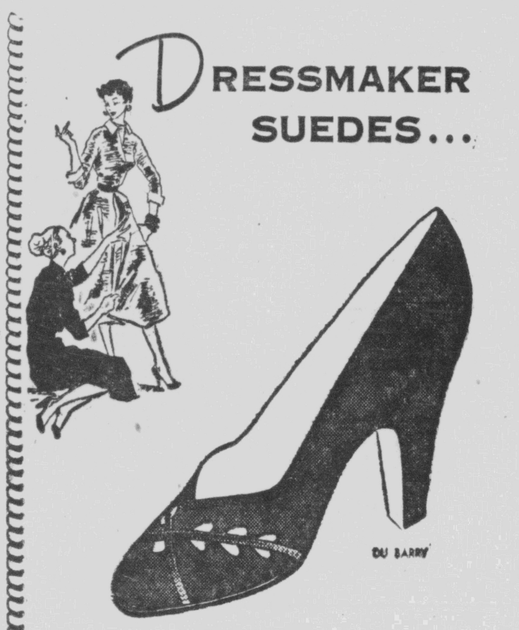

The Auxiliary is looking forward to another eventful year in which it can add many new members and find more opportunities to serve the community through service to the Kingston Hospital.

How Moral Perception Licks One's Fear of Self-Assertion

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

The other day I presented the situation of a mother whose fear of self-assertion had resulted in the encouragement of a teen-age daughter's carelessness.

This fear is the source of most unhappy conflict between us and children. And the first step toward its conquest, I believe, is a moral perception.

Before we dare to firmly challenge the injustice of a dominating or careless child, we must believe in the righteousness of our action. Otherwise, it will be defensive, uncertain and incomplete.

The moral perception that gives us our strength is the realization that our fear is a destroyer of love.

Our fear of demanding just consideration from Betty has conspired with injustice. It is using our child to separate her from the love she needs from us.

So when she defies our demand that she tidy the bathroom, we rally every last bit of indignation we can muster at the evil of injustice that is manipulating her. We expose its operations to her.

And we put aside all sense of personal relationship to Betty to attack the impersonal evil which has been directing her actions.

If our indignation is directed at the injustice, not at Betty, she will know this at once by the sincerity and dignity of our words.

Nor will we give one moment's consideration to the consequences of our demand for justice.

In World War 2, when Britain stood alone against tyranny, its late King had printed on his Christmas card the following words:

"And I said to the man who stood at the gate of the year: Give me a light that I may tread safely into the Unknown! And he replied: Go out into the darkness and put thine hand into the hand of God. That shall be to thee better than light and safer than a known way."

It is in this spirit of quiet and secure faith in the good consequences of our resistance to tyranny, whether it be Hitler's or Betty's, that we overcome our fear of self-assertion.

Let's get acquainted with this idea slowly, for it is the most powerful one. If we take it easy, its light will increase until we see that we must stand for love by adventuring into the darkness, not just for ourselves, but for Betty, too. We begin to see that only by resistance to the injustice that is using Betty can we each her how to resist it when it uses us. We begin to understand how love for our child is unfolded out of love for ourselves.

It is then that we are ready to assert ourselves with the power of love's authority.

Friends Build Home

Wichita, Kan. (AP) — Fellow workers of Max Sissom at Boeing Airplane Company admire the grit of the Wichitan, who gets about by wheelchair, having been crippled since he was 4. When a windstorm bowled over the Sissoms' frame home, he telephoned he'd be late to work, looking for a place to live. He got time off—and a husky crew of 50 volunteer workers who are building the Simmoms a new home.

Oversized Trunk

Mechanicsburg, Pa. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. A. V. MacQuarrie have arrived in Mechanicsburg with their three children and a 670-cubic-foot box of home belongings. The family, which came to the United States recently from the Isle of Man near England, said they had managed to squeeze a living room suite, three bedroom suites and "some odds and ends" into the huge box. It took three men 30 hours each to pack, MacQuarrie explained.

A week's dishwashing is a bigger job than the weekly laundry. (It's around a thousand cooking and eating utensils for a family of four.) Like your weekly laundry, dishwashing deserves a special something that will make it less of a chore—and yet not harm your hands.

NEW
this can in your kitchen is the next best thing to a dishwashing machine

Packed in a can as it should be—with a dripless spout

Won't break like a bottle. Won't get soggy or take up room like a box. And the dripless spout keeps the liquid from dripping down the side of the can.

Our laboratories found that one canful of this new Lux Liquid Detergent will wash more dishes than several boxes of the most popular laundry powder. It cleans so well and costs so little because it's designed for dishwashing... not for getting out the entirely different kind of grease and dirt in soiled overalls.

—And it's almost as mild on your hands as Lux Toilet Soap.

YEARS AGO, we asked our laboratories to develop a product especially for dishwashing. Something that would be as superior for dishes as Lux Flakes care is for stockings.

Now, it's no small order to come up with something as good as a product that lets you double the wear of your nylons. But we think you'll agree Lux Liquid Detergent is that good for dishes.

It gets dishes clean like nothing else does by literally soaking them clean. It cuts away the grease. Gets between the clinging grease and the dish. Dissolves the grease.

For fast, efficient dishwashing—with or without wiping—no powder can touch it.

What's more, it dissolves instantly (it's predissolved). It has a nice smell and it will make suds even in ice water.

As for mildness, we can truthfully say it's almost as mild as Lux Toilet Soap—and that's going some. Lux Liquid Detergent is mild.

Now, how about cost? Lux Liquid Detergent is thriftier for dishwashing than the most popular laundry powder.

A few drops wash a whole dishpan-full of dishes. A couple of trials will show you how little you have to use.

In other words, it's pleasant and thrifty to use, it does the job well without a lot of fuss, and it's easy on your hands. For these virtues it's unequaled by any other product.

This new Lux Liquid Detergent naturally has a Lever Brothers guarantee. You can have your money back if you don't think it's the greatest little helper with the dishes that ever came along—but we honestly believe you'll love it. LEVER BROTHERS

Remember—it's LUX LIQUID for dishes, LUX FLAKES for nylons. You can double the life of your nylons with LUX FLAKES care instead of harsh washday treatment in washday suds. If you want to, you can prove to yourself how gentle LUX FLAKES care saves stockings. Get two new pairs. Wash one pair with any washday product. Wash the other pair the LUX way—in pure, gentle LUX FLAKES. Do this for several weeks—and you'll see the difference LUX FLAKES care makes.

Major Changes Are Made Relative to Care of Frostbite

Major changes in first aid care for frostbite and the use of tourniquets were announced by the American Red Cross today in a new supplement to the Red Cross First Aid textbook, according to Harold A. Sanford, chairman of safety services, in the local chapter.

The changes were adopted on the basis of recommendations of the committee on Surgery Division of Medical Sciences of the National Research Council.

Sanford pointed out that rapid warming of frostbitten parts of body or persons who have suffered prolonged exposure to cold is now advised by the Red Cross. Previously first aiders were told to gradually thaw frozen part in cool water or in a cool room. Recommended care now is to bring victim into a warm room quickly and rewarm the frozen part as rapidly as possible by placing it in a tub of warm, not hot water or by wrapping in warm blankets.

Rubbing Not Recommended

Until the victim can be brought indoors, Safford continues, the frozen parts should be covered with woolen cloth or clothing and the victim warmed and given warm drink. Rubbing the frozen part is not recommended. After the part is warm, the victim should be encouraged to exercise it.

Major changes in tourniquet use call for it to be applied close to the wound and be allowed to remain in position until released by a physician. Previously first aiders were advised to supply tourniquet high on the arm or thigh and loosen it every 15 minutes.

Sanford said that the supplement also stresses that the tourniquet should be used only for severe life-threatening hemorrhage which cannot be controlled by other means. Crushing wounds or large lacerations where large arteries are severed or where there is partial or complete severance of the body are only instances where application tourniquets are justified.

The new supplement is now being distributed to over 86,000 Red Cross first aid instructors throughout the nation and is included in all textbooks released in the future. First Aid instruction is offered by the local chapter without charge throughout the year. Groups interested in receiving First Aid instruction are asked to call the local chapter.

Washington, Oct. 14 (AP)—Hungarian diplomatic personnel in the United States now may travel within 40 miles of Washington without advance permission from the U. S. government. Slim beige tweed dress is by this same designer (center). Neckline is cut slightly away from base of the throat. Front seaming is caught with rhinestone hooks and eyes. Tweed jersey dress by Grabois (right) has high, collarless cardigan neckline and slim skirt with fold-over panels creating illusion of overskirt. Such simple dresses are the backbone of any good wardrobe.

Insurance Agents Will Ask Increase

The Insurance Agents' International Union, AFL, will demand a "substantial wage increase" for agents of the Prudential Insurance Company early next year, it has been annouced by George L. Russ, IAIU president.

The wage bid will be made when negotiations between union and company begin for a contract renewal. The present contract, which expires March 1, 1954, was signed in February, 1952, after an 81-day strike of the more than 15,000 Prudential agents in 34 states and the District of Columbia who are represented by the union.

Approximately 35 local agents are included in the membership of Local 93, IAIU, of which Robert J. Ross is president.

Cites 'Alibi' on Pay

The international president also announced that his union has launched a campaign to amend a provision of the New York State Insurance Code which limits compensation which may be paid an insurance agent. He charged the Prudential Company has used the provision as an "alibi" for holding down the commissions paid its agents. The law was originally enacted in 1906 to protect the prospective insurance buyer from abuses by insurance companies, he said, but is now being used "to throttle free collective bargaining." IAIU President Russ said that the recent convention of the American Federation of Labor unanimously adopted a resolution calling on all AFL unions and their 9,750,000 members to support the IAIU's campaign to amend the state insurance code.

Six Are Suspended

Washington, Oct. 14 (AP)—The Interior Department has suspended six employes "for security reasons." The department made a brief announcement to that effect yesterday. It declined to name the employes, give the specific reasons for their suspension, or otherwise elaborate. The announcement said the action was taken under a 1950 law allowing certain officials, "absolute discretion" to suspend employes without pay, if they decide such a step is necessary in the interest of national security. The employes have a right to request a hearing before a security board.

Andrew Baird Will Give First Recital With Women's Choir

A musical event of unusual significance will take place in the Reformed Church, Poughkeepsie, Sunday, Oct. 25, at 4:30 p. m. when Andrew J. Baird, A.A.G.O., will give his first organ recital of the year.

The Chaminade Club of Middletown, N. Y., comprising a chorus of 60 women who have been under Mr. Baird's direction the past fifteen years, will assist in this recital. This group gives annual concerts in Middletown and nearby communities and have been given much praise by musicians and critics for their ensemble work. Many solo voices are among those included, including Marion Wood who has been frequently heard in Poughkeepsie as soloist in the annual presentation of Handel's "Messiah." In this recital her voice will be heard in a solo with choral background by the club.

The group will sing numbers by Handel, Brahms, the Norwegian composer, Ole Bull and others, and Mr. Baird will play a program of pieces by Philip Emmanuel Bach, Rheinberger, Wagner, Sibelius, Borodine, Stoughton, Arthur Foote, Homer Bartlett and Egener.

Because of the necessity of rehearsal by the Chaminade Club with the organ, the recital will begin at 4:30 instead of the usual hour, four p. m. Following the program, the Chaminade Club will be entertained by the choir of the church at a buffet supper.

Firemen Abandon Pole

Nevada City, Calif., Oct. 14 (AP)—The pole firemen use to get from the second floor to their engines is dangerous and wasteful, the City Council has decided. Yesterday the council voted to remove the pole from the fire house and seal up the hole because: Firemen's feet are bruised upon landing. Firemen bang their elbows as they hurtle through the hole. Heat escapes through the hole and is wasted. Besides, says Fire Chief Ralph Pierce, the boys get down faster via the stairs.

Andrew Baird Will Give First Recital With Women's Choir

A musical event of unusual significance will take place in the Reformed Church, Poughkeepsie, Sunday, Oct. 25, at 4:30 p. m. when Andrew J. Baird, A.A.G.O., will give his first organ recital of the year.

The Chaminade Club of Middletown, N. Y., comprising a chorus of 60 women who have been under Mr. Baird's direction the past fifteen years, will assist in this recital. This group gives annual concerts in Middletown and nearby communities and have been given much praise by musicians and critics for their ensemble work. Many solo voices are among those included, including Marion Wood who has been frequently heard in Poughkeepsie as soloist in the annual presentation of Handel's "Messiah." In this recital her voice will be heard in a solo with choral background by the club.

The group will sing numbers by Handel, Brahms, the Norwegian composer, Ole Bull and others, and Mr. Baird will play a program of pieces by Philip Emmanuel Bach, Rheinberger, Wagner, Sibelius, Borodine, Stoughton, Arthur Foote, Homer Bartlett and Egener.

Because of the necessity of rehearsal by the Chaminade Club with the organ, the recital will begin at 4:30 instead of the usual hour, four p. m. Following the program, the Chaminade Club will be entertained by the choir of the church at a buffet supper.

Firemen Abandon Pole

Nevada City, Calif., Oct. 14 (AP)—The pole firemen use to get from the second floor to their engines is dangerous and wasteful, the City Council has decided. Yesterday the council voted to remove the pole from the fire house and seal up the hole because: Firemen's feet are bruised upon landing. Firemen bang their elbows as they hurtle through the hole. Heat escapes through the hole and is wasted. Besides, says Fire Chief Ralph Pierce, the boys get down faster via the stairs.

Woman Sues for $500,000

San Bernardino, Calif., Oct. 14 (AP)—Hotel operator Conrad Hilton and 40 other persons have been named defendants in a $500,000 suit filed by Boni Buehler, attractive airline stewardess who lost an arm and a leg in a motorboat accident on nearby Lake Arrowhead last Aug. 16. Hilton owned the boat out of which Miss Buehler fell. She was caught by its propellers. Insurance man Geary Steffan, who rescued Miss Buehler from the lake, has been sending the girl a rose a day since the accident.

Death Was Forced

Calcutta, India, Oct. 14 (AP)—Police received a report today of the death at Jubbulpore of a 23-year-old pregnant woman who was forced to plunge her hand into boiling oil to prove her innocence of a suspected theft. The woman, accused of stealing temple ornaments, was dragged before the local headman and priest, despite her protestations of innocence. She was said to have dropped dead from shock.

Improved Middie Squad Plays Kingston Friday

DUSO Contest Slated At Municipal Stadium

Unbeaten Kingston High resumes its DUSO schedule Friday night at municipal stadium against a rejuvenated Middletown High eleven that is bound to be in a better frame of mind than it might have been a week ago.

And, logically, tougher to handle. What seemed like a cakewalk a short time ago could develop into an interesting fracas.

Whipped 16 straight times, the Middies rose up in righteous wrath last Saturday to trounce A. B. Davis School of Mt. Vernon, 26-0, at Wilson Field.

The victory was the first for the Blue and White since it defeated NYMA in October 1951, and the triumph was the team's first under the regime of John Nania, who took over the coaching reins this season.

Marcello Is Hero

Speedy Nino Marcello, a sprint man, and husky Ray Sedelmeyer combined to spark the Middies, who scored in every period. Granted that there is a substantial difference between the calibre of football played by A. B. Davis and the DUSO, the statistics wrote an impressive tribute to the re-awakened Middletown power. They ran up the tremendous total of 426 yards rushing and Marcello was the shining light.

The speedy sprinter was almost a one-man team, scoring two touchdowns and setting up two others. He romped 30 yards for a TD on a fake handoff and travelled 55 yards on a pass play for another score. Obviously he is a man to be reckoned with.

While the Middies were shaking off their defeatist complex and giving Coach Nania a chance to smile for the first time this year, the Maroons impressed with a 26-18 triumph over Curtis High for its third straight.

The score doesn't reflect the real difference between the squads. Curtis exploded for three long TD pass plays but its running attack was completely shackled by the Maroon line. Kingston controlled the ball nearly three quarters of the way and it is remarkable the Staten Islanders kept the score as close as it seemed.

Blues in Romp

The team everybody in the DUSO is worrying about—Poughkeepsie High—again proved those fears are justified. Sam Kalloch's Blues crushed Christian Brothers Academy of Albany, 55-6, with their halfback wizard, Charlie Johnson, sitting on the bench!

Why Johnson did not see action is a secret only Sam Kalloch knows. But it was quite obvious they didn't miss him. And when Poughkeepsie can run up that kind of score against a respectable opponent with their top back confined to the bench the stature of the Blue squad looms ominously for the rest of the field.

The decline of the NFA football dynasty was further emphasized by the Goldbacks' 20-7 loss to Mont Pleasant High of Schenectady. It was NFA's second defeat in three starts but a superb second half exhibition by the losers sparked hopes for improved play as the season progresses.

In spite of their early season difficulties, the Goldbacks should jell into a formidable unit by Thanksgiving Day when they invade municipal stadium for the traditional finale.

Think Irish Will Accept Bowl Contest

Chicago, Oct. 14 (AP)—You could have heard a jaw drop at the nearby Notre Dame campus when the subject of possible Irish participation in a post-season Sugar Bowl game was mentioned.

Only silence, or a sort-of non-committal mumble, following disclosure that the long-standing policy of the university against bowl games could be reversed.

The Associated Press learned reliably yesterday that, should the Irish be invited to participate in the Jan. 1 Sugar Bowl game at New Orleans, their athletic director, Ed "Moose" Krause would recommend it. It was understood that informal approaches to Notre Dame already have been made.

Never before has Krause been prepared to make such a recommendation although Irish teams have received as many as seven definite bowl invitations in the past.

The final decision in this event would be up to the school's seven-man athletic board, chairmanned by the Rev. Edmund Joyce, and the Rev. T. M. Hesburgh, Notre Dame president.

Opposed In Past

Their policy in the past has been staunchly negative. However, no ND athletic director has urged the board and the school president to reverse this stand, as Krause is said to be prepared to do this year.

Irish coach Frank Leahy and the control board for sports at Notre Dame offered no comment on the disclosure. Krause himself said, following publication of the bowl-possibility story:

"There has been no change to the best of my knowledge of Notre Dame's policy with reference to post-season appearances in football games."

Nonetheless, the feeling persisted that the South Bend, Ind., school could be had, especially by the Sugar Bowl, whose officials have enjoyed a long and friendly relationship with the Notre Dame athletic chiefs.

50 Club Checks Rapp's Streak at Two, 69-66

Diamond's 3 Fouls In Overtime Decide

The 50 Club checked Rapp's Express two-game winning streak with a thrilling 69-66 overtime victory last night in the Autumn "B" League at the Y boards.

In the companion game, Village Rest handed Waterous Lumber its second loss of the season, 73 to 59, on the sharpshooting of Don Ferraro and Jack Beaver.

Leading 58-46 at the end of the third period, the 50 Club seemed to fall apart in the stretch, permitting Rapp's to rally for 20 points and a 66-66 tie in regulation. Hermie Sickler's driving lay-up with 50 seconds remaining tied the game.

All the scoring in the three-minute overtime was three fouls by Ronnie Daimond, who strangely enough made only four points in the game.

Houghtaling Hits 24

Jack Houghtaling led both squads with 24 points. Hermie Sickler boosted his three-game total to 67 points with 23 for Rapp's and Joe Schneider hit 22 for the losers.

Don Ferraro equalled Houghtaling's total with 24 markers on 12 deuces for Village Rest. Jack Beaver rimmed 21 to tie Herbie Waterous of the Lumberjacks. Bill Waterous contributed 14 points to the losing cause.

Michigan State is a member of four inter-collegiate conferences—NCAA, CCC, IC4A and the Big Ten.

Giants Arrive

Tokyo, Oct. 14 (AP)—The New York Giants arrived by plane today for their 14-game baseball series in Japan and—without even warming up—Manager Lippy Leo Durocher allowed as how we would win all of them. The Giants open Saturday against the highly-regarded (in Japan, anyway) Tokyo Giants. The game is a sell-out of the 35,000 seats.

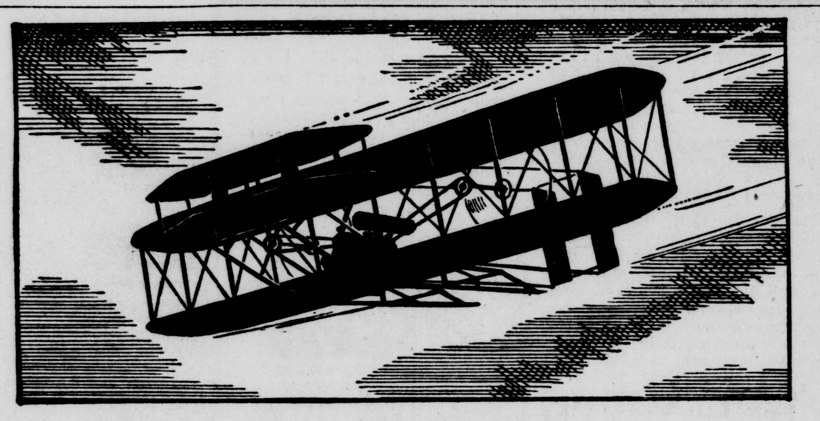

In 1934 the Detroit Lions, in their first season in the NFL, won seven straight shutouts—a record which still stands.

In the 1953 National League pennant race the Dodgers took first place on June 28 and never relinquished their lead.

AND THAT'S ONLY THE BEGINNING!

A half century ago, on December 17, 1903, Orville Wright made the first powered heavier-than-air flight. For twelve history-making seconds he flew over Kitty Hawk in a biplane fueled by the Esso Standard Oil Company.

Since that eventful day, and on into today's new era of screaming jets and zooming rockets, Esso Standard and the rest of the Petroleum Industry have moved forward hand in hand with aviation progress.

That's just one of the reasons why this week is being celebrated throughout the nation as OIL PROGRESS WEEK.

For while ever-improving fuels and lubricants have played a vital part in this astonishingly swift conquest of the skies, so also have improved petroleum products helped bring about the infinitely finer performance of your new automobile, the cleaner, cheaper and warmer heat that you enjoy in your home, and the smoother-flowing, well-lubricated productivity of the factories that produce the things you use. And now, through progress in Petrochemicals, you are entering a new world of miracle plastics and wonder fibres — more new things to serve your needs better and cheaper than ever before.

In short, there's hardly anything that you use or wear that hasn't somehow been made a little better through Petroleum Industry Progress.

So it's no wonder that OIL PROGRESS WEEK is celebrated by the Petroleum Industry and Esso employees and dealers everywhere. It honors the kind of progress that today, for example, brings you automobile gasoline that does 50% more work per gallon than 1925 gasolines did! You'll agree there's really something to celebrate!

50 years of "miracles"...

AND THAT'S ONLY THE BEGINNING!

A half century ago, on December 17, 1903, Orville Wright made the first powered heavier-than-air flight. For twelve history-making seconds he flew over Kitty Hawk in a biplane fueled by the Esso Standard Oil Company.

Since that eventful day, and on into today's new era of screaming jets and zooming rockets, Esso Standard and the rest of the Petroleum Industry have moved forward hand in hand with aviation progress.

That's just one of the reasons why this week is being celebrated throughout the nation as OIL PROGRESS WEEK.

For while ever-improving fuels and lubricants have played a vital part in this astonishingly swift conquest of the skies, so also have improved petroleum products helped bring about the infinitely finer performance of your new automobile, the cleaner, cheaper and warmer heat that you enjoy in your home, and the smoother-flowing, well-lubricated productivity of the factories that produce the things you use. And now, through progress in Petrochemicals, you are entering a new world of miracle plastics and wonder fibres — more new things to serve your needs better and cheaper than ever before.

In short, there's hardly anything that you use or wear that hasn't somehow been made a little better through Petroleum Industry Progress.

So it's no wonder that OIL PROGRESS WEEK is celebrated by the Petroleum Industry and Esso employees and dealers everywhere. It honors the kind of progress that today, for example, brings you automobile gasoline that does 50% more work per gallon than 1925 gasolines did! You'll agree there's really something to celebrate!

Bucceroni-Slade Bout in St. Louis

St. Louis, Oct. 14 (AP) — Dan Bucceroni and Jimmy Slade, both looking for a shot at the heavyweight title, and Rocky Marciano, the guy who holds it, enter the ring at the same time tonight at the St. Louis Arena.

Bucceroni, the Philadelphia butcher boy, and Slade will be the slugging principals in a 10-round match. Marciano will serve as an interested third party in the televised match as referee.

Danny Boy is ranked high among the heavyweights and will be favored. Slade, a clever New York Negro officially listed as a light-heavy, probably will give up as much as 15 pounds in an effort to gain recognition among the heavies. Bucceroni usually scales about 193 pounds.

Under Missouri rules the bout, scheduled for national television (CBS) at 10 p. m. (EST), will be decided on a 5-5, 6-4, 7-3 etc. split of 10 points for each round as determined by the referee and two judges.

Called Up by the Yankees

Yanks Sign First Negro Players for Their Team

Power and Howard Come Up From KC

New York, Oct. 14 (AP)—The world champion New York Yankees, for the first time in their 51-year-old major league history, have Negroes on their roster today.

The Yankees became the 11th big league club to acquire a Negro player when they announced the purchase yesterday of Vic Power and Elston Howard from their Kansas City farm club of the American Association. The pair, together with six other hopefuls from Kansas City and Birmingham, will join the parent club at the spring training camp in St. Petersburg, Fla., next February.

A great deal of attention will be placed on the pair, especially Power, who was regarded in some quarters as ready for the big leagues in 1952. Power, 23, is a strong righthanded hitter who led the American Association in batting this season. Besides hitting .349, the infielder-outfielder paces the circuit with 217 hits and 324 total bases. His collection of hits included 39 doubles, 10 triples and 16 home runs. He batted in 93.

Howard Better

Howard, although not as robust a batter as Power, is regarded by several Yankee scouts as the better player. He is an outfielder, has a fine arm and is a ballhawk. He batted .286 in 139 games. Only 22, Howard was purchased from the Kansas City Monarchs in 1952 and put in a half season with Muskegon, Mich., in the now defunct Central League before moving up to Kansas City.

Power's outstanding work in the minors put the Yankees very much on the spot early last spring. They never had a Negro player on their roster and rumors spread that they never intended to have one. Despite the pressure to bring up Power, Yankee General Manager George Weiss stoutly maintained the young Negro was not ready.

"I won't be pressured into bringing up any player too soon," he said, "especially a Negro player. The Yankees are eager to have a Negro player but they are not going to bring one up for exploitation.

"We are not adverse to having a Negro player," he added, "but he must be good enough to win a place on the Yankees. When the time comes when we feel we have that kind of player, we will be only too glad to have him."

Apparently the Yankees think they have that kind of a player in Power and Howard.

The first time Detroit Lion rookie Lew Carpenter got the ball in a regular National Football League game he ran for a touchdown on a 73-yard interception return against the Pittsburgh Steelers.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

Opponents of one-platoon football, who insist the sport now has been reduced to a test of stamina rather than skill, pounced on the Army-Dartmouth as Exhibit A in support of their theory.

If you will recall, the Big Green battled Army valiantly for three periods before a total collapse in the fourth quarter.

Arch Murray, a stout critic of one-platoon football, said the weariness of the Dartmouth players in the late stages was another bit of evidence as to the folly of the new rules. The Indians fought magnificently, he said, until they ran out of gas. Then Army rolled almost at will. Army, employing two teams as much as the rules would allow, simply beat the Green's thinly manned legions into a state of physical exhaustion.

Under the new legislation—the worst law enacted since prohibition—football is no longer a game. It is a test of physical stamina. So says Mr. Murray, but not everybody agrees.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Jim Piersall arrived late and left early but he hustled more than the rest of Frank Shea's troupe combined. And with a glove on each hand in the outfield, yet. Vic Raschi didn't make friends and influence people. The big Yankee chucker was the least cooperative in the matter of autographs. Big Jake Charter, the Poughkeepsie catcher, had a chance to be a real hero when he faced Shea with the bases loaded. The best he could do was a popup to Walt Dropo. New York Knickerbockers and Rochester Royals play a benefit game for the Siena College youth fund on Tuesday, Oct. 20, at the Albany armory. Fran Regan of Rome Sentinel says baseball scuttlebutt around World Series time was that the International League may operate next year as a six-team circuit with low-drawing Springfield being dropped. The Eastern League expects to continue in 1954 with seven of this year's clubs. Allentown will replace Scranton.

• Dick Williams Among the Greats:

A recent communication from Frank McCausland, of 86 Crane street, inquired about the absence of Dick Williams, the municipal auditorium custodian, from the Old Timers game in recent years.

Basically, the contest has been limited to players who were members of the Kingston All Stars and Saugerties A.C. and Bushwicks in the pre-war period.

There is no question that Dick Williams was one of the greatest pitchers ever developed in Ulster county. He was fast, overpowering and had a sharp-breaking hook that was the scourge of batters throughout the Hudson Valley.

McCausland points out that Williams had an over abundance of the three attributes which go to make a great pitcher—head, heart and arm.

"Surely, as we fondly remember Bud Culloton as the Christy Mathewson of local baseball fame," McCausland says, "Eddie Scherer as our local Lefty Gomez, Walt Black as Lefty Grove and, perhaps, Rube Forsyth as Grover Cleveland Alexander, then we must list Dick Williams as our own Walter Johnson. . . ."

• One Platoon Popular With Fans:

Brig.-General Bob Neyland is positive that the return to one-platoon football is just what the fans ordered.

The former Tennessee football coach was on the committee that abolished the two-platoon system.

"On the day before we went into our meeting, the waitress at breakfast knowing we were on the rules committee, said she hoped we did something about the two-platoon system," the General said. "I was riding in a taxicab, and the driver remarked that he hoped we would abolish the two-platoons. The hostess at the hotel said she hoped we did something about the two-platoon.

"Some coaches may have objected, but I knew how the fans felt," said Neyland. And the rule was scrapped.

Duke Halfback Best of Week

New York, Oct. 14 (AP)—Jerry Barger, Duke's regular quarterback as a freshman two years ago and a bench-warmer since then, shook the splinters out of his football pants last Saturday and then shook Purdue with a brilliant all-around performance.

The result was that Barger was named today as the Associated Press back of the week. In addition, he appears to have won back the regular starting position from Worth Lutz, whose injury gave Barger his chance to shine against Purdue.

Barger's performance, which included scoring the winning touchdown with only 39 seconds to play, gave him a slight edge over Maryland's Bernie Faloney and a pair of Illinois stars, J. C. Caroline and Mickey Bates in the opinions of the sports writers and broadcasters participating in the Associated Press poll.

Barger, a 174-pound, 5-foot-10 junior from Salisbury, N. C., figured in all three Duke touchdowns. He passed for one, gaining 124 yards through the air on three completions, set up another and scored the winner himself after piloting the Blue Devils on a 67-yard drive in the waning minutes of the game. He also intercepted two Purdue passes and knocked down one in the end zone and kicked for a 37-yard average in a 60-minute performance.

Back of the Week

Jerry Barger of Duke University was named The Associated Press back of the week for his fine play in game against Purdue last Saturday.

The Brooklyn Dodgers established or tied 35 records in 1953 regular season play.

Hit and Run Horse

Dayton, Ohio (AP) — "Attention all cars," the police radio blurted out. "Wanted for hit-and-run accident, a large white horse pulling a vegetable wagon." The docile beast was trotting along when a street department crew triggered noisy air hammers, police discovered later. Nellie tore off like grandma used to when the autos first hit the road. Nellie slammed into a parked car and went on her way with her elderly driver handling the reins. The speedy police cars weren't able to catch old-fashioned Nellie.

club to a Pacific Coast League flag the previous season. Under his direction, the Dodgers built up a huge 13½ game lead in mid-August of '51 only to lose the pennant to the New York Giants in a post-season playoff.

Dressen and the Dodgers atoned for this failure, however, the next two seasons.

Dressen was the first National League manager to win two successive pennants since Billy Southworth accomplished the feat with the 1942-43-44 St. Louis Cardinals. He directed a power-packed Dodger team that established 35 records in racking up 105 victories the past season, the most ever won by a Brooklyn team. His team clinched the flag on Sept. 12, missing the record for the earliest clinching by one day as the 1906 Chicago Cubs clinched the flag on Sept. 11.

THE CITY OF NEW YORK
DEPARTMENT OF WATER SUPPLY, GAS AND ELECTRICITY
BOARD OF WATER SUPPLY

Prefatory Remarks

It is the duty of the Commissioner of the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity of the City of New York to preserve the purity of all waters from which any part of the City's water supply is drawn, and to protect such supply and the lands adjacent thereto from injury or nuisance. With this object in view, the annexed rules and regulations have been prepared pursuant to the provisions of Section 70 of Ch. 45 of the Consolidated Laws (Public Health Law) as amended by Ch. 391 of L. 1933. They have been approved by the State Department or Health. It is their purpose to protect New York City's water supply and to promote the general welfare.

During the construction of any water supply works by the Board of Water Supply of the City of New York, and until such time as they are transferred to the jurisdiction of the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, it is the duty of the Board to insure such preservation and protection. These rules and regulations, upon their adoption by said Board, apply to any specified locality in which such works are under construction.

Tenants and owners of property are, therefore, advised to consult with the Department's or the Board's local representatives before committing any act that may lead to the pollution of any spring, marsh, water course or reservoir in any way connected with the City's water supply.

Plans for the disposal of sewage must be submitted to appropriate State, County or City Departments of Health in accordance with the requirements of the State Sanitary Code and Article VI of the Public Health Law after they have been submitted to and approved by the Department or the Board in accordance with Rule 14 of these Rules and Regulations.

The Department's local representatives are:

1. For the Catskill Watershed: Resident Engineer, Burgevin Building, corner Fair and Main Streets, Kingston, N. Y., Telephone Kingston 1565.

2. For the Croton, Bronx and Byram Watersheds: Resident Engineer, Katonah, N. Y. Telephone Katonah 4-0015.

3. For the Long Island Watershed: Division Engineer, Ridgewood Pumping Station, 3201 Atlantic Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y. Telephone Applegate 7-3400.

The Board's local representatives are those designated from time to time by its Chief Engineer.

RULES AND REGULATIONS OF THE DEPARTMENT OF WATER SUPPLY, GAS AND ELECTRICITY AND THE BOARD OF WATER SUPPLY OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK IN RELATION TO THE PROTECTION FROM CONTAMINATION OF THE WATER SUPPLY AND ITS SOURCES.

Definitions

1. The watersheds herein referred to are those from which the City of New York, or any private water company serving any portion of said City, obtains any part of its water supply.

2. All springs, marshes, water courses and reservoirs herein referred to are such as are located on a watershed described in Section 1 hereof.

3. The term "water course" includes aqueducts, pipe lines, natural or artificial streams or channels through which water flows continually, intermittently or occasionally.

4. The term "reservoir" includes any natural or artificial lake or pond.

5. The term "Department" means the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity of the City of New York, acting by its Commissioner or such other official or officials as he shall from time to time in writing designate to execute or supervise the execution of these rules.

The term "Board" means the Board of Water Supply of the City of New York, acting by its Commissioners and through its Chief Engineer and his designated representatives.

Distances

6. When any limiting distance is mentioned, it shall refer to the distance by horizontal measurement from the high water mark of a spring, marsh, water course or reservoir, except that where there is a precipitous bank, such limiting distance shall refer to the distance by horizontal measurement from the top of such bank.

7. Any limiting distance may be decreased where in the opinion of the Department or the Board this can be done without danger to water supply, or where the limits or size of the property concerned render this necessary; and any limiting distance may be increased where in the opinion of the Department or the Board this is necessary for the protection of the water supply against contamination.

Deposit, Storage and Disposal of Human Excreta

8. No human excreta shall be deposited in any spring, marsh, water course or reservoir.

9. No human excreta shall be deposited on the ground within two hundred and fifty (250) feet of any spring, marsh, water course or reservoir, nor anywhere in such manner that they can be washed into the same by rain, melting snow or otherwise.

10. No privy or other place for the deposit or storage of human excreta, except water-flushed toilets connected by a suitable water-tight pipe to a sewage disposal system that has been approved by the Department or the Board shall be constructed, located or maintained within fifty (50) feet of any spring, marsh, water course or reservoir, or at such place or in such manner as to contaminate or threaten to contaminate the same.

11. Beyond said distance of fifty (50) feet, and for a further distance of two hundred (200) feet from a spring, marsh, water course or reservoir, no human excreta shall be deposited or stored except (a) in water-flushed toilets of the character above described or (b) in privies with a water-tight and flyproof vault, or other approved receptacle.

12. In emptying a vault, or other approved receptacle, or transferring its contents to a transportable receptacle, all necessary care shall be exercised to prevent the contamination of any spring, marsh, water course or reservoir. All such transportable receptacles shall be provided with tightly fitting covers, securely fastened during the process of removal to the place of ultimate disposal. After each use, such receptacles shall be thoroughly cleaned and deodorized.

13. All places of ultimate disposal of human excreta, other than sewage disposal plants, shall be located not less than two hundred and fifty (250) feet from any spring, marsh, water course or reservoir. In the absence of any other method of disposal approved by the Department or the Board, the excreta shall be buried in trenches of moderate depth, so located that there shall be no contamination of the ground water.

14. All sewage disposal systems shall be operated and maintained in a manner approved by the Department or the Board. Before any existing sewage disposal system is altered or any new sewage disposal system is constructed, the plans in relation thereto shall have been first approved by the Department or the Board.

House and Similar Wastes

15. No house slops, sink, laundry, garage or stable wastes, swimming pool discharges, nor any other polluted liquid shall be thrown or discharged into any spring, marsh, water course or reservoir, nor shall any such matter be thrown or discharged upon or into the ground within two hundred and fifty (250) feet thereof, unless it shall have been previously purified in a manner deemed adequate by the Department or the Board (as through treatment with an approved disinfectant or filtration through the soil).

Dead Animals, Manure, Garbage and Other Refuse

16. No dead animal, manure, garbage, compost, vegetable or any putrescible matters shall be deposited in any spring, marsh, water course or reservoir, nor on nor in the ground within one hundred (100) feet thereof nor anywhere in such manner that it can be washed by rain, melting snow or otherwise over the surface of the ground into any spring, marsh, water course or reservoir.

Places Where Dung May Accumulate

17. All stables, pigsties, poultry or barnyards, slaughter houses, standing places for horses or cattle, and all other places where animal dung or

LEGAL NOTICE

Manufacturing and Other Similar Wastes

18. No filth, decaying or putrescible matter, toxic substances, waste product, liquid or trade waste from any industrial, commercial or institutional plant or establishment of any other kind shall be discharged, drained or washed into any spring, marsh, water course or reservoir, unless such matter shall have been previously purified in a manner deemed adequate by the Department or the Board.

Washing, Bathing, Wading and Swimming

19. No clothes or unclean objects of any kind shall be washed in any spring, marsh, water course or reservoir. Bathing, wading and swimming are prohibited in any water course or reservoir owned by the City of New York.

Interments

20. No interments shall be made within one hundred and thirty (130) feet of any spring, marsh, water course or reservoir, nor in such manner and place as to result in any pollution thereof. In the case of a reservoir whose waters are delivered directly into an aqueduct or pipe line for transportation to the City of New York, such distance shall be three hundred (300) feet. On the Long Island Watershed, no new cemetery shall be established within one-half mile of any reservoir.

General Clause

21. In addition to observing the foregoing requirements, all persons living on or visiting a watershed shall refrain from any action, though not hereinbefore specified, which may result in contamination of any portion of the water supply of the City of New York.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

Discords from too many vocal cords. That seems to define much of our news of the past week or two.

One would not think it possible that among such brilliant businessmen and leaders as we have in Washington that there could be so many "echoes and errors."

The New York Times weekly news-letter leads off with "Confusion on the Potomac."

One might meekly inquire if the toppermost officials vary in their pronouncements to the extraordinary degree they have in commenting upon the H-bomb, what do thye expect the public to understand?

Here we have preparedness against Russia's H-bomb estimated to cost all the way from a paltry $500 million up to the hefty sum of $10 billion. Even in these days of hyper-spending a gap of nine-and-a-half billions is, to say the least, reckless talk.

And turning to the immediacy of the danger from H-bomb attacks on the U. S., the time of alarm varies from "right now, today" to "no danger for another three or four years."

These official remarks are inexcusable and downright perilous because you cannot play fast and loose with public emotions.

As we know from our studies of mass psychology and "extraordinary popular delusions" (to use part of the title of Charles Mackay's famous history book of manias: "Extraordinary Popular Delusions and the Madness of Crowds") . . . as we learn from mass psychology, you never know when suddenly a crowd manifestation will develop out of just such vocal discords as we have recently experienced.

But it would only be adding guesswork to confusion for this writer to venture what the public reaction will be. Perhaps there will be none whatever. On the other hand, there are sure to be mixed opinions concerning a massive step-up in defense, renewed fears of a Russian bomb-attack, and whether or not all this H-bomb talk means another burst of inflation.

We are told that the President plans a series of talks on this question of national defense. This may lay the dust but the cold fact remains that at this writing people are bound to wonder if anybody has any settled judgment on what policy this nation should pursue.

As the Ruminator sees it, there is a tug-of-war going on between those who wish to make a big showing in the monetary arena and those who place defense ahead of deficits.

We can spend ourselves into one type of smash-up, which means depression and panic; or we can avert the economic smash-up and risk the destruction and panic from war and bomb attacks.

The solution will doubtless be a "middle-of-the-road" decision: spend less and take a calculated risk. (The Ruminator thinks the middle-road philosophy is merely an excuse not to take a firm stand, and for that reason he rejects it. Let's be for something, or against it: not for and against a little of each. In this same connection, the words "calculated risk" have popular usage because they let you out from facing an issue squarely. A risk is a risk, and just because you calculate it, that doesn't avoid the risk. Indeed, it does not lessen it, unless you have a pre-determined plan to "get out before the house falls." Korea has been called by some a "calculated risk." It was no such thing, because there was no predetermined way to get "out" if we had to.)

So long as the government persists in adopting expedients to counteract events, we shall continue to live in a world of confusion.

In consequence, the Ruminator begs to be allowed to reiterate once more the fallacy of predictions. It should be evident that where there is an unbridgable chasm among nations—both in ideologies and economics—the future is unknowable. An "event" in Washington, London, or Moscow (or in Belgrade) can alter plans, policies, and predictions overnight.

Mt. Tremper

Mt. Tremper, Oct. 13—Members of the Onteora Hose Company worked Sunday on the firehouse. Among other things they fitted the windows for the building. They are seeking additional volunteer help on Sunday mornings as they hope to have the roof on before winter sets in.

Mr. and Mrs. John Schlegal of New York and Mt. Tremper spent the holiday weekend at their home here. Schlegal joined the Onteora Hose Company and worked with the firemen on Sunday.

Sister Mary Kathleen of the Missionary Sisters of the Most Secred Heart of Jesus, Reading, Pa., spent Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. John Callaghan and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Umhey. She was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Lyon and Miss Elizabeth Callaghan of Brooklyn and Cairo.

Sister Mary Kathleen will soon depart for missionary work in New Guinea. She is the Callaghans' niece and the Umheys' cousin. She expects to be stationed in New Guinea for at least 10 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Caesar Velardi and family of Mamaroneck and Mt. Tremper spent the weekend at their home on the Wittenberg Road. They enjoyed the benefits of the electricity which was recently provided to the residents of Umhey Mountain. The Velardis had wired their home 25 years ago.

Mrs. Howard White of New York and this village is spending a week here to be near her sister, Miss Catherine Feller, who has been a patient at Kingston City Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Withers are spending a two-week vacation at their apartment on the Onteora Trail. They are having a garage built on the property they recently purchased between the properties of Alfred Ransell and Mrs. Emma Cunningham. The Withers expect to build a home there in the spring.

Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Hirschberg spent the holiday at their home here.

Puts Bee on Neighbors

West Hartford, Conn. (AP)—Neighbors complained about the bees Otto Swenson kept in his yard and had him arrested. He quickly brushed up on the law. The judge dropped the case. Swenson had learned that the law says that neighbors or no neighbors, all he had to do to keep bees legally is get a permit from the town clerk. The permit cost him twenty-five cents.

Explosive Well

Olivia, Minn. (AP)—The Francis Tisdell family is waiting for its water well to blow its top again. The well has been "exploding" about once a month since January. Some of the first blasts all but wrecked the wellhouse. Dr. George A. Thiel, chairman of the University of Minnesota geology department, says the explosions are from marsh gas that bubbles up from peat beds locked in the ground.

"But, madam, a pound is only 8 ounces today!"

No, weights haven't changed. But many values have. Seems no matter what you buy, you get less for your money today. Except when you buy telephone service. Even though the cost of living has jumped 91%, the average price of telephone service has risen only 16% since 1940.

One reason your telephone is a bigger bargain than ever today is that the price of telephone service has gone up only a little, even though our telephone costs have gone up a lot.

Yet you are getting faster, better, more useful service. For example, in the average community today, customers can call more than twice as many telephones as they could in 1940 without a toll charge. And we're going right ahead with the costliest construction program in our history—to meet the continuing demand, and to make service even better than ever.

Measured by service or measured by price, your telephone is one of today's big bargains.

TODAY'S BIG BARGAIN. Your cost of living has jumped 91% since 1940. Yet the price of phone service has risen an average of only 16%—more for some, less for others, of course, depending on the type of service and the use made of it.

RULES AND REGULATIONS FOR THE PROTECTION FROM CONTAMINATION OF THE NEW YORK CITY WATER SUPPLY AND ITS SOURCES.

Prefatory Remarks

It is the duty of the Commissioner of the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity of the City of New York to preserve the purity of all waters from which any part of the City's water supply is drawn, and to protect such supply and the lands adjacent thereto from injury or nuisance. With this object in view, the annexed rules and regulations have been prepared pursuant to the provisions of Section 70 of Ch. 45 of the Consolidated Laws (Public Health Law) as amended by Ch. 391 of L. 1933. They have been approved by the State Department or Health. It is their purpose to protect New York City's water supply and to promote the general welfare.

During the construction of any water supply works by the Board of Water Supply of the City of New York, and until such time as they are transferred to the jurisdiction of the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, it is the duty of the Board to insure such preservation and protection. These rules and regulations, upon their adoption by said Board, apply to any specified locality in which such works are under construction.

Tenants and owners of property are, therefore, advised to consult with the Department's or the Board's local representatives before committing any act that may lead to the pollution of any spring, marsh, water course or reservoir in any way connected with the City's water supply.

Plans for the disposal of sewage must be submitted to appropriate State, County or City Departments of Health in accordance with the requirements of the State Sanitary Code and Article VI of the Public Health Law after they have been submitted to and approved by the Department or the Board in accordance with Rule 14 of these Rules and Regulations.

The Department's local representatives are:

1. For the Catskill Watershed: Resident Engineer, Burgevin Building, corner Fair and Main Streets, Kingston, N. Y., Telephone Kingston 1565.

2. For the Croton, Bronx and Byram Watersheds: Resident Engineer, Katonah, N. Y. Telephone Katonah 4-0015.

3. For the Long Island Watershed: Division Engineer, Ridgewood Pumping Station, 3201 Atlantic Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y. Telephone Applegate 7-3400.

The Board's local representatives are those designated from time to time by its Chief Engineer.

Definitions

1. The watersheds herein referred to are those from which the City of New York, or any private water company serving any portion of said City, obtains any part of its water supply.

2. All springs, marshes, water courses and reservoirs herein referred to are such as are located on a watershed described in Section 1 hereof.

3. The term "water course" includes aqueducts, pipe lines, natural or artificial streams or channels through which water flows continually, intermittently or occasionally.

4. The term "reservoir" includes any natural or artificial lake or pond.

5. The term "Department" means the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity of the City of New York, acting by its Commissioner or such other official or officials as he shall from time to time in writing designate to execute or supervise the execution of these rules.

The term "Board" means the Board of Water Supply of the City of New York, acting by its Commissioners and through its Chief Engineer and his designated representatives.

Distances

6. When any limiting distance is mentioned, it shall refer to the distance by horizontal measurement from the high water mark of a spring, marsh, water course or reservoir, except that where there is a precipitous bank, such limiting distance shall refer to the distance by horizontal measurement from the top of such bank.

7. Any limiting distance may be decreased where in the opinion of the Department or the Board this can be done without danger to water supply, or where the limits or size of the property concerned render this necessary; and any limiting distance may be increased where in the opinion of the Department or the Board this is necessary for the protection of the water supply against contamination.

Deposit, Storage and Disposal of Human Excreta

8. No human excreta shall be deposited in any spring, marsh, water course or reservoir.

9. No human excreta shall be deposited on the ground within two hundred and fifty (250) feet of any spring, marsh, water course or reservoir, nor anywhere in such manner that they can be washed into the same by rain, melting snow or otherwise.

12. In emptying a vault, or other approved receptacle, or transferring its contents to a transportable receptacle, all necessary care shall be exercised to prevent the contamination of any spring, marsh, water course or reservoir. All such transportable receptacles shall be provided with tightly fitting covers, securely fastened during the process of removal to the place of ultimate disposal. After each use, such receptacles shall be thoroughly cleaned and deodorized.

Manufacturing and Other Similar Wastes

18. No filth, decaying or putrescible matter, toxic substances, waste product, liquid or trade waste from any industrial, commercial or institutional plant or establishment of any other kind shall be discharged, drained or washed into any spring, marsh, water course or reservoir, unless such matter shall have been previously purified in a manner deemed adequate by the Department or the Board.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

Discords from too many vocal cords. That seems to define much of our news of the past week or two.

One would not think it possible that among such brilliant businessmen and leaders as we have in Washington that there could be so many "echoes and errors."

The New York Times weekly news-letter leads off with "Confusion on the Potomac."

One might meekly inquire if the toppermost officials vary in their pronouncements to the extraordinary degree they have in commenting upon the H-bomb, what do thye expect the public to understand?

Here we have preparedness against Russia's H-bomb estimated to cost all the way from a paltry $500 million up to the hefty sum of $10 billion. Even in these days of hyper-spending a gap of nine-and-a-half billions is, to say the least, reckless talk.

And turning to the immediacy of the danger from H-bomb attacks on the U. S., the time of alarm varies from "right now, today" to "no danger for another three or four years."

These official remarks are inexcusable and downright perilous because you cannot play fast and loose with public emotions.

As we know from our studies of mass psychology and "extraordinary popular delusions" (to use part of the title of Charles Mackay's famous history book of manias: "Extraordinary Popular Delusions and the Madness of Crowds") . . . as we learn from mass psychology, you never know when suddenly a crowd manifestation will develop out of just such vocal discords as we have recently experienced.

But it would only be adding guesswork to confusion for this writer to venture what the public reaction will be. Perhaps there will be none whatever. On the other hand, there are sure to be mixed opinions concerning a massive step-up in defense, renewed fears of a Russian bomb-attack, and whether or not all this H-bomb talk means another burst of inflation.

We are told that the President plans a series of talks on this question of national defense. This may lay the dust but the cold fact remains that at this writing people are bound to wonder if anybody has any settled judgment on what policy this nation should pursue.

As the Ruminator sees it, there is a tug-of-war going on between those who wish to make a big showing in the monetary arena and those who place defense ahead of deficits.

It is no simple dilemma to resolve.

We can spend ourselves into one type of smash-up, which means depression and panic; or we can avert the economic smash-up and risk the destruction and panic from war and bomb attacks.

The solution will doubtless be a "middle-of-the-road" decision: spend less and take a calculated risk. (The Ruminator thinks the middle-road philosophy is merely an excuse not to take a firm stand, and for that reason he rejects it. Let's be for something, or against it: not for and against a little of each. In this same connection, the words "calculated risk" have popular usage because they let you out from facing an issue squarely. A risk is a risk, and just because you calculate it, that doesn't avoid the risk. Indeed, it does not lessen it, unless you have a pre-determined plan to "get out before the house falls." Korea has been called by some a "calculated risk." It was no such thing, because there was no predetermined way to get "out" if we had to.)

So long as the government persists in adopting expedients to counteract events, we shall continue to live in a world of confusion.

In consequence, the Ruminator begs to be allowed to reiterate once more the fallacy of predictions. It should be evident that where there is an unbridgable chasm among nations—both in ideologies and economics—the future is unknowable. An "event" in Washington, London, or Moscow (or in Belgrade) can alter plans, policies, and predictions overnight.

Mt. Tremper

Mt. Tremper, Oct. 13—Members of the Onteora Hose Company worked Sunday on the firehouse. Among other things they fitted the windows for the building. They are seeking additional volunteer help on Sunday mornings as they hope to have the roof on before winter sets in.

Mr. and Mrs. John Schlegal of New York and Mt. Tremper spent the holiday weekend at their home here. Schlegal joined the Onteora Hose Company and worked with the firemen on Sunday.

Sister Mary Kathleen of the Missionary Sisters of the Most Secred Heart of Jesus, Reading, Pa., spent Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. John Callaghan and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Umhey. She was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Lyon and Miss Elizabeth Callaghan of Brooklyn and Cairo.

Sister Mary Kathleen will soon depart for missionary work in New Guinea. She is the Callaghans' niece and the Umheys' cousin. She expects to be stationed in New Guinea for at least 10 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Caesar Velardi and family of Mamaroneck and Mt. Tremper spent the weekend at their home on the Wittenberg Road. They enjoyed the benefits of the electricity which was recently provided to the residents of Umhey Mountain. The Velardis had wired their home 25 years ago.

Mrs. Howard White of New York and this village is spending a week here to be near her sister, Miss Catherine Feller, who has been a patient at Kingston City Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Withers are spending a two-week vacation at their apartment on the Onteora Trail. They are having a garage built on the property they recently purchased between the properties of Alfred Ransell and Mrs. Emma Cunningham. The Withers expect to build a home there in the spring.

Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Hirschberg spent the holiday at their home here.

Puts Bee on Neighbors

West Hartford, Conn. (AP)—Neighbors complained about the bees Otto Swenson kept in his yard and had him arrested. He quickly brushed up on the law. The judge dropped the case. Swenson had learned that the law says that neighbors or no neighbors, all he had to do to keep bees legally is get a permit from the town clerk. The permit cost him twenty-five cents.

Explosive Well

Olivia, Minn. (AP)—The Francis Tisdell family is waiting for its water well to blow its top again. The well has been "exploding" about once a month since January. Some of the first blasts all but wrecked the wellhouse. Dr. George A. Thiel, chairman of the University of Minnesota geology department, says the explosions are from marsh gas that bubbles up from peat beds locked in the ground.

"But, madam, a pound is only 8 ounces today!"

No, weights haven't changed. But many values have. Seems no matter what you buy, you get less for your money today. Except when you buy telephone service. Even though the cost of living has jumped 91%, the average price of telephone service has risen only 16% since 1940.

One reason your telephone is a bigger bargain than ever today is that the price of telephone service has gone up only a little, even though our telephone costs have gone up a lot.

Yet you are getting faster, better, more useful service. For example, in the average community today, customers can call more than twice as many telephones as they could in 1940 without a toll charge. And we're going right ahead with the costliest construction program in our history—to meet the continuing demand, and to make service even better than ever.

Measured by service or measured by price, your telephone is one of today's big bargains.

TODAY'S BIG BARGAIN. Your cost of living has jumped 91% since 1940. Yet the price of phone service has risen an average of only 16%—more for some, less for others, of course, depending on the type of service and the use made of it.

Attorney Streifer Elected President Of Jewish Center

ABRAHAM STREIFER

Abraham Streifer, prominent Kingston attorney and civic leader was unanimously elected president of the Jewish Community Center during the 1953-54 season, at the third annual membership meeting on October 7.

Elected with him, as officers of the board of directors, were David Kline and Mrs. Harry Speigel as vice-presidents; Sadie H. Lutzin, secretary; Sigmund Rudisch, treasurer. Herman J. Eaton, in his capacity as president of the Jewish Community Council, will serve on the board as member ex-officio. Honorary members of the board are Rabbi Herbert I. Bloom, Rabbi David Kohn and Rabbi H. Z. Rappaport.

Plans to Extend Program

Attorney Streifer, in accepting the post of president, expressed his appreciation of the honor and confidence placed in him by the people of the Jewish community of Kingston. At the same time, he said, he was mindful of the opportunity as well as the responsibility to promote the growth of the center, and through its program, to add to the leisure-time enjoyment of the individual members of the community.

Streifer discussed various problems together with plans for extension of the center's services to the community, emphasizing in particular his desire to see the continued development of the Jewish Community Center as a socially constructive force in Kingston and the surrounding area. Toward these ends, he declared, he was both gratified and encouraged by the fine calibre of the other members of the board of directors who, he said, shared these objectives with him.

Pays Tribute to Sklar

He expressed his personal confidence as well as that of the board and membership in Murray M. Sklar, executive director of the center, and paid tribute to the splendid contributions made by the lay leaders of the center.

Sklar informed those assembled that copies of his annual report, After Two Years, had been mailed to all members of the Jewish Community Center. He took the occasion, however, to summarize some of the highlights of this report, which was followed by a discussion from the floor led by Herman J. Eaton, chairman of the meeting.

The meeting was concluded with a showing of a Charlie Chaplin comedy, and refreshments which were served by a board committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. Harry Speigel.

Elected to Board

Members of the board elected at the meeting include the following: John Levy, Daniel Weisberg, Al Woolf, Bernard Abelove, Herman Rafalowsky, Benjamin Schecter, Mrs. Marion Zwick, Mrs. Leone Gross, Mrs. Raphael Klein and Mrs. Herbert Kletske, Seymour Werbalowsky, Joseph Honig, Harry Gold, Gilbert Adin, Aaron Adin, Irving Levine, Leon Miller, Sidney Halpern and Irving Kalish, Joseph Levine, Richard Kalish, Miss Rae Weiner, Carl Pauker, Julius Kirschner, Dr. Herbert Derman, Mrs. Shirley Fletcher, Haskell Naigles and Herbert Gertner.

Three Face Death

Cairo, Egypt, Oct. 14 (AP)—Egypt's revolutionary court returned three more death sentences today against persons convicted of "high treason and espionage against Egypt." Those sentenced today to hang were Boulos Maximos Soucha, Alfred Awad Mikhail and Mohammed Ezzat Ragheb. Two other Egyptians have been sentenced to death on similar charges in the treason trials underway since Sept. 26.

Wicks' Test May

ing wrong, apparently felt he had enough friends in the Republican-dominated Senate to win a vote of confidence as majority leader and temporary Senate president.

The governor asked Wicks' resignation in a four-hour conference during which, the 65-year-old senator said, Dewey termed the visits to Fay as source of embarrassment to the state administration and the Republican party.

The veteran senator declared he had gone to see the onetime union leader only to ask his help in avoiding labor trouble in the senator's district—Ulster, Greene, Sullivan and Delaware counties.

Wicks told Dewey, however, he would submit his resignation as majority leader and president pro tem "at the next session of the Legislature" so that his fellow senators could "pass upon my fitness."

The Republicans control the Senate, 37 to 19.

As temporary head of that body, Wicks has been serving as acting lieutenant governor since the Sept. 30 resignation of Frank C. Moore, who left to become head of a private research group.

Plans Not Known

While Dewey's leadership of the Republican party in the state has heretofore gone unquestioned, it is not known whether he plans to seek a fourth term next year.

Some observers feel that should Wicks win the fight Nov. 17, Dewey unquestionably would not run for governor again. These same observers see the Wicks matter as already damaging to the party.

It apparently is too early for anyone to predict with certainty how Wicks' colleagues will react in the test of strength.

Dewey said Monday he did not intend to take any steps to induce Republican senators to reject Wicks. However, the governor already has made his feelings in the case clear to them and to the public.

Wicks is not without friends in the Senate, where he has served since 1927, the last four years as majority leader.

Observers feel the fact that he has done favors for many senators, Democratic as well as Republican, may stand him in good stead.

Sen. Walter J. Mahoney of Buffalo is considered likely to succeed Wicks, should he lose the contest. Mahoney is chairman of the powerful Senate Finance Committee.

Sen. John H. Hughes of Syracuse also is viewed as a possible successor.

Poll Is Made

Garden City, Oct. 14 (AP)—The newspaper Newsday said today a survey shows Gov. Thomas E. Dewey has "almost solid backing of county GOP leaders across the state in his controversy with acting Lt. Gov. Arthur H. Wicks.

In a copyrighted article, Newsday published the replies of 51 county chairmen to a series of 5 questions asked them yesterday by telephone. The paper said it did not try to contact Wicks, who is Ulster county Republican leader, and was unable to contact the chairmen of 10 other counties in the state.

To the key question of the poll —"As county chairman do you support Governor Dewey or Senator Wicks and why?—23 answered they supported or leaned toward Dewey; 2 favored Wicks, with reservations; 13 said they needed to know more facts before taking a stand; and 13 had no comment.

Comments Quoted

Typical of those backing Dewey were the comments of:

Burt D. Ludington, Orleans: "We have to support the leader of the party whether he is right or wrong...we'll stay neutral but if it comes to a showdown, we'll have to support the organization."

Bert C. Cate, Schuyler; "I will support the governor (because)... he stands for the party."

Howard Marsha, Clinton: "I always support Governor Dewey. I do so at all times because I know he is honest."

Dudo, Bailey Back Wicks

The two backing Wicks were Lewis county's Dwight N. Dudo and Greene county's Milton O. Bailey.

Dudo said that "from what I know he (Wicks) has done nothing wrong." He added he might change his views if "the full story" were revealed.

Bailey, whose county is part of Wicks' senatorial district, said his sympathies were with Wicks but "I don't want to say whom I would support . . . if a party fight develops."

Dr. E. Ogden Bush, leader of Delaware which is also in Wicks' district, said he would not take a stand until "I know more about this thing."

Four Questions

Newsday listed its other four questions and the tabulation of replies as follows:

1. Do you think it was proper for a high official of the state government to seek solution of a labor, or any other problem from a convict in Sing Sing?—22 answered it was improper, 5 it would be proper under certain circumstances, 8 wanted more facts, 16 no comment.

2. Do you think Wicks' visits to Fay have hurt the GOP and will hurt the party in the 1954 congressional elections if he doesn't resign or if he is not forced out? —22 will not hurt, 5 will hurt, 12 unable to say yet, 12 no comment.

3. Do you think Wicks should have resigned for the good of the Republican Party?—8 replied he should, 10 not necessarily, 17 wanted more facts and 16 no comment.

4. Do you think Wicks should resign as senator as well as majority leader and acting lituteant governor?—Newsday said the replies were too varied to make any tabulation possible.

Would Stay Aloof

Albany, Oct. 14 (AP)—Richard H. Balch, Democratic state chairman, feels the 19 Democratic members of the New York Senate should remain aloof from the showdown battle next month over the fate of Arthur H. Wicks as Senate majority leader, an informed source said today.

Balch, in Utica, said he did not want to comment "at all at this time" on the position to be taken by the Democratic minority when the question of Wicks' resignation as leader is brought up at a special session of the Legislature, called by Gov. Dewey for Nov. 17.

Balch himself has said he believes Wicks should resign as majority leader and temporary president of the Senate, in which capacity the Kingston senator is serving as acting lieutenant governor, because of his visits to labor extortionist Joseph S. Fay in Sing Sing prison.

It is expected that Balch will meet the Democratic legislative leaders prior to the special session to decide what course will be followed.

He is known to feel that if the Wicks issue reaches the floor of the Senate—instead of being decided in a Republican caucus—the 19 Democratic members should vote for Minority Leader Francis J. Mahoney for the majority leadership.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Two Testify They Paid Cash Bribes

New York, Oct. 14 (AP)—A doctor and a dentist from upstate New York testified today they paid $5,000 to have their dishonest tax returns "fixed."

It was a dead loss, however, they admitted because the government later on forced them to cough up $23,200 for the unpaid taxes.

Both men were federal witnesses at the trial of five former tax collectors. H. Harold Miller, Catskill accountant, previously told of receiving the bribe money and passing some of it to the men on trial.

Dr. Thomas Earl McQuade, of Coxsackie, said Miller told him "apparently I was in a hell of a jam with the government and $4,000 would straighten this thing out."

He said he paid Miller this amount, and was assessed a little under $2,000 on his 1946-48 returns. On re-examination last summer, he paid $16,500 additionally, he said.

Dr. McQuade said the Coxsackie lawyers who prepared his returns did not know his figures were dishonest.

Dr. David Perry Brown of Catskill, the dentist, said he also was not honest in preparing his 1946 return and was "careless" about marking down his receipts.

Eisenhower Says

added that while it was a Republican gathering, it wasn't a partisan meeting.

So far as Pennsylvania politics went, it was strictly non-partisan from the President's standpoint. He gave no one leader in the state's mixed-up Republican political situation a smile a whit wider than another.

Gov. John S. Fine, who can't seem to agree with Sen. Duff (R-Pa.) on the man the Republicans ought to run for governor, got exactly the same treatment as Duff. They and Sen. Edward Martin (R-Pa.), another factor in party differences, shared the Presidential box, but none got a private word with Eisenhower.

But the presence at the party of Gov. Dan Thornton, Colorado Democrat, may have reminded Eisenhower of the politicking to come in a seven-day journey to the central and southern states. He is due to leave Washington tonight.

Thornton has called a meeting of governors of drouth-hit states in Kansas City, where Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Benson will have to wrestle with that problem on his trip.

The upset victory of the Democratic candidate in a special Congressional election in Wisconsin has pointed up the problems the President and Benson face.

High School Marriages

Dallas (AP)—Of approximately 20 thousand students in Dallas junior and senior high schools 72 are married, Dr. W. T. White, superintendent, said records showed. The teen-agers include 56 girls and 16 boys.

Attorney Streifer Elected President Of Jewish Center

ABRAHAM STREIFER

Abraham Streifer, prominent Kingston attorney and civic leader was unanimously elected president of the Jewish Community Center during the 1953-54 season, at the third annual membership meeting on October 7.

Elected with him, as officers of the board of directors, were David Kline and Mrs. Harry Speigel as vice-presidents; Sadie H. Lutzin, secretary; Sigmund Rudisch, treasurer. Herman J. Eaton, in his capacity as president of the Jewish Community Council, will serve on the board as member ex-officio. Honorary members of the board are Rabbi Herbert I. Bloom, Rabbi David Kohn and Rabbi H. Z. Rappaport.

Plans to Extend Program

Attorney Streifer, in accepting the post of president, expressed his appreciation of the honor and confidence placed in him by the people of the Jewish community of Kingston. At the same time, he said, he was mindful of the opportunity as well as the responsibility to promote the growth of the center, and through its program, to add to the leisure-time enjoyment of the individual members of the community.

Streifer discussed various problems together with plans for extension of the center's services to the community, emphasizing in particular his desire to see the continued development of the Jewish Community Center as a socially constructive force in Kingston and the surrounding area. Toward these ends, he declared, he was both gratified and encouraged by the fine calibre of the other members of the board of directors who, he said, shared these objectives with him.

Pays Tribute to Sklar

He expressed his personal confidence as well as that of the board and membership in Murray M. Sklar, executive director of the center, and paid tribute to the splendid contributions made by the lay leaders of the center.

Sklar informed those assembled that copies of his annual report, After Two Years, had been mailed to all members of the Jewish Community Center. He took the occasion, however, to summarize some of the highlights of this report, which was followed by a discussion from the floor led by Herman J. Eaton, chairman of the meeting.

The meeting was concluded with a showing of a Charlie Chaplin comedy, and refreshments which were served by a board committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. Harry Speigel.

Elected to Board

Members of the board elected at the meeting include the following: John Levy, Daniel Weisberg, Al Woolf, Bernard Abelove, Herman Rafalowsky, Benjamin Schecter, Mrs. Marion Zwick, Mrs. Leone Gross, Mrs. Raphael Klein and Mrs. Herbert Kletske, Seymour Werbalowsky, Joseph Honig, Harry Gold, Gilbert Adin, Aaron Adin, Irving Levine, Leon Miller, Sidney Halpern and Irving Kalish, Joseph Levine, Richard Kalish, Miss Rae Weiner, Carl Pauker, Julius Kirschner, Dr. Herbert Derman, Mrs. Shirley Fletcher, Haskell Naigles and Herbert Gertner.

Three Face Death

Cairo, Egypt, Oct. 14 (AP)—Egypt's revolutionary court returned three more death sentences today against persons convicted of "high treason and espionage against Egypt." Those sentenced today to hang were Boulos Maximos Soucha, Alfred Awad Mikhail and Mohammed Ezzat Ragheb. Two other Egyptians have been sentenced to death on similar charges in the treason trials underway since Sept. 26.

Wicks' Test May

ing wrong, apparently felt he had enough friends in the Republican-dominated Senate to win a vote of confidence as majority leader and temporary Senate president.

The governor asked Wicks' resignation in a four-hour conference during which, the 65-year-old senator said, Dewey termed the visits to Fay as source of embarrassment to the state administration and the Republican party.

The veteran senator declared he had gone to see the onetime union leader only to ask his help in avoiding labor trouble in the senator's district—Ulster, Greene, Sullivan and Delaware counties.

Wicks told Dewey, however, he would submit his resignation as majority leader and president pro tem "at the next session of the Legislature" so that his fellow senators could "pass upon my fitness."

The Republicans control the Senate, 37 to 19.

As temporary head of that body, Wicks has been serving as acting lieutenant governor since the Sept. 30 resignation of Frank C. Moore, who left to become head of a private research group.

Plans Not Known

While Dewey's leadership of the Republican party in the state has heretofore gone unquestioned, it is not known whether he plans to seek a fourth term next year.

Some observers feel that should Wicks win the fight Nov. 17, Dewey unquestionably would not run for governor again. These same observers see the Wicks matter as already damaging to the party.

It apparently is too early for anyone to predict with certainty how Wicks' colleagues will react in the test of strength.

Dewey said Monday he did not intend to take any steps to induce Republican senators to reject Wicks. However, the governor already has made his feelings in the case clear to them and to the public.

Wicks is not without friends in the Senate, where he has served since 1927, the last four years as majority leader.

Observers feel the fact that he has done favors for many senators, Democratic as well as Republican, may stand him in good stead.

Sen. Walter J. Mahoney of Buffalo is considered likely to succeed Wicks, should he lose the contest. Mahoney is chairman of the powerful Senate Finance Committee.

Sen. John H. Hughes of Syracuse also is viewed as a possible successor.

Poll Is Made

Garden City, Oct. 14 (AP)—The newspaper Newsday said today a survey shows Gov. Thomas E. Dewey has "almost solid backing of county GOP leaders across the state in his controversy with acting Lt. Gov. Arthur H. Wicks.

In a copyrighted article, Newsday published the replies of 51 county chairmen to a series of 5 questions asked them yesterday by telephone. The paper said it did not try to contact Wicks, who is Ulster county Republican leader, and was unable to contact the chairmen of 10 other counties in the state.

To the key question of the poll —"As county chairman do you support Governor Dewey or Senator Wicks and why?—23 answered they supported or leaned toward Dewey; 2 favored Wicks, with reservations; 13 said they needed to know more facts before taking a stand; and 13 had no comment.

Comments Quoted

Typical of those backing Dewey were the comments of:

Burt D. Ludington, Orleans: "We have to support the leader of the party whether he is right or wrong...we'll stay neutral but if it comes to a showdown, we'll have to support the organization."

Bert C. Cate, Schuyler; "I will support the governor (because)... he stands for the party."

Howard Marsha, Clinton: "I always support Governor Dewey. I do so at all times because I know he is honest."

Dudo, Bailey Back Wicks

The two backing Wicks were Lewis county's Dwight N. Dudo and Greene county's Milton O. Bailey.

Dudo said that "from what I know he (Wicks) has done nothing wrong." He added he might change his views if "the full story" were revealed.

Bailey, whose county is part of Wicks' senatorial district, said his sympathies were with Wicks but "I don't want to say whom I would support . . . if a party fight develops."

Dr. E. Ogden Bush, leader of Delaware which is also in Wicks' district, said he would not take a stand until "I know more about this thing."

Four Questions

Newsday listed its other four questions and the tabulation of replies as follows:

1. Do you think it was proper for a high official of the state government to seek solution of a labor, or any other problem from a convict in Sing Sing?—22 answered it was improper, 5 it would be proper under certain circumstances, 8 wanted more facts, 16 no comment.

2. Do you think Wicks' visits to Fay have hurt the GOP and will hurt the party in the 1954 congressional elections if he doesn't resign or if he is not forced out?—22 will not hurt, 5 will hurt, 12 unable to say yet, 12 no comment.

3. Do you think Wicks should have resigned for the good of the Republican Party?—8 replied he should, 10 not necessarily, 17 wanted more facts and 16 no comment.

4. Do you think Wicks should resign as senator as well as majority leader and acting lituten-ant governor?—Newsday said the replies were too varied to make any tabulation possible.

Would Stay Aloof

Albany, Oct. 14 (AP)—Richard H. Balch, Democratic state chairman, feels the 19 Democratic members of the New York Senate should remain aloof from the showdown battle next month over the fate of Arthur H. Wicks as Senate majority leader, an informed source said today.

Balch, in Utica, said he did not want to comment "at all at this time" on the position to be taken by the Democratic minority when the question of Wicks' resignation as leader is brought up at a special session of the Legislature, called by Gov. Dewey for Nov. 17.

Balch himself has said he believes Wicks should resign as majority leader and temporary president of the Senate, in which capacity the Kingston senator is serving as acting lieutenant governor, because of his visits to labor extortionist Joseph S. Fay in Sing Sing prison.

It is expected that Balch will meet the Democratic legislative leaders prior to the special session to decide what course will be followed.

He is known to feel that if the Wicks issue reaches the floor of the Senate—instead of being decided in a Republican caucus—the 19 Democratic members should vote for Minority Leader Francis J. Mahoney for the majority leadership.

Two Testify They Paid Cash Bribes

New York, Oct. 14 (AP)—A doctor and a dentist from upstate New York testified today they paid $5,000 to have their dishonest tax returns "fixed."

It was a dead loss, however, they admitted because the government later on forced them to cough up $23,200 for the unpaid taxes.

Both men were federal witnesses at the trial of five former tax collectors. H. Harold Miller, Catskill accountant, previously told of receiving the bribe money and passing some of it to the men on trial.

Dr. Thomas Earl McQuade, of Coxsackie, said Miller told him "apparently I was in a hell of a jam with the government and $4,000 would straighten this thing out."

He said he paid Miller this amount, and was assessed a little under $2,000 on his 1946-48 returns. On re-examination last summer, he paid $16,500 additionally, he said.

Dr. McQuade said the Coxsackie lawyers who prepared his returns did not know his figures were dishonest.

Dr. David Perry Brown of Catskill, the dentist, said he also was not honest in preparing his 1946 return and was "careless" about marking down his receipts.

Eisenhower Says

added that while it was a Republican gathering, it wasn't a partisan meeting.

So far as Pennsylvania politics went, it was strictly non-partisan from the President's standpoint. He gave no one leader in the state's mixed-up Republican political situation a smile a whit wider than another.

Gov. John S. Fine, who can't seem to agree with Sen. Duff (R-Pa.) on the man the Republicans ought to run for governor, got exactly the same treatment as Duff. They and Sen. Edward Martin (R-Pa.), another factor in party differences, shared the Presidential box, but none got a private word with Eisenhower.

But the presence at the party of Gov. Dan Thornton, Colorado Democrat, may have reminded Eisenhower of the politicking to come in a seven-day journey to the central and southern states. He is due to leave Washington tonight.

Thornton has called a meeting of governors of drouth-hit states in Kansas City, where Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Benson will have to wrestle with that problem on his trip.

The upset victory of the Democratic candidate in a special Congressional election in Wisconsin has pointed up the problems the President and Benson face.

Wisconsin District

leaders referred to the election as an indirect slap at Joseph R. McCarthy, Wisconsin's controversial junior senator, he took no part in it and neither candidate made major issue of McCarthy in their campaign.

Hull, Johnson and Padrutt all were at one time members of the Progressive Party founded by the son of old "Fightin' Bob" LaFollette—the late Sen. Robert M. Jr., and Philip, three times governor of Wisconsin. The party was dissolved in 1945 when Padrutt and Hull went into the Republican ranks and Johnson became a Democrat.

After conceding defeat Padrutt declared: "I have stood four square behind President Eisenhower and I still stand there. I fail to see how a Democrat can help him but the people have expressed their choice and I accept it. The results show very clearly that the farmer and laboring man do not like the present administration's policies and took this opportunity to show their displeasure."

Leaders of the Democratic party in Wisconsin agreed with Padrutt that Johnson's election was a blow to Eisenhower and his administration's farm policy.

Bicycling Oldsters

Huntington, W. Va. (AP)—Elza Barrett, 72, and his brother Sam, 70, retired Chesapeake & Ohio railroaders, are unusual sights in this modern city of 85,000. They ride bicycles all the time — for business as well as pleasure. Both used to drive cars but neither does any more. Sam explained that he had an automobile more than 25 years ago but just "got tired of it" and switched to the bicycle. Elza switched last year when an insurance company refused to write a liability policy on his car because he is over 70.

Melon Mystery

Pay Rolls Grow

Montevideo (AP)—Official figures show that 145,691 Uruguayans are on the government pay roll in this country of less than 2½ million inhabitants. Economists, said the figures fail to take into account a great number of part-time state employes. Moreover, there are 60,000 living off old age pensions as former industrial and commercial employes, and 16,000 old age pensioners from the public services. The newspaper La Manana said half a million Uruguayans now depend for their living on direct government funds.

recommendations of the joint chiefs, one which the Security Council thought might warrant still another look.

Summing up, Wilson said "we made progress" with the material the military men took to the Security Council meeting.

Wilson, under questioning, said the joint chiefs' "new look" must be completed before the end of the year "so we can really know what we are talking about" when the budget makers get down to writing definite dollar figures.

Only One-Line Estimate

The prospect is that the President's budget message to Congress next January will contain only a single one-line estimate of the military fund needed for fiscal 1955, with details to be filled in later. At a news conference a week ago, Wilson speculated it might be three years before the Russians had an adequate number of atomic bombs and planes to wage sustained atomic war.

Eisenhower later directed all members of his official family to clear statements on the subject with the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) before making them publicly.

Did Wilson want to change the record of last week's conference?

The secretary replied he saw "no reason why I should."

But he chuckled and said he had thought of inviting Lewis L. Strauss, AEC chairman, to a news conference "and then I can get my stuff censored promptly."

Mrs. Cordts Injured

Police were notified yesterday that Mrs. Matilda L. Cordts, of 132 Lindsley avenue, suffered a wrist fracture because a speeding motorist forced the car in which she was riding, driven by her son, John N. Cordts, of 63 West Chestnut street, to stop suddenly at Lindsley avenue and East Union street, Monday. The Cordts car, the report said, was headed out of Lindsley avenue when the speeding car cut in front on East Union street. The Cordts car stopped suddenly and Mrs. Cordts was thrown forward against the back of the front seat. Others in the car were shaken up, the report said.

In the days of sailing ships, some superstitious sailors feared to go to sea in a ship which did not have a figurehead.

Wisconsin District

leaders referred to the election as an indirect slap at Joseph R. McCarthy, Wisconsin's controversial junior senator, he took no part in it and neither candidate made major issue of McCarthy in their campaign.

Hull, Johnson and Padrutt all were at one time members of the Progressive Party founded by the son of old "Fightin' Bob" LaFollette—the late Sen. Robert M. Jr., and Philip, three times governor of Wisconsin. The party was dissolved in 1945 when Padrutt and Hull went into the Republican ranks and Johnson became a Democrat.

After conceding defeat Padrutt declared: "I have stood four square behind President Eisenhower and I still stand there. I fail to see how a Democrat can help him but the people have expressed their choice and I accept it. The results show very clearly that the farmer and laboring man do not like the present administration's policies and took this opportunity to show their displeasure."

Leaders of the Democratic party in Wisconsin agreed with Padrutt that Johnson's election was a blow to Eisenhower and his administration's farm policy.

Bicycling Oldsters

Huntington, W. Va. (AP)—Elza Barrett, 72, and his brother Sam, 70, retired Chesapeake & Ohio railroaders, are unusual sights in this modern city of 85,000. They ride bicycles all the time—for business as well as pleasure. Both used to drive cars but neither does any more. Sam explained that he had an automobile more than 25 years ago but just "got tired of it" and switched to the bicycle. Elza switched last year when an insurance company refused to write a liability policy on his car because he is over 70.

Melon Mystery

Pay Rolls Grow

Montevideo (AP)—Official figures show that 145,691 Uruguayans are on the government pay roll in this country of less than 2½ million inhabitants. Economists, said the figures fail to take into account a great number of part-time state employes. Moreover, there are 60,000 living off old age pensions as former industrial and commercial employes, and 16,000 old age pensioners from the public services. The newspaper La Manana said half a million Uruguayans now depend for their living on direct government funds.

Hall and his woman friend, arrested last week in St. Louis, were brought back to Kansas City yesterday. It was Mrs. Heady who lured Bobby away from a private school in Kansas City Sept. 28 and turned him over to Hall.

Two matrons at the St. Louis city jail last night described Mrs. Heady as "the most hard boiled woman prisoner" ever to occupy a cell there.

Wilson Says Time

recommendations of the joint chiefs, one which the Security Council thought might warrant still another look.

Summing up, Wilson said "we made progress" with the material the military men took to the Security Council meeting.

Wilson, under questioning, said the joint chiefs' "new look" must be completed before the end of the year "so we can really know what we are talking about" when the budget makers get down to writing definite dollar figures.

Only One-Line Estimate

The prospect is that the President's budget message to Congress next January will contain only a single one-line estimate of the military fund needed for fiscal 1955, with details to be filled in later. At a news conference a week ago, Wilson speculated it might be three years before the Russians had an adequate number of atomic bombs and planes to wage sustained atomic war.

Eisenhower later directed all members of his official family to clear statements on the subject with the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) before making them publicly.

Did Wilson want to change the record of last week's conference?

The secretary replied he saw "no reason why I should."

But he chuckled and said he had thought of inviting Lewis L. Strauss, AEC chairman, to a news conference "and then I can get my stuff censored promptly."
